An SLA inventory on weapons and targets

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — While the remnants of the Symbionese Liberation Army enlarged their arsenal and gathered the makings of a bomb factory, they collected thick files of information on business and government activities and notes on corporate officials.

Weapons, explosives and cryptically labeled file folders were listed in a 128-page inventory of items discovered at two apartments — one that had been occupied by Patricia Hearst and Wendy Yoshimura and the other by SLA members William and Emily Harris.

The FBI, which catalogued the items but declined to elaborate on many of them, made the inventory public Monday.

Miss Hearst, the Harrises and Miss Yoshimura were arrested on Sept. 18. Miss Yoshimura charged with a bombing and the other three accused of a variety of charges including bank robbery and kidnaping.

The two apartments yielded 17 guns ranging from .38-caliber revolvers to sawed-off shotguns and thousands of rounds of ammunition. In the Harris apartment, agents found several pipe bombs and materials for making more explosives.

In a file folder marked "Money," agents found a one-page diagram that apparently showed the interior of a bank teller's window, with the notations "window," and "till, coins, cash drawer."

Separate pages mentioned "Wells Fargo La Sierra," and "B of A Marysville."

There is a Wells Fargo branch office on La Sierra Drive in Sacramento. A spokesman for the Bank of America said the Marysville branch has not been robbed in the past 18 months.

Miss Hearst is charged with participating in the April 15, 1975, robbery of a Hibernia Bank branch in San Francisco.

In Sacramento on Monday, Chief Deputy Dist. Atty. Geoffrey Burroughs said authorities there are investigating robberies at the Crocker Bank in suburban Carmichael on April 21, 1975, and the Guild Savings and Loan Co.'s Sacramento office on Feb. 25, 1975, for possible SLA connections.

The four robbers who shot and killed a woman patron during the Carmichael robbery wore ski masks.

The FBI inventory of the Harris apartment included a navy blue ski mask.

In both the Hearst and Harris apartments, agents found more than a dozen wigs, large quantities of makeup and cosmetics and a wide variety of sunglasses and clothing.

Phony identification documents, including college student ID cards and California drivers' licenses in the names of deceased persons, were also found in both apartments, along with more than 100 books ranging from Marx and Lenin to Herbert Marcuse and Chairman Mao.

Hundreds of clippings from the New York Times, Wall Street Journal, San Francisco Examiner, San Francisco Chronicle, Oakland Tribune and other publications were also found in the Harris apartment.

$25,000 offer to kill Ford

1 million jobless in despair

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than one million Americans have given up all hope of finding jobs and have dropped out of the labor market in despair, yet they aren't being counted in the government's unemployment figures, a private study says.

The study, prepared by former Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz and former Labor Department statistician Harold Goldstein, says the government's unemployment figures are accurate as far as they go.

But the study, released Monday, says no effort is made to count the estimated 1.2 million Americans who have lost hope and left the labor force, persons who hold part-time jobs but want full-time work or those whose income falls below the poverty level.

The report was prepared for the National Manpower Institute, a private organization.

In other economic developments Monday:

—Treasury Secretary William E. Simon told Congress that President Ford may decide this week whether to recommend reductions in individual income taxes next year. Simon said the President will meet later this week with his economic advisers to decide if the 1975 tax reductions should be extended through 1976.

—The Treasury Department told the House Ways and Means Committee that it cannot yet predict future government spending trends and is unable to decide on a new national debt ceiling.

—A survey for the Super Market Institute, a trade association, said consumers have eased off on their budget-cutting techniques and that more Americans are blaming high prices on grocers.

The survey said in November 1974 a total of 8 per cent of those surveyed blamed grocers for high prices. As of July 1975, that figure had grown to 11 per cent.

But the No. 1 villain in the high-price survey was the government, with 42 per cent blaming Uncle Sam. Seventeen per cent blamed wholesalers, 11 per cent blamed the public and 10 per cent blamed unions. A total of 35 per cent said "no one" is to blame.

RESCUE ATTEMPT

Ex-felon held; link to militant group

WASHINGTON (AP) — An undercover agent of the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms was offered $25,000 within the past month to kill President Ford, the director of the bureau said today.

Rex D. Davis, in a statement prepared for a Senate subcommittee investigating the Secret Service, said the individual who approached the agent was arrested the day following the offer, after sufficient evidence was gathered.

Secret Service sources said the incident occurred during Ford's visit to St. Louis, Mo., earlier this month.

It was during that visit that a man with a .45-caliber pistol was spotted by a policeman on a catwalk in Kiel Auditorium an hour before the President was to speak there.

The man escaped despite an extensive police search, and the President delivered his speech on time and without harm.

It was not immediately clear whether that incident and the offer of money for Ford's death were related. The White House and the Secret Service would not comment.

In his statement, Davis also said his agents acquired information during the past month from an informer "relating to the informer's contact with a member of a militant organization.

"The subject was a twice-convicted felon armed with three highpowered rifles and a possible automatic weapon," Davis said. "The felon indicated he was en route to a city where a meeting with a militant organization was to take place to discuss the President's scheduled visit to that city."

In his prepared statement, Davis made no other mention of the $25,000 offer to kill Ford, except to say it occurred in a Midwestern city during September.

Davis made the disclosures while detailing examples of cooperation between his bureau and the Secret Service.

Treasury Secretary William E. Simon, whose department is responsible for the Secret Service, defended the agents as "highly competent, well-trained individuals and, as they have shown time and time again, they are also wholly dedicated to their mission."

The investigation by the Senate subcommittee on Treasury, Postal Service and general government appropriations, follows two assassination attempts on President Ford within 17 days.

Subcommittee Chairman Joseph M. Montoya, D-NM., said the hearings were being held "to examine our options and look for solutions" to the problems confronting the agency whose best known job is the protection of the President.

"We must make sure that adequate resources — money and manpower — have been made available to the Secret Service," Montoya said.

Secret Service Director H. Stuart Knight asked the panel for a supplemental appropriation, saying it was needed "to handle the increased demand upon the Secret Service."

Patty taken from jail cell for tests

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Patricia Hearst was taken by federal marshals from her Redwood City jail cell today and driven to an undisclosed location for psychiatric testing, the U.S. marshal's office said.

The marshal's office said that on Monday, Miss Hearst was taken to Stanford University Medical Center, less than 10 miles south of the jail, where she was examined by Dr. Donald Lunde.

Lunde is one of four specialists appointed by U.S. District Judge Oliver J. Carter to determine whether Miss Hearst is mentally competent to be cross-examined.

A hearing on the psychiatrists' findings that was scheduled for today was postponed when Miss Hearst's attorneys reported the tests had not been completed.

Carter said the prosecution would seek to cross-examine Miss Hearst on an affidavit in which she swore she was tortured and brainwashed by her Symbionese Liberation Army captors.

Miss Hearst's lawyers, claiming a "marked deterioration in her mental state" since the tests began, have asked a federal judge to order the newspaper heiress moved to a hospital from the San Mateo County Jail.

Lawyer Terence Hallinan said "a really heavy afternoon" of testing during the weekend "took a terrible toll on her."

He said the doctors have expressed some concern that she might attempt suicide.

Dr. Michael Coburn, a clinical instructor in psychiatry at the University of Southern California, said Monday that Miss Hearst is probably undergoing standard "projective" tests.

"They're tests designed to uncover underlying conflicts, to get beneath the conscious levels," said Coburn, who specializes in legal psychiatry.

Doctors to provide own insurance

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Doctors in North Carolina agreed today to form their own mutual insurance company after St. Paul Fire and Marine Insurance Co. announced it would no longer provide medical malpractice coverage in the state.

Dr. James E. Davis, president of the North Carolina Medical Society, said the company would go into operation as soon as $1 million is raised and legal technicalities are overcome.

Davis said the arrangements would take about two weeks to complete. In the meantime, he said, physicians will have to decide whether to risk lawsuits by seeing patients.

St. Paul's decision to end coverage in North Carolina came six days after state Insurance Commissioner John Ingram refused to implement a number of policy changes requested by St. Paul.

Refugees—with Ford OK—to be sent home

WASHINGTON (AP) — With President Ford's approval, 1,541 Vietnamese refugees now on Guam will be sent home aboard a Vietnamese ship to an uncertain fate.

U.S. officials said the refugees, who have appealed persistently for repatriation, turned down advice that they wait until it was clear they would be accepted by the Communist regime in Saigon.

Several had threatened immolation if they were not put aboard the Vietnamese ship now docked in Apra Harbor.

The U.N. high commissioner for refugees, Prince Saoruddin Agha Khan, and his special assistant, Zia Rizvi, have just completed a mission to Hanoi. They reportedly advised State Department officials to try to delay the return of the refugees until acceptance was certain.

Because of adamant refugee leadership, a decision was made to send the refugees home, hoping they would be taken in as were two other shiploads from other countries.

Some 130,000 Vietnamese and Cambodian refugees were evacuated by U.S. forces last spring as the Communists took control of Saigon and Phnom Penh.

Although tens of thousands have resettled in the United States, many others have had severe difficulty adjusting. In California, for instance, 9,000, or more than half of the 17,000 in that state, are on welfare.

Several hundred Vietnamese in this country also will be repatriated if the shipload from Guam is accepted in Saigon, U.S. officials indicated.

In Agana, Guam, Acting Gov. Rudy Sablan announced to a cheering crowd of refugees that President Ford has approved a plan to send them back home.

However, Sablan said it would be about three weeks before the 2,500-passenger Thong Tin can receive the necessary repairs to make it seaworthy.

No change in economic index

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government index designed to anticipate future economic trends gave an inconclusive signal today, showing no change during August.

The Commerce Department reported its composite index of a dozen key economic indicators was unchanged after five consecutive months of increases.

60 feared dead in air crash
Sharks tear at bodies

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A Hungarian jetliner with 60 persons reported aboard crashed into a shark-infested area of the Mediterranean off the Lebanese coast early today, and rescue workers said there appeared to be no survivors.

"The sea is full of sharks," said a boat owner who visited the crash site. "They're tearing into the bodies, making recovery work very difficult."

Airport officials said the passenger list carried the names of 35 Arabs and 15 foreigners, at least one of them thought to be an American. There were 10 Hungarian crew members.

Port authorities said Lebanese navy boats had recovered 29 bodies by midmorning.

The Soviet-built TU154 of Hungary's Maalev airline was on a flight from Budapest to Beirut. A government statement said it crashed into the sea six miles northwest of Beirut at 2:32 a.m. as it was making its approach to land.

A source at the airport control tower said the pilot made routine radio contact nine minutes before his landing time, gave his position and said he was coming in. There was no indication that anything was wrong.

He was supposed to check in again with the control tower one minute before putting down. When he didn't, the tower tried to contact him but got no answer.

The British Royal Air Force in Cyprus said the control tower notified it immediately that it had lost contact with the plane. A RAF C130 Hercules was in the area and sighted the wreckage. The Hercules circled the crash site until it was joined by Lebanese air force jets nd helicopters which guided the Lebanese navy boats.

Yachtsmen from the St. Georges Yacht Club who went to the site said they could see no sign of life among the wreckage. They said bodies and pieces of the plane were scattered over a wide area.

The Hungarian government sent a team of investigators from Budapest to try to determine the cause of the crash.

Effective tomorrow, Oct. 1, the home delivery price of the Progress Bulletin will be increased from $3.25 to $3.60 per month.

The increase of 35 cents has been brought about by the constant rising cost of production. The Progress Bulletin continues to be among the lowest priced California newspapers published seven days a week.

The increase represents only slightly more than a penny a day for one of the few products still delivered to the home.

A portion of the increase will go to the carrier who delivers your Progress Bulletin five afternoons a week and Saturday and Sunday mornings.

Drunk drivers can keep license if they join alcoholism program

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California will try to curb drunken drivers by letting them keep their driver's licenses on condition they steer into one-year alcoholism programs.

Under legislation which became law Monday, the drivers would have to pay for the treatment, and they wouldn't get out of any jail or fine penalties.

The author, Sen. Arlen Gregorio, D-San Mateo, said the law which suspends the licenses of second-offense drunk drivers does nothing to treat their drinking problems. Besides, most of them continue driving anyway — without insurance — because it's the only way they can get to work, he said.

It's up to the judge to decide which drivers are "fit subjects."

The treatment programs may be private or public, but all must win approval of the state Office of Alcohol Program Management. Among requirements are a face-to-face interview every other week and various drying-out services.

The program is to be started next year in up to four "demonstration counties," yet unnamed, and extend statewide in 1978.

The law won't apply to felony drunk driving.

Democratic Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. permitted the bill to become law without his signature.

The bill was one of five in Gregorio's anti-alcoholism package. Brown vetoed two others, including one to finance research and treatment with a tax increase on alcoholic beverages. He signed two others into law.

One signature reported Monday was on a Gregorio bill to set up independent administration, regulation and funding of state-supported alcoholism programs. They are now administered by the mental health system.

The bill would replace the Office of Alcohol Program Management with the Office of Alcoholism, and make minor changes in the ways counties set up priorities for state-funded alcoholism programs already established.

The counties now pay 10 per cent of the costs, with the state paying 90 per cent, with property tax revenue. One of the bills Brown vetoed would have replaced the countys' share — from $6 million to $8 million — with the increased tax on alcohol.

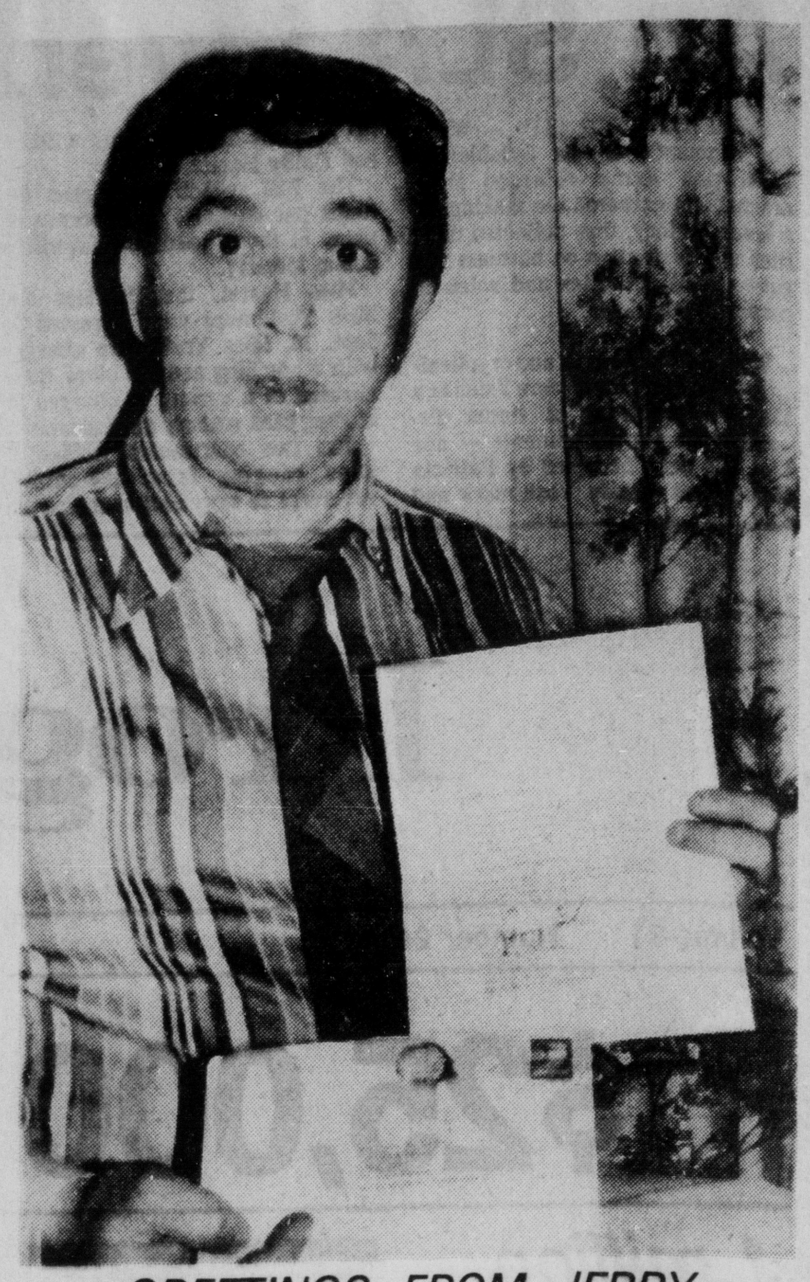
In a statement, Gregorio repeated his intention of seeking an override of Brown's veto.

He also said, "Much of my time and effort in the next few years will be devoted to legislative oversight of the Office of Alcoholism. They have the authority now to bring leadership to the field. I will hold them to exercising it diligently and responsibly."

The drunk driving bill is SB 330.

The Office of Alcoholism bill is SB 744.

The vetoed tax bill was SB 204.



GREETINGS FROM JERRY

The note asked about Ludwig's health and ended: "Mrs. Ford and I join in sending our warm wishes to you." It was signed Jerry Ford.

MOOSE ON THE LOOSE

A wild moose sent a dog into a swift retreat in Burlington, Vt., Sunday. But the moose was brought down with a tranquilizer gun before it caused any harm. The moose had wandered into gardens and a park without doing any damage. It was released in a rural area.

State imposes controls on surface mines

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. has signed a bill that backers say could prevent any new open pit mining in Death Valley.

The measure, which moved through the California Legislature virtually unnoticed, requires permits and reclamation plans for new strip mining or open pit mining.

Signed Monday, it goes into effect Jan. 1.

Tenneco Mining last June filed 47 claims on 940 acres of federal land in Gower Gulch, which attracts 500,000 visitors annually as a major attraction of Death Valley National Monument.

Death Valley contains about the only borate deposits in the United States.

When the bill was introduced by Sen. John Nejedly, R-Walnut Creek, it was intended only to regulate gravel pit mining.

But Charles Warren, chairman of the Assembly Committee on Resources, Land Use and Energy, said the bill requires miners in Death Valley to get permits from Inyo County planners.

An aide to Nejedly, John Testa, said, "Whether or not the bill has any effect on Tenneco remains to be seen because it is not clear if the state has the authority to regulate activities of this sort on federal lands."

Testa said the matter will probably be tought out in the courts.

Boron compounds are used in antiseptics, insulation, insecticides, paint, preservatives, fire extinguishers, and in ceramic and metalurgical operations.

Death Valley is under National Park Service management, but mining is not prohibited by federal law.

The bill would also:

—Prohibit surface mining unless a permit is obtained from the county or city agency involved.

—Require cities and counties to adopt ordinances to establish review and approval procedures.

—Specify that no firm is required to obtain a permit if it has spent a substantial amount of money and has made a significant start in surface mining operations at a location before Jan. 1, 1976.

It is SB 756.

Patty tricked by parents into signing affidavit—Emily Harris

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Symbionese Liberation Army member Emily Harris says Patricia Hearst was tricked by her parents and attorneys into signing an affidavit in which she said she was brainwashed and tortured by the SLA.

"Who is brainwashing whom?" Mrs. Harris said Monday in a statement taped from her jail cell in Los Angeles.

She described Miss Hearst as a "truly beautiful woman who is being manipulated by her parents" into abandoning her SLA comrades, Mrs. Harris and her SLA soldier-husband William.

"Since our capture, the Hearst empire has put into motion all the power and influence that blood money can buy. The two of us are the sacrifices this time," Mrs. Harris said.

"The Hearst family and the entire ruling class of this country have attempted to brainwash the world into accepting poverty, racism, sexism and other forms of oppressions," said Mrs. Harris, adding that her husband, William, also being held here, concurs in her message.

"Where brainwashing hasn't worked these same interests have engineered wars, military coups, political assassinations, puppet governments and fascist regimes," she added.

Mrs. Harris branded as "a lie" the affidavit in which Patty says she was brainwashed by the SLA.

"These lawyers are attempting to destroy her strong sense of her own self-determination," Mrs. Harris said.

Meanwhile, one of Miss Hearst's attorneys said at a San Francisco news conference Monday that psychiatrists had expressed concern that she might try to commit suicide if she is forced to remain in her San Mateo County jail cell.

Attorney Terence Hallinan said Miss Hearst's mental health is rapidly deteriorating in the jail.

"She's been spaced out. It's harder to get her to talk. She becomes overwhelmed by tears much faster. She cannot even begin to get into these areas that her mind has closed on."

Hallinan said Miss Hearst should be transferred immediately from the jail to a hospital for psychiatric treatment.

In other developments in the Hearst case:

—U.S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter postponed for one week a hearing scheduled today on Miss Hearst's mental competence to be cross-examined. The judge was told that pychiatrists' tests on the heiress were not ready.

—Steven Soliah, a 27-year-old housepainter, pleaded innocent Monday to charges of harboring Miss Hearst and being an accessory after the fact in a bank robbery. Soliah, who was arrested with Miss Hearst and Wendy Yoshimura, another fugitive, is being held on $75,000 bail.

—A list of items taken from the hideouts used by Miss Hearst and the Harrises showed they had amassed quantities of weapons, disguises and false identification. The Harris apartment also contained materials used to make bombs, including pipes, clocks and about five pounds of gunpowder.

—The Harrises appeared in a Los Angeles court and were refused permission to participate in a secret grand jury hearing probing the SLA.

Jury deliberates rape-victim case

NORWALK (AP) — Jurors in the Deborah Kantaeng murder trial have begun weighing the fate of the 20-year-old woman accused of slaying the man she says raped her.

Superior Court Judge Beach Vasey gave the nine-man, three-woman jury their final instructions Monday and told them they could reach any of five possible verdicts in the case.

Miss Kantaeng could be found not guilty of the charge she murdered Danny C. Allen, 21, of Santa Ana on Oct. 3, 1974. She also could be found guilty of first or second degree murder or of voluntary or involuntary manslaughter, the judge said.

100 in family learn of rare gene disease

OAKLAND (AP) — The descendants of Antone Joseph, a Portugese immigrant whose genes carried a crippling and fatal disease, say they are relieved to know more about the mysterious family illness that has killed 48 of them.

More than 100 family members gathered for tests and counseling at Oakland Children's Hospital last weekend, and some of them learned for the first time that they have the illness.

Doctors named the incurable neurological disorder, which occurs only in family members, "Joseph's Disease."

"Early on, people notice that they start getting wobbly and staggering and their speech becomes slurred," explained Dr. William Nyhan, professor of pediatrics at the University of California at San Diego. "As time goes on they become increasingly spastic...usually it's at least 10 years from the onset of the illness to the time of the patient's death."

Nyhan and Dr. Robert Rosenburg, a neurological expert from the University of Texas at Dallas, conducted the clinic, which was sponsored by the National Genetic Foundation of New York City.

"A single gene carries it," Nyhan said. "And females are equally good at transmitting it. Every time you have a child, there's a 50-50 chance of transmitting it and that, in genetic terms, is a huge risk, the biggest risk we deal in."

Nyhan counseled parents who face the possibility of passing the disorder on to their offspring:

"We had two brothers and one said, 'With this information, I'm simply not going to have any children.' The other said, 'I'm not going to limit my life in any way, I'm going to live my life regardless of this.'"

"It was an emotional experience," said family member Rosemary Silva of nearby Livermore, who traced the descendants and organized the clinic with the aid of the NGF. "For years we didn't know what kind of disease we had."

The incorrect belief that the disorder was linked to venereal disease had made many family members reluctant to discuss the illness, said Mrs. Silva, who is not affected.

L.A. moves to outlaw cheap guns

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The City Council has voted to endorse proposals to outlaw the manufacture and transportation of cheap, low-caliber handguns known as "Saturday Night Specials."

The measure, passed 8-5 Monday, favored making existing "Saturday Night Specials" contraband subject to confiscation.

Councilman Zev Yaroslavsky, who introduced the proposal, said, "This is a positive, healthy step toward a saner community."

After the vote, Yaroslavsky said the action was "a definite step in the eventual direction of a total handgun ban."

But Councilman Donald D. Lorenzen disagreed.

"The first step the Communists take is to disarm the citizens," Lorenzen said. "The Communist Party has said it won't have to attack the United States. It will go after us from within."

Councilman Dave Cunningham, however, said his vote for handgun controls had nothing to do with the communists.

"With our missiles and $100 billion military budget, I'm not so worried about the communists," Cunningham said. "What I am worried about is guns and crime."

And for another view, there was Councilman Gilbert W. Lindsay, who said, "I'm thinking about getting myself a sure enough gun to protect myself in this crazy society. The crooks out there have guns. And not an important person in history has been killed with the kind of gun you are talking about."

Law opens local govt. appointments to public

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Local governments will have to open up their meetings when appointments are considered under a state law that takes effect Jan. 1. If they don't, they could be ordered to pay court costs and legal fees if they are challenged in court and lose.

Despite objections from the League of California Cities and the County Supervisors Association, Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. last week signed the measure by Sen. George Moscone, D-San Francisco.

Bill Keiser, a spokesman for the League of California Cities, said his group urged Brown to veto the measure for two reasons:

—"Our basic feeling was it was an example of the legislature applying a standard of open government that they didn't apply to themselves."

—And a judge can award legal fees to a person who goes to court when he is denied access to public meetings or records.

Proponents of the measure said that awarding of legal fees was long overdue, and a similar law for state appointments was unnecessary because of the Senate confirmation process.

The measure, supported by the California Newspaper Publishers Association, still allows government agencies to meet in private when considering such matters as firing of an employe on the basis of performance.

"If it's a good idea for local governments, it should be good for the state," Keiser said, adding that he doesn't believe Moscone's Senate confirmation argument is a "good analogy."

He said the bill has a double standard for awarding attorney fees, allowing awards for successful plaintiffs yet making defendants pay the fees if the plaintiff loses unless the judge determines the suit was "frivolous."

George Cook, a lobbyist for the County Supervisors Association, said, "Probably we are not going to see a large number of people stepping forward to serve on those panels because of the scrutiny they will have to go under."

But proponents said that legal fees stopped many persons from challenging governments in court when these agencies allegedly chose to ignore open government laws or interpreted them in their favor.

It is SB 1.

Brown signs law to lower drug costs

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A bill aimed at saving Californians up to $40 million a year in prescription drug costs is now law.

The bill by Assemblyman Barry Keene, D-Eureka, was one of 48 bills signed Monday by Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.

Brown also let one bill become law without his signature, and vetoed 13 others.

The prescription drug bill, vehemently opposed by major drug manufacturers, permits pharmacists to sell chemically equivalent drugs in place of more expensive brand names. To take effect Jan. 1, it codifies a practice approved by the state Consumer Affairs Department earlier this year.

But doctors can still forbid substitution of a particular prescription.

Sen. Anthony Beilenson, D-Los Angeles, said in floor debate that many doctors and hospitals have used to so-called "generic substitution" for years.

"None of this is very new," he said. "Millions of prescription are written generically every year. We don't know of one death that has resulted from substitution."

Among other bills, Brown signed one requiring each grocery item in a supermarket to be marked with its price, even though the market uses a computerized check-out system.

Also signed were a bill adding a student to the board of trustees of the California State University and Colleges, and another creating an office of state public defender.

Brown vetoed a bill that would have required parole dates to be set within a specified time for each person convicted of a crime other than first-degree murder.

He also vetoed one to create separate statistics on the San Fernando Valley, and another setting up a state Department of Tourism and Motion Picture Development.

The one he allowed to become law without his signature permits persons convicted twice or more of drunk driving to keep their licenses if they enroll in supervised alcoholism programs.

Brown's action reduced the number of bills still on his desk to 181. The deadline for action on bills passed at the last session of the legislature is midnight Wednesday.

The bill to require separate statistics on the San Fernando Valley was by Sen. Alan Robbins, D-Van Nuys, who is reportedly interested in running for mayor of Los Angeles.

Brown said in his veto message it would create "an administrative burden of significant proportions" for Los Angeles, and such decisions should be made locally.

Of the Department of Tourism bill by Sen. George Moscone, D-San Francisco, Brown said he vetoed it because there is "no credible evidence that a special state bureaucracy in California can promote tourism more effectively than the chamber of commerce and local business."

The vetoed bill to require the Adult Authority to designate parole dates within a set time after a prisoner is first committed was introduced by Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Los Angeles.

Brown said the Adult Authority is already doing much of what the Sieroty bill required, and he said it would be premature to set the bill's provisions into law.

But a Sieroty aide, Gary Garfinkle, said that the Adult Authority is not quickly giving parole dates to about 10 per cent of the state's inmate population. He said the AA also does not have to state its reasons for individual parole dates, a process included in the Sieroty bill.

Congress is to blame for oil increase—Ford

WASHINGTON (AP) — Price controls on domestic oil are officially in effect again, but President Ford says fuel costs will increase anyway and that only Congress is to blame.

Ford signed a compromise bill Monday, extending price controls on most domestic oil until Nov. 15. But he warned that the extension would not affect the newly increased prices of imported oil produced by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC).

"When the price of gasoline goes up at the service station, I want the American people to know exactly where the blame lies," Ford said. "Until Congress acts, there is nothing this country can do about arbitrary OPEC price hikes — and there may be still another fuel price increase next June."

The President accepted the price-control extension bill as a temporary compromise with Congress, but he said the measure "does nothing to reverse our growing oil dependence" on OPEC countries.

He said Congress must use the time of the extension to pass some sort of national energy measure agreeable to the White House.

OPEC countries, meeting in Vienna, agreed Saturday to hike oil prices by 10 per cent. Ford said the increase "provides beyond any further argument the urgent need for the United States to reduce its growing dependence on imported fuel at prices arbitrarily set by others."

Ford has proposed speedy removal of price controls on domestic oil to push prices up, forcing Americans to adopt conservation methods while supplying oil companies with revenue to seek new energy sources.

Congress has sought a longer period for phasing out controls, along with legislated stabilization or rollbacks of prices.

The bill signed Monday requires that some 60 per cent of domestic oil have a maximum price of $5.25 per barrel, compared with world market prices of about $12.

Ford signed the bill in the Oval Office without the usual gathering of congressmen generally present for such ceremonies. He said Congress had failed to take one step to increase domestic oil output or to lessen dependence on imported oil, which now costs the United States more than $25 billion per year. If that money could be spent at home it could provide jobs for a million Americans, he said.

That brought a quick reply from Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., who has led opposition to Ford's energy proposals. He said Ford could cut two cents from fuel costs by freezing prices of "new" domestic oil and by removing a $2 per barrel tarrif imposed earlier this year.

"All it takes is two things," Jackson said. "His signature on a piece of paper and some backbone. He put in the tax to raise prices and to discourage the use of oil. The OPEC cartel is doing that for him."

But the White House argued that if Congress had approved decontrol of domestic oil prices OPEC would have seen U.S. determination to solve its energy problems and the price hikes would have been discouraged.

OPPOSITION TO HIS VISIT

While Japanese Emperor Hirohito and Empress Nagako wave to crowd from a plane ramp (right) shortly before their departure this morning, leftist students struggle with riot police in Tokyo Monday night in protest to the emperor's visit to the United States. It is the first official visit to the U.S. by a Japanese monarch. Two hours before the departure, police shut off highways half a mile from the airport entrance in the Tokyo suburbs, while a carefully selected crowd of 2,000 gave the royal couple an airport send-off.

Post office customers can now complain

WASHINGTON (AP) — Did that package marked "fragile" arrive in your mailbox in a battered condition? Did this month's girlie magazine arrive dog-eared with the centerfold torn out?

Now you can tell it to the post office.

Beginning Wednesday, the Postal Service is launching a program that will invite disgruntled postal patrons to air their complaints.

Unhappy customers will be able to obtain a "consumer service card" from post offices and from letter carriers. The complaints written on the card will get quick attention, the Postal Service says.

The new system will "let us know, in a quick and simple way, about service problems," Postmaster General Benjamin F. Bailar said in announcing the program.

Bailar's announcement came before the House voted Monday to revoke the Postal Service's financial independence as a result of dissatisfaction with the way the service operates.

The campaign "reflects our feeling that the idea of good service must mean more than the speed of delivery. It involves responsiveness and understanding, too," Bailar said.

The Postal Service decided on the national program after trying out the consumer service card this summer in Arizona, Illinois, Rhode Island and Massachusetts.

The number of complaints over the six-week test period in the four states was 9,890. In the same period last year there were 7,473 complaints taken to postal officials by residents of those states.

The consumer service card is a two-piece card, two postal cards with carbon paper between them. After filling out the top copy, the two cards can be separated.

One of the prepaid postal cards goes to the local postmaster. The other goes to the Postal Service's Office of Consumer Affairs in Washington.

After acting on the complaint, the local postmaster is to explain on the reverse side of his copy of the card how the problem was handled. Then, he is to mail his copy of the card to Washington.

Meanwhile, in Washington, the information from the other card is used to create an index of consumer satisfaction. The card allows not only for complaints, but also for information requests, suggestions and other comments.

"I believe that once the new program is firmly established, it will demonstrate both our willingness to solve people's problems and the over-all high quality of our service," Bailar said.

Hirohito's visit now underway

WILLIAMSBURG, VA. (AP) — Japan's Emperor Hirohito, who has known the United States both as a bitter wartime enemy and now as a close Pacific ally, arrived here today on a history-making, two-week state visit.

On an overcast day and with strict security precautions, the emperor, accompanied by his wife, Empress Nagako, arrived at nearby Patrick Henry International Airport for a two-day rest stop at this historic city. His itinerary includes six major U.S. cities and several smaller ones.

The imperial couple's plane, carrying an entourage of 38, touched down at 10:34 a.m.

Aside from a brief 1971 visit the emperor made to Alaska while en route to Europe, none of the 124 Japanese emperors in an imperial line dating back almost 14 centuries has ever come to the United States.

The emperor and his party spent an hour and 11 minutes at Alaska's Anchorage International Airport late Monday while their plane was refueled.

The Japanese ambassador to the United States, Takeshi Yasukawa, boarded the plane in Anchorage to accompany the emperor on his tour.

Security at the airport was extremely tight, with shotgun-carrying guards surrounding the plane, a specially refurbished DC8 JAL craft. More guards were on the roof of the airport.

The emperor travels to Washington Thursday to meet with President Ford. The White House meetings will be strictly nonpolitical, in keeping with the exclusively ceremonial nature of the emperor's reign. He will also visit New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Honolulu.

Security precautions will be extraordinarily tight throughout the tour. As the emperor left Japan, some 4,000 persons protested the visit to the United States.

Japanese leftists have protested that the visit has political overtones. About 2,500 demonstrators protested in the streets of Tokyo on Monday, but there were no reports of major clashes with riot police. Agents at U.S. ports reportedly have been closely checking incoming Japanese.

Hirohito's arrival here is being telecast live to Japan. More than 350 Japanese newsmen will be traveling with Hirohito, but they won't have much to do in Williamsburg. The Imperial household doctor has called for complete rest for the 74-year-old monarch during his stay here.

It is possible the imperial couple will take a horse-drawn carriage ride Wednesday morning to the building which served as a colonial capitol during Williamsburg's heyday two centuries ago.

Beyond that, the emperor and empress are expected to spend their time here confined to the Queen's Suite at the Williamsburg Inn, a whitewashed brick structure decorated in the English Regency style.

Because of the need for rest, the emperor reportedly has declined an invitation to visit the grave of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, located about 25 miles from here in Norfolk.

It was Emperor Hirohito who appeared before MacArthur at the end of World War II to take personal reponsibility for Japan's war policies. Subsequently, MacArthur presided over the American occupation of Japan.

Ford's compromise on secrets rejected

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House intelligence committee is taking its fight with the Ford administration over Central Intelligence Agency secrets to the full House.

Rejecting a compromise offered by President Ford, the committee voted 10 to 3 Monday to ask the House to back its demands for the data.

With that confrontation brewing for House action possibly next week, the committee returned to its hearings on the quality of U.S. intelligence. Today it was studying intelligence estimates made before Turkey's 1974 invasion of Cyprus.

Inviting a confrontation with Ford over Congress' right to secret information, the committee voted Monday to ask House approval of a resolution saying defiance of the committee's subpoenas is a "grave matter requiring appropriate enforcement."

Chairman Otis G. Pike, D-N.Y., has said "appropriate enforcement" includes contempt citations against such officials as CIA Director William E. Colby and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and even a court test of Congress' rights to information.

The resolution also would direct Colby to turn over documents on the 1968 Vietnamese Tet offensive.

Colby issued a statement saying the matter is grave indeed because "it goes to the heart of whether the United States can conduct intelligence operations."

Colby said he could not turn the subpoenaed Tet documents over to the committee until some agreement is reached as to the documents' possible disclosure, adding he was still hopeful an agreement could be worked out.

But the committee rejected a White House compromise that would give the panel access to secret information except for "identifies of secret agents" and diplomatic exchanges that would be embarrassing to foreign governments and thus damaging to U.S. foreign relations.

"If we go to the House and demand that names of agents be disclosed, we're going to be in difficulty," said the committee's senior Republican, Rep. Robert McClory of Illinois.

An SLA inventory

In a file folder marked "Oil — PG&E — etc." was a clipping of a picture of Charles De Brettville, Bank of California board chairman and a member of the boards of directors of Pacific, Gas & Electric Co. and Safeway.

Literature of the New World Liberation Front (NWLF), a radical group closely associated with the SLA, was also found. Police have described the NWLF as a small terrorist organization. The carport of De Brettville's home was firebombed on Aug. 4, 1975, and the NWLF issued a communique claiming responsibility for the act.

Law enforcement sources say Harris was deeply involved in the NWLF, which has claimed responsibility for more than 22 bombings in the past two years, many against PG&E.

Other newspaper clippings found in the apartment concerned World Airways, the Oakland-based charter airline that played a large role in the South Vietnamese babylift, and its president, Edward Daly. One item was described as a two-page list of individuals with the heading World Airways.

Other companies on which clippings had been collected included Safeway, International Telephone & Telegraph, 3M, Gulf, Mobil, Texaco and Standard Oil of Indiana.

California Atty. Gen. Evelle Younger and Alameda County Dist. Atty. Lowell Jensen were among government officials about whom clippings had been gathered.

Ford on road

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford flies to the Midwest late today on an overnight trip tailored to limit his exposure to the general public and ease the job of protecting him.

Ford's journey to Chicago and Omaha will be his first outside Washington since Sept. 22 when a woman in San Francisco fired a shot in his direction, the second apparent assassination attempt in 17 days.

P.O. subsidy cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House, voting to revoke the financial independence of the U.S. Postal Service, is sending a message to the service about the "Pony Express" quality of mail delivery.

The House voted 267 to 123 Monday to cut a proposed extra subsidy of $1.7-billion for the Postal Service and to require the service to come to Congress annually for funding and to put its revenues in the general treasury.

Hostages still held

LONDON (AP) — A woman member of the Black Liberation Front told three gunmen besieged in the basement of a restaurant today that they had been disowned by the immigrant organization and should free their six Italian hostages and give themselves up.

The woman, reportedly a friend of the gunmen known as Sister Yemmi, said they had no chance of escaping the police net around the downtown restaurant or of being flown out of Britain.

"You are on your own. Give yourselves up," she said.

Demands met?

PARIS (AP) — France is delivering military supplies to rebels in Chad but is "worried" that it has had no word when they will release Francoise Claustre, a French archeologist they have been holding for 17 months, a presidential spokesman said today.

Xavier Beauchamps told newsmen that Hissen Habre, leader of the antigovernment rebel group in the central African country, had not committed himself to a release date during negotiations with a French emissary last week.

However, a French newspaper reported that Habre told its special correspondent that Mrs. Claustre, 38, might be freed in three weeks.

TVN folds

NEW YORK (AP) — TVN Inc., which has called itself an independent television news network, says it will all but shut down Oct. 31 because of the high cost of producing and distributing the news.

The Adolph Coors Co. of Golden, Colo., brewers of Coors beer, is the major stockholder in TVN Inc. The brewery's politically conservative president, Joseph Coors, had viewed TVN as an alternate source of television news to what he considered liberal-oriented news departments of the three major networks.

Police on strike

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — About 300 of the Kansas City Police Department's 323 officers have walked off their jobs in a wage dispute. Sheriff's officers, highway patrolmen and Kansas Bureau of Investigation agents have been sent into this city of 170,000 to provide police protection during the strike.

Wyandotte County District Court Judge Cordell Meeks issued a temporary restraining order against the strike Monday, but there was no indication that members of the Fraternal Order of Police planned to return to work.

A TVN spokesman said Monday the directors decided to end the 2½-year-old news operation after the Coors brewery withdrew its financial support.

The announcement of the impending shutdown in New York, Washington, Chicago and Los Angeles was made Monday over a regular afternoon feed to the network's more than 80 subscribing stations in the United States and Canada, the spokesman said.

Gladys heading for coast

MIAMI (AP) — A revived hurricane Gladys, with winds of 110 miles an hour and expected to strengthen, plowed through the Atlantic today on a course which could take it to the U.S. mainland, forecasters said.

"This could become a major storm," Gil Clark, a forecaster at the National Hurricane Center in Miami, said late Monday. "Satellite pictures show a very well-defined eye."

For days, Gladys hovered just above the 74 m.p.h. wind speed that classifies a storm as a hurricane. It rapidly picked up strength Monday and forecasters said the storm should strengthen.

At 6 a.m. EDT, Gladys was about 850 miles east and slightly south of Miami at latitude 25.1 north and longitude 67.4 west. It was moving westnorthwest at 15 m.p.h. It was expected to keep that course for the next 24 hours, slowing to 10 to 15 m.p.h.

If steering currents do not turn it further to the east, it could make landfall somewhere on the Eastern Seaboard within the next three days, the center said.

But Clark said it is too early to predict where, if anywhere, Gladys might touch land.

Gales were extending out as far as 150 miles from the center, but no land area was immediately threatened, forecasters said.

A cold front that was expected to weaken Gladys moved out of the storm's path near the Bahamas, and a high pressure system left behind as sister hurricane Faye moved into colder North Atlantic waters helped boost Gladys late Monday.

Faye, which brushed past Bermuda last Friday, was downgraded to a low pressure system as it moved further into the North Atlantic on Monday.

30 killed in train collision

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — A commuter train crashed into the rear of stopped passenger train Monday night 30 miles north of Buenos Aires, killing at least 30 persons and injuring about 100, police reported.

Some of the injured were in critical condition.

El Rosarino, which travels the 170 miles between Buenos Aires and Rosario daily, was waiting for a signal when the commuter train smashed into it.

The last car of the Rosario train was demolished and the two in front of it were heavily damaged, officials said.

The commuter train's diesel locomotive was wrecked but did not explode. The engineer and his assistant were badly injured, but no passengers aboard the commuter train were reported hurt.

At least 50 passengers were aboard the last car of El Rosarino.

"People were screaming, jumping out of windows and running off into the countryside," one witness said.

The wreck occurred in a sparsely populated area where the track curves sharply down a hill. It is near the site of the worst railroad accident in Argentine history, in which 236 people were killed and 400 were injured on Feb. 1, 1970.

Policemen, firemen and ambulances were hampered by darkness until a local fire department provided portable lights.

Firemen and police cut their way into the wrecked cars with blowtorches all night in search of victims. The injured were taken to hospitals in nearby towns or in Buenos Aires.

The cause of the accident and the reason both trains were on the same track was not immediately determined.

The Grand Rapids hydroelectric project began producing power for Manitoba, Canada, in 1964.

Singer stricken on stage

CHERRY HILL, N.J. (AP) — Singer Jackie Wilson was in critical condition today after suffering a heart attack on stage.

Wilson, 42, was stricken Monday night at the Latin Casino, where he was appearing with other pop singers in Dick Clark's "Good Ol' Rock 'n' Roll" show. He had just finished his final number, "Lonely Teardrops," when he collapsed on stage.

Clark rushed to his side and called for the curtain. Moments later, Clark emerged from behind the curtain and asked the audience to pray for Wilson.

The singer was taken to the coronary care unit at the Cherry Hill Medical Center. A native of Detroit, he lives in Atlanta.

Checkmate: Boris marries

MOSCOW (AP) — Former world chess champion Boris Spassky married his French fiancee today after months of difficulties with Soviet and French authorities.

"I hope this marriage will give me an extra queen in my chess competition," said the 38-year-old Spassky, who lost the world championship to Bobby Fischer in 1972.

He was married in a five-minute civil ceremony to Marina Stcherbatcheff, 30, a secretary in the commercial section of the French Embassy.

A few friends attended the ceremony in the Wedding Palace on Griboyedova street, but they were outnumbered by foreign journalists.

In contrast to the long white dresses and veils worn by many Soviet brides, Miss Stcherbatcheff wore white slacks and a white sweater with a string of blue beads. Spassky wore a brown sport coat and russet slacks.

"We plan to live in Moscow, and I plan to play chess," said the bridegroom.

"I am very happy," said the bride, who will probably have to give up her job with the Embassy.

Despite pleas from photographers, Spassky declined to kiss the bride.

Spassky and Miss Stcherbatcheff met last fall, a few months after he parted from his Russian wife, and he moved in with her in January. When they made their intention to marry known, the Soviet government tried to block the marriage and the French Embassy tried to discourage it.

Spassky said he was denied permission to travel abroad and his apartment was robbed. The Soviets revived a year-old traffic charge against Miss Stcherbatcheff, and she was told she would have to leave the Soviet Union by today. Spassky and Miss Stcherbatcheff were told they could not get on the marriage schedule until Nov. 11.

Spassky and his fiancee decided to fight and told Western newsmen of their plight. The case was seen abroad as a test of the Helsinki declarations, especially the pledge to facilitate international marriages. After the publicity abroad, the way was suddenly cleared for them to marry, and the wedding date was moved up.

The new Mrs. Spassky said she didn't know how long her job would last, but when she lost it, she might do translation work.

"I think everything will be okay, I am an optimist," said Spassky as he drank a glass of champagne with his new wife.

He said they planned no honeymoon because he is preparing for a chess tournament next month in Moscow. After the tournament, he would like to travel to France to meet her parents, who are Russian emigres, he said.

Spassky was asked if his bride plays chess.

"Fortunately not," he replied. "I don't think that is necessary."

Forum will explore future of Village

Claremont residents and businessmen will have the opportunity to express their views on proposed changes in The Village business district when the Chamber of Commerce holds a public forum Wednesday at 7:45 a.m. at The Imperial Savings and Loan Association building.

Consultants Owen Menard and Associates of Claremont will present the Phase II Report, "Claremont Village Directions for the Future," having to do with the redevelopment of The Village, an area between Indian Hill Boulevard and Harvard Avenue, and First Street to Harrison Avenue.

Phase I was Menard's report on parking recommendations for The Village.

City Manager Norman King said that any parking code changes will require a rezoning of the entire village area so that a separate district can be established.

Last Tuesday, the City Council sitting as the Redevelopment Agency approved the hiring of a parking enforcement officer to encourage greater use of private parking areas and reduced all-day use of public stalls, both curb and lot.

Phase II outlines a range of possible directions for the agency to take as far as public improvements, land use and design and development code changes are concerned in the village.

According to King, "grand schemes are not appropriate, but narrow-mindedness at this juncture is not wise."

King said he thinks nothing much will happen unless those persons interested in The Village "aggressively and with concensus express their desires" about what they would like to see the Redevelopment Agency do.

King hopes that key decisions can be made by December.

"The question is not whether the agency should have a specific plan, should change the building code, or contract for market analysis, but rather to determine what projects and directions are desired now," King commented.

King stressed that the agency has a unique opportunity to look beyond just planting a few street trees or buying some well-designed street furniture, and should explore seriously how the agency can assist in making the village area even more attractive to private investment and business activity that will reinforce and enhance what is already in the village.

King noted that the agency already has committed funds for certain cosmetic-type improvements including planter areas on Yale Avenue, curb ramps at many intersections in the village, street trees and sidewalk repairs.

Copies of the Menard report are available at the library, chamber of commerce or city hall.

BICENTENNIAL FACTS

Americans were complaining about mail delivery two centries ago when colonists grumbled that letters crossing the Atlantic took two weeks longer westbound than eastbound. Benjamin Franklin, Deputy Postmaster of the Colonies, blamed the Gulf Stream. In 1769, he advised captains of British mail packets sailing west to the New World not to fight the current and drew a chart of it to guide them on the sea, The World Almanac notes.

Horse shows resuming

The Kellogg Arabian horse shows will begin their 50th season Sunday at 2 p.m. on the Cal Poly Pomona campus.

The opening show will have some of the most popular features of past seasons, including the "granddaddy" of the show, Tezadi, 17-year-old Arabian, who will walk on a four-inch bannister, push a baby buggy and put a 50-cent piece in a cash register.

The mare and foal act this Sunday will feature a nine-day-old foal, one of the youngest to ever appear in any Kellogg show.

Other events are the Arabian costume, the cattle event, English and western pleasure riding demonstration, jumping and novelty class.

Admission is $1.25 for adults and 25 cents for children. Special group and organization rates are available by calling 598-4153.

Wax show trip slated

The San Dimas Recreation Department will conduct an excursion for adults only on Oct. 8 to Movieland Wax Museum and Knott's Berry Farm.

The bus will leave San Dimas City Hall at 9 a.m. and return at 6 p.m. A fee of $9.50 will include transportation, admission to both parks and an 11-ride ticket book.

Registrations must be made in advance and will be accepted at City Hall.

Those wishing additional information may call 599-6713 Ext. 40.

Efforts underway to reopen La Escuelita

Efforts to revive La Escuelita (the little school) at 833 W. Monterey Ave., Pomona, are being made by the Cherrieville Council, a group of volunteers dedicated to improving their own community.

The building housing La Escuelita needs repairing. To raise funds for that purpose, young people of Cherrieville will hold a car wash and a cake sale Saturday, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The car wash will be held at Carl's Service Station at the southeast corner of Holt Avenue and Hamilton Boulevard. The bake sale will be held at La Escuelita.

With Lupita Espinoza, 23, as director, La Escuelita has helped children 3 to 5 prepare for the experience of entering public schools.

In the past the school has been funded through the City of Pomona with general revenue sharing money. Those funds are no longer available but the project is receiving Comprehensive Training Employment Act funds. County funds also are being sought to continue operation of La Escuelita.

Donations toward the work also are being sought. Checks made out to Cherrieville Council may be sent to the school address. Prospective contributors who want to know more about La Escuelita may call Miss Espinoza at 629-4938 or leave a message at 593-4533 or call Rudy Gutierrez, Cherrieville Council leader, at 623-6131.

L.V. College plans a day to brief veterans

An open house is scheduled by La Verne College for veterans who are interested in going to college.

Members of the college staff will be on hand to advise veterans from 3 to 6:30 p.m. Thursday at the offices of the new veteran's affairs program, director Frank Vidaure says.

According to Vidaure, services have been expanded to include not only those veterans on campus, but all veterans in the community and those at the La Verne College residence centers on military bases. "Members of the staff are available throughout the week to assist with academic counseling, job placement, tutorial needs, admission and financial aid information, housing and recreation," he explained.

To aid the veteran and his family further, Vidaure described a program of human assistance services, which offers information regarding welfare, food stamps, consumer rights, drug abuse, emergency food and clothing and legal assistance.

4-H signups in La Verne

The La Verne 4-H club will hold a membership signup Oct. 14 at 7:30 p.m. in the La Verne Community Building.

All persons interested in joining the club are urged to attend. Those who want more information may call Mr. or Mrs. Gene Bauer at 599-5287.

Ayala mulls work camp for young parolees . . . 2 McVittie bills pass

STATE SEN. RUBEN AYALA, D-32nd Dist., said he is exploring the possibility of establishing a volunteer camp program for unemployed youth with emphasis given to a program for parolees.

Crime is a big problem in the nation and one way to help solve the problem is to give young people something interesting and practical to do, he added.

"This project would not only be helping young people but also help our state accomplish work which is currently being neglected."

Ayala and C. A. Turhune, deputy director of the California Youth Authority, have discussed using abandoned military, federal or state camps as a halfway point in the rehabilitation of wards released on parole from youth authority institutions.

The program could be expanded for all youthful offenders, expecially first offenders, with their consent and motivation for rehabilitation, Ayala said.

The youths could work with the Forestry Service and park departments on such projects as anti-pollution of streams, lakes, anti-erosion, forestry, fire prevention and fire fighting, road and bridge building and road maintenance, he said.

ASSEMBLYMAN BILL McVITTIE, D-65th Dist., has seen two measures he introduced in the State Assembly signed into law by Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.

One measure will enable cities to respond quicker to municipal emergencies by raising the limit from $3,500 to $5,000 on public works projects needing to go through lengthy formal bidding procedures.

"Many cities have been forced to waste valuable time and efforts collecting bids for small projects which need immediate action," he explained. McVittie reported the $3,500 bidding figure was set in 1969 before inflation caused prices to skyrocket. The $5,000 is a more realistic limit in today's economy.

The second measure was designed to give greater protection to depositors in savings and loan associations by prohibiting these financial institutions from making loans to officers, directors, major stockholders and employes of their holding companies.

"An obvious conflict of interest appears when directors who control a savings and loan association may borrow from its depositors' funds," he declared. "A healthy savings and loan industry is a vital part of the California economy. The good will and confidence of investors are essential for continued growth and prosperity of the industry."

REP. DEL CLAWSON, R-33rd Dist., said public interest in the nation's Bicentennial celebration is creating a new national shortage in flags.

He urged persons wanting American flags flown over the nation's capitol to place their orders as soon as possible at his office in Whittier at 13601 E. Whittier Blvd., suite 401. The telephone number is (213) 945-1404.

Clawson said "Bicentennial," "Bennington" and "Betsy Ross" flags are in even more uncertain supply, with waiting periods ranging from weeks to months.

REP. MORRIS K. UDALL, D-Ariz., a Democratic presidential candidate, has charged that President Ford's new energy proposal ignores the consumer, conservation methods and the impact on the environment.

In a recent speech to members of the California Bar Association in Los Angeles, he said Ford was guaranteeing high unemployment in future years by devoting so much money to this capital intensive sector of the economy.

Declaring the nation has reached the end of an era of cheap energy, Udall stressed the need for conservation methods and expanding new sources of energy.

"Expensive energy systems, such as the one proposed by Ford, will be unnecessary if the country will make a serious commitment to energy conservation.

"By working to cut energy waste and investing in technology to improve energy efficiency and discover alternative sources of energy, we can produce new jobs and new consumer products."

REP. JOHN ROUSSELOT, R-26th Dist., has urged the issuance of a national medal to commemorate the flight of Brig. Gen. Charles E. Yeager, who became the first man to break the sound barrier on Oct. 14, 1947.

He made the flight in an experimental XS-1 at Muroc Air Force Base. The plane had no escape mechanism if the flight failed.

Rousselot has sponsored a bill that calls for a silver medal to be presented to Yeager and that bronze duplicates be sold by the Treasury Department at a price sufficient to recover the cost.

Buffalo chips turned into 'gold'

AVALON (AP) — Where the buffalo roam on Santa Catalina Island, artist Roger "Bud" Upton follows, picking up raw material that he eventually turns into gold.

For 15 years, the 75-year-old artist has been producing gilded buffalo chip plaques.

"It started as a gag. Now, I can't keep up with the orders," said Upton, a lifelong resident of the island, 26 miles off the Los Angeles area coastline.

Some 400 buffalo roam the island's mountains and valleys, descendants of animals taken there by a movie company in 1923 for a stampede scene in the silent film, "Covered Wagon."

Upton's customers include most of the 2,000-odd, permanent residents of the island, hordes of tourists and actor John Wayne, who delights in giving appropriately inscribed plaques to his friends.

Each plaque is inscribed at the bottom with "Genuine Catalina Island Buffalo Chip." Upton also personalizes the plaque with sayings like "All That Glitters Is Not Gold" or with some special message the customer wants.

Making the buffalo chip plaques is a lengthy process, Upton explained, beginning with the task of finding the right kind of buffalo chip.

"Not any old chip will do," he said. "The chip must have character. It can't be too new or too old.

"I sand the bottom, sterilize the chip, bake it. Then I dunk it in two coats of resin and paint it with six coats of gold enamel. After that I make the plaque."

Upton emphasized that chipmaking is an avocation. He makes his living from painting scenes of the picturesque village of Avalon.

"It's a hobby. It certainly isn't a business," he says. "I figure with all the time and work involved, I'm making about 10 cents an hour on each plaque."

He said he used to charge $10 a plaque, but had to raise the price to $28.

Upton said buffalo chips have a special niche in American history.

"Pioneers coming across the plains used thousands of buffalo chips to build fires to keep warm and for heat to cook," he said.

Legal needs of poor unmet

LOS ANGELES (AP)— Less than 15 per cent of the legal needs of poor people in America are being met and nearly half the poor live in areas not even served by legal service offices, says Roger C. Cramton, dean of Cornell Law School.

Cramton, board chairman of National Legal Services Corp., a federal legal services agency set up last year, estimated present legal services can handle only about one million of the seven million legal problems arising each year involving the poor.

"Less than 2,200 lawyers —only about one-half of 1 per cent of the American Bar—are working full time to meet the legal needs of about one-sixth of the population," Cramton said.

"The most generous estimates indicate that less than 15 per cent of the legal needs of the poor are being met today," he added.

Cramton urged the Bar to defend legal service attorneys who are subjected to political criticism or public attack when they fulfill their responsibilities in handling controversial legal issues involving poor people.

He said his agency "intends to provide the leadership necessary to insure that the poor receive the same quality and range of service that is provided to the rich."

"The poor," added Cramton, "are entitled to no more and no less. If full and zealous representation means suing City Hall, or attacking a federal or state administration regulation, that is what the poor client should get."

Ali, Joe get in final shots

MANILA (AP) — Muhammad Ali fired off his final taunts and Joe Frazier let the smoke burn inside himself Monday in the smoldering hours before their 15-round rubber battle for the heavyweight boxing championship of the world.

"The showdown has come," bellowed an emotionally charged Ali, the self-proclaimed instrument of Allah, turning the occasion into a burlesque road show. "Come early, Joe Frazier may sit down before you do.

"This fight will be the complete annihilation of Joe Frazier. It may end before the first round."

Frazier only gritted his teeth and punched the bag a little harder. From the ring, where he held his final workout, he told some 5,000 Filipinos:

"On Wednesday, you will have a new champion."

The defending champion, Ali, was in full voice and high spirits while the one-time titleholder and challenger, Frazier, maintained a tremendous calm and refused any brash predictions of an early knockout.

"The fight will go one to 15 rounds," he said hoarsely. "I will be there. I ain't going nowhere."

The bout is scheduled Wednesday at 10:45 a.m., local time (tonight 7:45 p.m., PDT, in the United States) in the 25,567-seat indoor coliseum. If every seat is taken as promoters predict, ranging from $330 for ringside to $4 in the gallery, the gate would be more than $1.8 million, an indoor record.

Additionally, closed circuit TV is being beamed to 68 countries, including the Soviet Union, and with 380 locations in the United States alone, poses potential revenues of $22 million to $30 million.

"Seven hundred million people may watch this fight," said Don King, the flamboyant, imaginative one-time Ohio numbers king and former convict who has emerged as boxing's modern P.T. Barnum.

"No fight in the past has been witnessed by so many people paying such a price."

Ali is guaranteed $4.5 million against 43 per cent of the gross, Frazier $2 million against 22 per cent. If the extravaganza meets King's expectations, Ali can take home as much as $9 million and Frazier $5 million.

Ali, is the 2-1 favorite based on his eighth-round knockout of big George Foreman to regain the title in Zaire last Oct. 30 and subsequent victories in the past year over Chuck Wepner, Ron Lyle and Joe Bugner.

Frazier, the Philadelphia slaughterhouse butcher who won the title in 1970 and lost it in Kingston, Jamaica, Jan. 22, 1972, when Foreman crushed him in two rounds, has had only two fights since losing a 12-round non-title decision to Ali Jan 28, 1974. He stopped Jerry Quarry in five and Jimmy Ellis in nine.

One of the mysteries of the fight is how much speed and power the challenger has lost since his two bruising battles with Ali, the first won in a 15-round decision, the second lost in 12.

"I have been pointing for this fight for eight months," Frazier said. "I have sacrificed and worked to get at this man again. I have it all together. I don't think I have ever been better."

Frazier weighed in at 214½ and Ali at 224½, both heavier than anticipated. Ali, supremely confident, boxed only one day during the past week, saying, "Why should I box? I know where Frazier will be. His head always will be in front of my fist."

Informed of the champion's comment, Frazier responded: "I know where he is going to be, too. I got the best handlers in the world."

Ali, at 33 two years older than his opponent and a superb 6-foot-3 athlete with dancing feet and quick hands, has indicated he will come out fighting instead of back-pedaling, with the intention of scoring an early knockout.

A comparatively short man— 5-feet-11½—with stubby legs and huge thighs, Frazier does not depend heavily on boxing skills. He is a bore-in fighter, a buzz-saw who will take five shots to land one. His left hook is the most devastating weapon in a limited arsenal which has brought him a 32-2 record with 27 knockouts.

Fox shows fight

Tickets for tonight's championship fight are still available at the Fox Theater in downtown Pomona.

Reserved seats are $15. Doors to the theater open at 6 p.m. with the Muhammad Ali-Joe Frazier fight beginning at 7:30.

Breaking the ties which bind

The San Antonio League's football campaign swings into action Friday, with another exciting race to the SAL title expected by all.

However, one thing will be different in the SAL this fall. In the event of a tie for first or second place, the team picked to represent the league in the CIF 3-A playoffs is not going to be decided by a mad scramble of league administrators.

Instead of the heretofore helter-skelter methods of determining CIF-bound squads from the San Antonio loop, the league has wisely decided upon a formula designed to break up logjams in the standings.

Under the new ruling, a point total will be determined for each of the teams tied in the standings. Eight points will be awarded for a victory over the league champion in that particular season, seven for a win over a second place team, six for a triumph over a third place finisher, and so on down to one point for a win over a last place squad.

These points will be totaled up and the team with the most points will be selected for playoff competition.

If, after all the points are tallied, a tie still exists, the winner of the game between the two schools will be selected. If the two teams tied in their matchup, and are tied in the point totals, the team with the longest period of time since a playoff appearance would be selected.

Then, and only then, if a tie still exists between schools the selection will be resolved by a blind draw.

If all this seems like an extraordinarily complex system of breaking up deadlocks, remember that developments of late in the SAL grid races have in and of themselves been extraordinary. Last fall no less than four squads wound up tied for second in the football standings, with the net result being chaos as far as the league's selection of teams to go to the CIF playoffs was concerned.

This tie-breaker method will prevail in all SAL sports this year, and in fact was put into effect by the league last spring.

One other development of late could also help clarify the playoff picks for the SAL and other prep loops.

No more tie games?

The Southern Section CIF office has ruled that each league within its jurisdiction can use a special tie-breaker system to resolve games ending in a draw.

Under this plan, a game tied at the end of regulation time will continue into a special overtime period. In this extra period a coin flip would decide which team gets the ball first.

From that point the squad winning the coin toss would put the ball in play from the opponent's 10-yard line. They would get four downs to go the 10 yards for a touchdown, or can boot a field goal if they so elect.

Following that series, the other team would get the pigskin, again at the 10, to attempt a score. The first team to outscore the other in these goal-to-go situations is the winner of the game.

As mentioned, the above plan has met with CIF approval. Now the CIF is leaving it up to the individual leagues to decide whether they wish to use it or not.

SAL pondering rule

The Hacienda League has already voted this tie-breaker proposal down, according to Jim Graham, Athletic Director at Gladstone High and the league's secretary.

However, according to league president Dean Smothers of Montclair High, the decision is still up in the air on the tie-breaker in the SAL.

"It looks like it will be defeated, but the league administrators decided to poll the varsity football coaches first before making a final determination," commented Smothers. "I expect to know definitely one way or the other whether the system will be used by Wednesday or Thursday at the latest.

"Obviously, with league play starting Friday we have to know for sure one way or the other by then. It's not the sort of thing that league officials or coaches will decide from game to game. Once we say yes or no to the proposed tie-breaker idea that will be the way the league goes all season."

The proposal is a rather radical one, by football standards, and as Smothers pointed out does not look like something you will see in effect in SAL games this fall. However, it and the league's new plan for deciding deadlocks in the SAL standings are signs that the chaos which happened to the San Antonio League football scene last fall won't happen again. On that point, everyone connected with the league should be pleased.

Stags have new offense

By BILL LANGLEY
PB Sports Editor

John Zinda is a busy man these days at Claremont-Mudd.

Besides all of the normal problems of a football coach, Zinda is installing a new offense for the Stags.

"It's a variation of the Wishbone with the same principles," Zinda said in trying to explain it at Monday's weekly football luncheon at The Castaway Restaurant. "We will still run out of the I formation."

Charlie Schuhmann, the former Bonita High star who is familiar with the Wishbone during his playing career at UCLA, was valuable in helping Zinda.

"Chris Parkson, a coach on my staff, used to coach Schuhmann at Bonita and thought he would be a great help to us," Zinda explained. "So we called Schuhmann and he did a fine job telling us about what makes the Wishbone tick. Schuhmann is on the coaching staff at Crespi High this season. I think he will make a fine coach."

While Zinda is excited about the offense, he realizes the defense was the main reason why the Stags won their opener, 7-3, at St. Mary's last week.

"Our defense played a perfect game," Zinda says, "and it has to carry us for a few weeks until we learn the offense. We have a long way to go yet."

Why did Zinda switch offenses?

"Our players are too small," he answered. "We couldn't block our opponents using the power offense I have used in previous years."

Making the switch has been on Zinda's mind.

"I feel like a brand new coach," he laughed.

The Stags totaled only 160 offensive yards at St. Mary's with sophomore tailback Jimmy Reed accounting for 106 of them on 10 carries.

For his efforts, Reed was selected the College Player of Week by the coaches and writers. Freshman tight end Mike Toomay of Chaffey College earned the JC honor.

Foothill Beverage Company of Pomona sponsors the college awards.

Toomay, a freshman from Claremont High, caught five passes for 48 yards in Chaffey's narrow 19-17 loss to Imperial Valley.

Quoting the coaches:

MAL EATON, MSAC: "We play at Harbor Saturday night. Harbor met Orange Coast last week in a game people predicted would be a battle of bowl contenders. Orange Coast won, 43-6, which indicates the type of powerhouse it must be. Harbor runs the ball well. This is our final non-conference game. I still think we have the potential of being one of the best MSAC teams. We will be settling on our starting teams this week and concentrate on our intensity. We need a win real bad to pull our football team together."

ROLAND ORTMAYER, La Verne: "We went to San Diego for an evening of fun but the University of San Diego was meaner than a snake. We didn't play up to our capabilities. We usually managed to do something wrong. We lost 192 yards on penalties trying to get even. This week, we host USIU. I've heard a lot about how USIU has been losing men but they have enough quality people. We've been lucky through the years against USIU and I would rather be lucky than good."

NO PLACE TO GO

Denver running back Jon Keyworth (32) finds no place to go as Packers Willie Buchanon and Jim Carter (50) meet him head on. Denver won the game, however, 23-13.

Bronco defense shines

DENVER (AP) — The heralded duel between Green Bay quarterback John Hadl and Denver's Charlie Johnson never came off, nor did the running battle between John Brockington and Otis Armstrong.

Both John and Armstrong were sidelined early in Monday night's National Football League game, leaving it up to reserve quarterback Steve Ramsey and an alert Denver defense to star in the Broncos' 23-13 victory.

Ramsey, thrust into action late in the second quarter after Johnson suffered a split nail on the index finger of his throwing hand, passed 10 yards to Jack Dolbin for a touchdown and guided the Broncos into position for the clinching score. Jim Turner's third field goal of the game.

The TD pass was made possible by linebacker Jim O'Malley's interception near midfield and return to the Packer 12-yard line.

After Hadl passed the Packers to within 16-13 late in the game, middle linebacker Randy Gradishar came up with another defensive gem, picking off a Hadl pass and running 44 yards for a score with 40 seconds remaining.

It was Hadl who almost single-handedly made a game of it in the late stages. His aerial wizardry helped atone for a meager Packer ground game that accounted for just 71 yards in the face of a surprisingly sound Denver defense.

"Hadl was just superb," said Denver Coach John Ralston, whose team boosted its record to 2-0 with the triumph. "He did a masterful job. He picked us to pieces in the second half."

Although he finished with 23 completions in 36 attempts for 273 yards, Hadl had to endure a frustrating first half in which he was sacked four times for losses of 31 yards. On numerous other occasions he was forced into hurried throws by an onrushing Denver front four.

But his protection toughened in the second half and Hadl began hitting wide receiver Ken Payne with regularity. Payne caught four passes for 39 yards on the Packers' first scoring drive. Rookie running back Will Harrell caught the four-yard TD toss on the second play of the final period.

Satisfied with the combination, Hadl and Payne hooked up three more times for 45 yards on Green Bay's next TD march. Green Bay reached the Denver two, but it took Brockington four cracks to reach the end zone, consuming precious minutes.

Still, the two interceptions proved to be Hadl's undoing.

Casey hangs 'em up for good

GLENDALE, Calif. (AP) — The "Old Perfesser" is dead.

Casey Stengel, one of baseball's most colorful and adored figures, succumbed to cancer Monday night at the age of 85— leaving a golden legacy for fans of all ages.

"It's just impossible to sum up what he's been to baseball," said a close friend, California Angel General Manager Harry Dalton, after learning of Stengel's death at Glendale Memorial Hospital.

"He popularized our game with so many people."

Stengel died at 10:58 p.m., PDT— only a few hours after a close friend had disclosed that the onetime manager had a rapidly spreading malignancy in the lymph glands. Stengel had been admitted to the hospital on Sept. 14 for tests.

The funeral arrangements are incomplete. He is survived by his widow, Edna, whom he married in 1924. They had no children.

'CASEY'

Stengel was a breathing legend. Perhaps more than any other figure in the history of the game, he earned the title of baseball's goodwill ambassador.

Casey raced into the Hall of Fame with his baseball exploits but it was only a small part of his exquisite contribution to the game he loved.

There are more diamond-like Stengel stories around than you can shake a bat at and countless witticisms from the language of "Stengelese" which he created with his gloriously fertile imagination.

Stengel never would say in a few words what he could say in a couple of hundred and anytime the grand old man of baseball held court, he always had his audience spellbound— and usually mystified— by his fractured syntax.

Stengel was always great in the clutch, Hall of Fame pitcher Warren Spahn once remembered.

"There's no doubt in my mind who is the most amazin' Met of them all," said the great pitcher when he played for Stengel on the old, uproarious New York Mets. "I can understand how he's become an image. Why he's so beloved. Why he's the greatest ambassador the game has ever known.

"That man is a marvel. He's unbelievable. I don't care how old he is. He's got all those young fellows beat by a mile. I've never seen a more understanding person. Or a more dedicated baseball man. Sure, he's a comedian. Sure he double talks. But he's plenty deep. And nobody knows more about this game. If you listen to him carefully and concentrate on what he's telling you, you can learn plenty. A fellow can get an education just being around him."

The sometimes-clownish Stengel leaped across baseball history, spanning the ancient and modern ages with equal ease. And throughout the colorful career that covered 56 years, the hawk-nosed figure produced an abundance of rich stories.

Once when he was managing Brooklyn he took off his hat on the field—and a swallow flew out of his hair.

Another time, at Boston, when his Braves, for a change, were ahead, it began to rain. Casey pointed toward the darkening sky and demanded the game be called. He was ignored until he pulled a flashlight from a pocket and began signalling his bullpen with it. He was ejected.

Sometimes, to demonstrate his shock at an umpire's decision, Stengel would keel over in a mock faint. Once when he used this ploy, umpire Beans Reardon did the same thing. "When I peeked outta one eye and saw Reardon lying on the ground, too, I knew I was licked," said Casey. "So I got up and walked away."

In 1947 Stengel, then 57, was steered to the subject of umpires in an interview. Soon Casey was pounding his desk and shouting, "Those umpires! They take years off a guy's life, believe me. I don't know what keeps me going, honest I don't. They'll be the death of me yet."

In tribute to his 56 years in baseball, Stengel won a niche with the game's other immortals in the Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, N.Y.

He managed the New York Yankees to stunning triumphs and piloted the expansion Mets in the most poignant part of their young history.

Stengel, enshrined in the Hall of Fame when he was 76, managed 37 years, including 25 in the major leagues.

Prior to his years of glory with the Yankees, Stengel had managed the old Brooklyn Dodgers and the old Boston Braves.

Charles Dillon Stengel resigned as the Mets' field boss in 1965 after breaking his hip in a fall. His career managerial mark showed 1,926 victories and 1,867 defeats for a winning percentage of .508. He produced 10 American League pennant-winners and seven World Series titles with the Yankees. He won as many as 103 games one season, 1954, but ironically his team finished second when the Cleveland Indians won more games.

Pros are shortchanged by time

WASHINGTON (AP) — Professional athletes are shortchanged by the traditional channels of collective bargaining because their careers are so short, according to the head of the National Football League Players Association.

The chairman of the House labor-management subcommittee said legislation to expedite cases brought by athletes before the National Labor Relations Board might be in order because of the current NFL labor controversy.

Rep. Frank Thompson Jr., D.-N.J., the panel chairman, said the subcommittee would hear Thursday's testimony by representatives of the NFL Management Council before making recommendations.

Ed Garvey, executive director of the NFL Players Association, told the subcommittee Monday an increasing number of players believe collective bargaining does not work "because of the enormous power of the league owners as opposed to players whose careers span but 4½ years and who have no protection if they are discriminated against because of their union activities.

"Four and a half years is the average, and while we know that there are many exceptions to that rule, we must look at the bulk of the membership to determine whether or not the economic weapons of a union can be used in the context of professional sports," he continued.

"An additional problem is that once a player has missed a year, it is extremely difficult for him to return to the sport. He loses his timing, other players come in to take his place, and the coaches do not want to take a chance.

"Thus, to suggest to a professional football player that the owners will cancel the season if there is a strike really is a threat to cancel his entire career as a professional athlete," he said.

Garvey said the union filed charges against the owners with the NLRB as a result of the 42-day strike in 1974 which came after negotiations over a new contract broke down.

"It took almost a year from the date of filing the charges until complaints were issued," he said. "By the time charges were issued, the union may well have gone under since the owners refused to check off dues, continued to undermine the leadership and continued in their refusal to bargain.

"We currently are in hearings in New York but it will be at least two more years before the cases are resolved because the owners are going to appeal any decision to the circuit court," he said.

The union got a sympathetic reception from some House members.

Rep. John B. Buchanan Jr., R-Ala., a member of the House Education and Labor Committee, said that "some legislative remedy may be necessary" to resolve the players' plight.

"I agree," said Thompson. "We believe the decision-making process (of the National Labor Relations Board) can be expedited."

Testifying with Garvey were union president Kermit Alexander, who was cut by the Philadelphia Eagles last year after 11 years in the league, and Washington Redskins' Roy Jefferson and Jerry Smith.

Coaches talk at luncheon

WALT AMBORD, Pomona-Pitzer: "USIU is a real fine football team. The people they have are football players. You can tell by their muscles. I thought our pass secondary did a fairly good job. We're about two or three games away yet. We anticipate another tough game against Azusa Pacific. We have everything going against us. We hope to make it respectable and make it a good game."

ANDY VINCI, Cal Poly: "We're obviously pleased with our 3-0 record. We played a great game on defense in blanking Northern Arizona. We were well-disciplined, having only one penalty all night. This was the first time one of my teams didn't score a touchdown in a game. But if you can say that and still win, you're all right. Our weakness in the game was our passing and we're working on that. Sacramento State will be another tough test for us this week. Sacramento enjoyed a big upset win over Nevada-Reno."

ZINDA: "We visit Cal Lutheran this week and look at this game like a Mt. Everest. We'll take the challenge and give it a try. Cal Lutheran will give our offense a great test. Our players are working together this year which is a welcome relief."

JERRY SCONCE, Azusa Pacific: "We started out with a lot of fun in our Occidental game but one official didn't show up. I never want to play with three officials again. Our defense did an awesome job and our offensive line really did a job. Don't let Walt (Ambord) lull you. Pomona has one of his finest football teams in my four years at Azusa Pacific. Our main concern is having enough people to play a good game. We're physically injured in key spots."

WILLIE RICHARDSON, Chaffey: "Losing a game the way we did after time ran out was a sorrowful loss for us. We lost it because of a pass interference penalty. If we had let the guy catch the ball, we would have won. It was a real hard loss to swallow but it should bring the team together. Imperial Valley was a good, balanced team. We'll approach Barstow this week the same way. We know Barstow has some explosive individuals."

Vermeil isn't awed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Dick Vermeil is only a second year head coach at UCLA while Woody Hayes has become a legend in 24 seasons at Ohio State.

But Vermeil says he'll feel no awe when he and the Bruins face Hayes and Ohio State at the Coliseum Saturday night in a nationally televised game.

"I've been on the same field as Lombardi and Landry Ewbank and Shula. I worked with George Allen and Chuck Knox. These guys are all great," Vermeil said.

"He's great," Vermeil said of Hayes.

"I'm excited to be coaching against him, but neither Woody nor I will play a down. I'm very pleased I'll have the opportunity to coach against him, that's nice to have.

"But I'm not the least bit awed by it."

The 38-year-old Vermeil is 24 years younger than Hayes' who is in his 30th season as a head coach.

Vermeil took over at UCLA in 1974 leaving the Los Angeles Rams of the National Football League where he was an assistant to Knox.

He earlier served at Stanford with John Ralston, now head coach of the Denver Broncos, was an assistant to Allen with the Rams and worked with Tommy Prothro at UCLA.

Vermeil spoke of Hayes' tradition as a disciplinarian Monday, calling it a mark of an Ohio State team.

"Hayes has built a great foundation of discipline. His players on a bad day will play well because of that discipline established over a period of years," Vermeil said.

"I think maybe his players are scared to death to make a mistake."

The Bruins are ranked 13th in The Associated Press Poll. Both Vermeil and Hayes feel Ohio State should be No. 1 instead of its No. 2 rating.

"I vote the Buckeyes No. 1," said Vermeil.

"When you're the best team in the country, you're great, that's all."

Vermeil said the polls and national television will add incentive to Ohio State while the Buckeyes will give his Bruins a different type of incentive.

"We'll have to play perfect football to win," said Vermeil.

"When you play the best it better bring out the best in you."

The Bruin coach said there was another point of the intersectional meeting — a sort of faceoff between 1974 Heisman Trophy winner Archie Griffin of Ohio State and John Sciarra, the quarterback the Bruins are promoting for the award this year.

"If John had a great game against Ohio State that would help since one of his leading opponents is on the field against him," Vermeil said.

Then Vermeil said something he's said before. "Sciarra, I think, is the best college football player in the country."

Wilt tries to clear slate

LOS ANGELES (AP) — When 7-foot-1 Wilt Chamberlain shows up for his promised practice with the Los Angeles Lakers everyone will know he's there.

Some will wonder why. Others might wish he weren't.

Chamberlain, 30, out of National Basketball Association competition for two years, moved back into the spotlight when the New York Knickerbockers asked permission to talk to him.

The Los Angeles Lakers said he had a year of playing time remaining which was alloted to them.

"I'll report to the Los Angeles practice," said Wilt. "I'll see what they want to do with me."

He spoke through his attorney, Sy Goldberg, and the obvious inference could be, "Why hassle me when you've got Kareem Abdul-Jabbar?"

Goldberg said. "Wilt is going to report to the Lakers. He'll go to their camp today or Wednesday. Apparently the Lakers think that Wilt owes the Lakers a year's worth of playing time. Wilt doesn't want to owe anybody anything."

Jack Kent Cooke, owner of the Lakers and other major sports enterprises, admitted he had talked with Goldberg and said, "Wilt Chamberlain owes the Lakers one year of playing services by way of the NBA option clause. The Lakers expect him to fulfill the terms of that option clause."

Chamberlain expects to be paid $450,000 for the option year and Jabbar was signed as center for the Lakers at $500,000 per annum. The Chamberlain salary would appear to be too much for a backup center.

Still Wilt says that, of this moment, he's not interested in playing for the Knickerbockers. But he wants to be in the position of talking contract to anybody as a free man.

"I talked to Mr. Cooke and told him Wilt is ready to report for practice and his intentions are strictly to play for the Lakers," Goldberg said. "Mr. Cooke informed me that he is close to a deal with the Knicks and I told him that at this time Wilt has no intention of going with the Knicks."

Chamberlain, only NBA player ever to score 100 points in a game, joined Los Angeles for the 1968-69 season in a trade with Philadelphia.

He played five season for the Lakers including the 1971-72 title campaign. Two years ago he left to join the San Diego Conquistadors of the rival American Basketball Association as player-coach. He coached but the Lakers won a court suit against his playing — claiming he owed them the playing time. Then Chamberlain announced his retirement.

"We think he paid his debt to the NBA by not playing for the Q's that year," Goldberg said. "So what are the Lakers going to do?

"Wilt wants to be absolutely free at sometime in his life. He wishes to clear his obligations to the Lakers if any exist."

NFL execs meet

CHICAGO (AP) — The Executive Committee of the National Football League's Management Council held a four-hour meeting Monday.

The group will appear Thursday before the House Labor-Management Relations subcommittee in Washington, but a spokesman said Monday's meeting was not called because of that appearance, although he conceded the "matter was kicked around."

"Our basic interest is to play football games, and the meeting was more for conversation rather than making decision."

Last Tuesday, negotiations between the Management Council and the NFL Players Association broke off with the union taking the owners' latest contract offer to the rank and file for a vote without recommendation.

Of the 25 teams to vote on the contract, 22 voted against it, many unanimously.

"In the aftermath of what happened last week," the spokesman said, "the prospect emerged of playing another season without a contract."

The players went on strike during the 1974 exhibition season and when they were unable to agree on a new contract, they played the regular season without one. They are still playing without a contract.

So are three other managers

Weaver is rehired

By Associated Press

Earl Weaver, Red Schoendienst and John McNamara are all going back to hear the cheers next year. Danny Ozark is going back, too, but may hear some jeers.

Weaver, Schoendienst and McNamara are among the latest baseball managers to sign for the 1976 season. Ozark has been brought back to fulfill the end of his two-year contract despite voices of anger in Philadelphia.

Weaver, one of the most successful managers in baseball, not unexpectedly signed for another season with the Baltimore Orioles for a healthy contract estimated at $85,000.

"There are other managerial jobs opening up," said Baltimore General Manager Frank Cashen, pointing to weekend firings in Minnesota and Milwaukee. "If Earl really wanted to hold out, maybe he could have done better elsewhere."

But Weaver did not want to go elsewhere, as he pointed out after signing for his ninth season with the Orioles.

"Cashen knows that I'd rather stay in with Baltimore than go any other place," Weaver said.

Since replacing Hank Bauer as Baltimore manager in July, 1968, Weaver has guided the Orioles to a 724-477 record for a won-lost percentage of .60283. That beats out Cincinnati's Sparky Anderson (.60269) for second place behind Joe McCarthy for managers with five or more years' experience since 1900. Among his accomplishments, Weaver boasts a World Series triumph.

The St. Louis Cardinals brought Schoendienst back for his 12th year. Under the unflappable redhead, the Cardinals have won 938 games and lost 835 for a percentage of .529. The Cardinals won two National League pennants and captured a World Series under the former Cardinal star.

"The 1975 season was the most disappointing I've had since I took over in 1965," said Schoendienst, whose Cardinals finished tied for third in the National League East. "Injuries were a part of the problems we had, but that's not an excuse. Our pitching staff is young and maybe we expected too much from them too soon."

McNamara pulled the San Diego Padres out of the cellar for the first time in the expansion club's history. The Padres finished with a 71-91 record for fourth place in the National League West.

Like Weaver and Schoendienst, McNamara signed a one-year contract.

Ozark will return to the Philadelphia Phillies for the second year of his contract, but it might not be a happy association if the boo-birds come out again in Veterans Stadium. They booed Ozark unmercifully most of last season, despite the fact that he had the Phillies in contention for the National League East. They finally finished second to the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Along with the Bronx Cheers from the fans, one Philadelphia columnist started an active campaign to have Ozark fired.

Sports briefs

MESA, Ariz. (AP) — Los Angeles Dodger pitcher Tommy John, trying to come back from a severe elbow injury last year, made his second successful pitching appearance Monday in the Arizona Instructional League.

John, who hurled three hitless innings in his first full speed try last week pitched four innings allowing no runs and no hits.

He walked two and struck out two against a team from the San Diego Padres.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Al Burleson of Washington and Danny Reece of Southern California, who made big plays to help their teams win Saturday, share the Pacific-8 Defensive Player of the Week award.

Burleson's contributions in a 14-13 victory over Navy included a 41-yard interception return for a touchdown and the deflection of an attempted two-point conversion pass. Reece took the national major college football lead in punt returning with 150 yards on four opportunities in the Trojans' 19-6 victory over Purdue.

California's Chuck Muncie won the week's offensive honors, totaling 203 yards rushing and receiving in a 33-21 victory over Washington State.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Herb Lusk who scored four touchdowns for Long Beach State and quarterback Roger Profitt who passed for two scores and ran for a third for San Jose State against Stanford were named offensive players of the week Monday by the Pacific Coast Athletic Association.

Lusk also ran for 209 yards in the 49ers' 28-12 victory over Pacific. Profitt threw for 258 yards leading San Jose to its 36-34 upset of the Cardinals.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Former Penn State quarterback Tom Shuman signed Monday with the Philadelphia Bell of the World Football League.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The National League's 1975 total attendance was 377,821 below last season's, although seven of the 12 clubs showed increases and two teams set all-time records.

The Atlanta Braves' gate showing, 534,675 paid admissions compared to 981,085 in 1974, was the major reason for the falloff. But the Braves drew more fans than the financially troubled San Francisco Giants, whose 522,919 total was a slight increase over last year.

Total league attendance, according to figures released Monday, was 16,600,493 led by the Los Angeles Dodgers' 2,539,349 and the Cincinnati Reds' 2,315,603. The Dodgers drew slightly less than last season, but the Reds' total was a club record.

The San Diego Padres' 1,281,747 also was a club record. The Chicago Cubs, New York Mets, Philadelphia Phillies and Pittsburgh Pirates joined the Reds, Giants and Padres in showing increases over last season.

GETTING IT TOGETHER — Guillermo Vilas of Argentina takes a minute to gather himself together before Arthur Ashe decisioned him 6-0, 7-6 in Fireman's Fund International tournament.

Ashe changes game to win 9th tourney

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Arthur Ashe hit the ball hard all week then turned to an assortment of chops, slices, and lobs to win the big one over Guillermo Vilas of Argentina.

Ashe's 6-0, 7-6 victory Monday night at the Cow Palace for the $16,000 first prize was the second in a row for the Wimbledon champion who won the Pacific Southwest at Los Angeles a week ago. He has won nine of 23 1975 tennis tournaments with earnings of $256,850.

"It looks like slop, but it's not slop," Ashe told newsmen who asked about his heavy reliance of soft shots. "What difference does it make how you play — you play whatever way you can to win."

He said his strategy was geared to his left-handed opponent's topspin shots and because he wanted the Argentinian to come up from the back court. "Guillermo likes to slide into the ball, and he can't do it on this (artificial) surface," Ashe said.

One power tool in the varied arsenal of Ashe, the big serve, was not changed and proved a major factor. He scored 15 points on serves Vilas was unable to return. Nine came on aces, with two aces and a near-ace in the 7-4 tiebreaker.

Vilas, at 23 nine years younger than Ashe, said he "didn't play tactically right." He said he was "hitting the ball too hard and trying to play too much near the line" in the early going. He lost the first eight games.

He admitted Ashe's slices bothered him and noted, "Ashe was hitting a lot of lines."

Vilas' runner-up finish in the Fireman's Fund International here increased his leading Grand Prix point total to 700. Ashe moved up to third with 475, passing Bjorn Borg of Sweden and second to Manuel Orantes of Spain who has 589. Vilas' $8,000 prize here boosted his 1975 earnings to $109,525.

The crowd of 9,176 was stunned when Ashe swept through the first five games, losing only one point on his two services and breaking Vilas' service in deuce games. In the last game of the set Vilas surprised by taking the first three points with Ashe serving, but Ashe then served consecutive aces and ran off three more points for the love set.

Vilas started the second set with a double-fault and served two more double-faults as Ashe broke him in a deuced game. The third game also went to deuce and Vilas had two more double-faults, but pulled it out for his first game of the match.

The Argentinan had only two aces in the match and only five other serves Ashe didn't get back. He had missed on his first service 35 times to Ashe's 13 when they reached the tiebreaker.

Vilas said he wasn't too disturbed by his serving because "I don't depend on that. You can't concentrate so much on your serve."

MISSION VIEJO, Calif. (AP) — Lea Antonoplis, a 16-year-old Glendora, Calif. High School star, upset veteran touring pro Wendy Paisch of Australia in the Women's Pro Tennis Classic first round.

Playing as an amateur, Miss Antonoplis took a 4-6, 6-0, 6-2 victory.

She is scheduled to face topseeded Chris Evert in Wednesday's round at the Marguerita Recreation Center.

Playoff teams well matched

NEW YORK (AP) — You couldn't find more evenly matched teams than those in the baseball playoffs which start Saturday.

The Cincinnati Reds and Pittsburgh Pirates, contenders for the National League pennant, split a 12-game series during the 1975 season.

The West-winning Reds and East champion Pirates were so closely matched during the season, in fact, that they scored the same amount of runs—55.

The Oakland A's, champions in the West, and the East-winning Boston Red Sox similarly each won six games of their 12-game American League series. But the A's showed more explosive bat power, outscoring the Red Sox 67-50 during the season.

The home field advantage was significant in each case— with each of the teams holding a 4-2 edge at home. This could come into play next week since the defending World Champion A's will play three of the fivegame set in Oakland and the Pirates also will have that extra game at home.

The playoffs open with two-game sets over the weekend in Boston and Cincinnati.

Jerry Reuss, who won three of four games from the Reds during the season, and Jim Rooker, who started and lost a game to Cincinnati, will pitch the first two games—but not necessarily in that order.

Gary Nolan, the only Cincinnati pitcher to beat Pittsburgh twice this year, ironically probably won't start any of the first two games. Sparky Anderson has said he'll probably open with two left-handers against the East champions—Don Gullett and Fred Norman.

In the American League series, Boston Manager Darrell Johnson has named Luis Tiant as his opening day pitcher. He beat the A's twice without a loss this season. Either Rick Wise (1-1 against Oakland) or Reggie Cleveland (also 1-1 with the A's) will pitch the second game.

The A's are going with Ken Holtzman on Saturday and probably Vida Blue on Sunday. Holtzman won two of three decisions from Boston this season and Blue was 1-1.

Morgan wants award

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Morgan, the Cincinnati Reds' peppery second baseman, says he would be happy to accept the National League's Most Valuable Player award, even though some of his black colleagues have indicated other blacks might turn it down.

"I will gladly accept the National League's MVP Award if I win it," Morgan said Monday, "because I feel I will have deserved it."

Recently, Bobby Bonds of the American League's New York Yankees and Willie Stargell of the NL Pittsburgh Pirates, both blacks, hinted that if a black player was named the NL's MVP, that player might turn it down.

"If Joe Morgan wins the MVP Award in the National League this year, he will be one of the few black ballplayers to accept it," Bonds, a former National Leaguer playing his first season in the AL, was quoted as saying.

"I will not accept the award," said Stargell, who twice—in 1971 and 1973—was considered a strong candidate for the MVP but finished second, behind Joe Torre of St. Louis and Pete Rose of Cincinnati, both white.

In fact, white players have won the last five NL MVP Awards and blacks have finished second. In addition to Torre and Rose, the winners were Johnny Bench of Cincinnati in 1970 and 1972 and Steve Garvey of Los Angeles in 1974. The runners-up, besides Stargell, were Billy Williams of Chicago in 1970 and 1972 and Lou Brock of St. Louis last year.

"I'm aware of the black versus white situation over the last few years," said Morgan, who has impressive credentials for this year's MVP Award. "It's a funny situation, a complicated issue.

"I don't think anyone has done more to help his team win than I have," he added.

This probably was Morgan's best year in his 13 seasons in the major leagues. He batted a career high of .327, fourth best in the National League; drove in a career high 94 runs; scored 107, also fourth best in the NL; stole 68 bases, another career best and second highest in the league, and rapped 27 doubles, six triples and 17 home runs.

"I feel an MVP should be a player on a team that wins," said Morgan. No team in the majors won more games this season than the Reds. They won the NL West title with a 108-54 record, the third highest victory total in league history.

Morgan's stiffest competition for the MVP is expected to come from three of his teammates—Rose, Bench and Tony Perez—plus Philadelphia's Greg Luzinski, and pitchers Tom Seaver of the New York Mets and Randy Jones of the San Diego Padres.

"I know Joe Morgan," said Williams. "He has a lot of pride and I think he would accept the award. But don't be surprised if the award goes to Bench or Luzinski. If by some chance Joe wins it, fine. But if he doesn't, then he'll know what the rest of us went through and how we feel."

The last black to win the NL's MVP was Willie McCovey of San Francisco in 1969. There have been several other black winners since Jackie Robinson broke the color line in 1947.

Morgan was in New York to receive the Seven Crowns of Sports Award as the best baseball player for 1975. His selection was based on impartial and objective statistical

'HERstory in HIStory'

Sweet Adelines do annual show

By JOSEPH H. FIRMAN

The annual show of the Pomona Valley chapter of the Sweet Adelines, staged Saturday night at Ontario High School, was a wild, wacky musical revue replete, as all good barber shop shows are, with fine singing, sentiment and corny humor. ("Let's go down to the rock pile, honey, I'm a little bolder there.")

The comedy, entitled "HERstory in HIStory," was the Sweet Adelines' Bicentennial salute to the place of women in American history. (Mrs. Franklin: "Come in out of that thunderstorm, Benjamin, you're making a spectacle of yourself!") By one of those convolutions that only happen in barber shop shows, the "fem-cee" was an English lass, Joan Taylor. ("The discovery of America was an accident — but not a serious one.")

The Sweet Adelines, directed with vigor and sensitivity by the irrepressible Lois Whitney, offered fine balance, sharp attack and release and rich blending. They belted an opening "I Am!" with robust power, and sang a moody, caressing "The Song Is Ended."

The Sounds of Harmony, made up of Doreen Keepers, Charlotte Nelson, Dee DeFrank and Joanne McGrath, entertained with skillful renditions of "Goody-Goodbye," "Color Him Gone," "Blue Skies" and others. The hilarious Norse Winds were at their comic and musical best with "Nobody Does It Like Me," "A Pretty Girl" and "The Donkey Serenade." The members are Lois Whitney, Ruth Emily, Chris Peurifoy and Mrs. Taylor.

A welcome interlude was offered by the Occidentals, Far Western District champions of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America. A polished and amiable quartet, Russ Walker, Nick Papageorge, Peter Beers and Kevin Smith gave smooth interpretations of "Zippy-de-do-da," "She Didn't Say No," "It's the Girl" and the bathetic "Mother Dear."

Mary O'Neil read John Mitchum's poem, "Why I Love Her" to the accompaniment of a rather frenetic slide show of colored views of America.

The Sweet Adelines chorus wound up the evening with a fusilade of stirring patriotic tunes — "God Bless America," "This Is My Country" and "Battle Hymn of the Republic."

The show was a lot of fun.

MERRY MINSTREL — Comedian Groucho Marx, "a national monument to irreverence," will be 80 on Thursday. Still going fairly strong, he will be honored at a star-studded luncheon to be given by the Friends of the USC Library at USC on Oct. 12.

Groucho Marx

Amazed to be 80

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Did you know that I'll be 80 years old on Oct. 2? Isn't that amazing?"

Of course, Groucho. And it's cause for celebration that Groucho Marx is alive and fairly well and living in accustomed luxury in Trousdale Estates.

The birthday will be observed Oct. 12 with a star-filled luncheon in his honor by the Friends of the Library at the University of Southern California.

"I've written six books, and I never finished public school," he comments wonderingly. Curiously, his immense contributions to American humor have never been rewarded with an honorary degree from any university. Bob Hope has 31.

A visit to Groucho is always a delight, and he was in good form at a prebirthday lunch at his home.

In some ways he exhibits his ample years. No more the loping walk. His steps are deliberate, his frame stooped. The words don't come with the same rattling speed — nor as scathingly.

But he is still Groucho, a national monument to irreverence.

"I no longer smoke, drink nor make love," he remarked (expletive deleted). "I gave up cigars five years ago, figuring that I was too old to smoke.

"Not drinking hasn't bothered me; I was only a one-drink man, anyway. As far as making love, age took care of that."

He sat down to a hearty lunch accompanied by apple cider ("I read in the New York Times that it was good for old people"). As he sliced the chicken breast he mused. "My mother was a lousy cook. My father was a great cook. But he was a lousy tailor."

Groucho had a coughing spell, and the ever-present Erin Fleming asked if he had taken his cough medicine. Twice, he replied.

Miss Fleming, an attractive brunette with a sharp mind, has been guardian of the Marx legend for several years. She watches his health, makes deals for books, merchandize licensing, TV reruns, etc., collecting a 15 per cent fee as manager.

Her only complaint is that she would like to get married, and Groucho keeps scaring off her potential suitors.

"My quiz show went on Channel 5 here as a 13-week experiment, and now it's the most popular program on an independent station," Groucho remarked proudly. Indeed, rerelease of the 1951-1961 "You Bet Your Life" series has caused a new wave of Grouchomania.

Even though the films are in black-and-white, the Marxian dialogue retains its color, and "You Bet Your Life" is now appearing on 44 channels, including the top 18 markets.

Groucho himself has been watching the reruns every night and the afternoon showings as well. He claims to remember each of the shows, and he comments on how he could have improved his performance.

Nowadays he rarely joins the fabled comedians' roundtable at Hillcrest Country Club, the ranks of comedians having grown thinner. He lunches at home at 1 p.m. sharp, watches reruns of his show and Jack Benny's ("A fine man, and a great comedian").

After a late-day rest, Groucho dines with friends or goes to a movie. He enjoys the films of Mel Brooks and Woody Allen, both of whom he considers "brilliant."

Refusing to live in the past, Groucho spends time with such admirerers as Bill Cobsy, Marvin Hamlisch, Jack Nicholson and Bud Cort ("Harold and Maude"), the latter a current houseguest. But there is no mistaking Grouch's sense of loss as he walks down a hallway-gallery and points to photos of Al Jolson, Jack Benny, Edward G. Robinson, Harry Ruby, and especially his late brother Harpo, "a wonderful man."

Groucho talked of meeting another old friend, Charlie Chaplin, when Chaplin was here for his honorary Oscar last year. "You know the advice he gave me? He said, 'Keep cool,'" said Groucho.

"No, he said, 'Keep warm,'" Erin corrected.

"So what's the difference?"

Apparently no in U.S.

BELEN, N.M. (AP) — Anthony Pope, a Belen High School student, recently wrote the U.S. Army about what courses he should pursue to prepare himself for a military career.

Col. E.B. Convington III, U.S. Army Recruiting Command, Ft. Sheridan, Ill., replied:

"Unfortunately, United States Army regulations prohibit the sending of recruitment information into a foreign country to other than American diplomatic officials without the consent of the foreign nation involved."

The Army officer's letter was addressed to Pope at 903 Chavez, Belen, N.M., 87002.

Belen is about 35 miles south of Albuerque.

In 1946, an international military tribunal in Nuernberg, Germany, found 22 top German Nazi leaders guilty of war crimes, and eleven were sentenced to death.

In 1971, the United States and the Soviet Union signed pacts designed to avoid accidental nuclear war.

Ten years ago: The Soviet Union came out strongly on the side of India in that country's dispute with Pakistan over Kashmir.

Thought for today: When we remember we are all mad, the mysteries disappear and life stands explained — Mark Twain, Americann humorist, 1835-1910.

Bicentennial footnote: Two-hundred years ago today, the Continental Congress in Philadelphia elected Benjamin Franklin, Thomas Lynch and Benjamin Harrison as a committee to confer with Gen. George Washington in New England.

Thousands at S.F. rock festival

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — They came to Golden Gate Park by the tens of thousands, decked out in everything from swaddling clothes to aluminum foil.

It was a musical reincarnation of the flower-children spirit of the 1960s.

It was fun in the fog on a Sunday afternoon — and a counterpoint to a week full of news of Patty Hearst and the attempt on President Ford's life.

The Grateful Dead and Jefferson Starship filled the park with rock music, together in a free Golden Gate Park concert for the first time since the late 1960s.

Organizers of the concert, a coalition of religious, political and community groups staging a "Unity Fair," estimated the crowd at 40,000 to 50,000 persons.

They squeezed into Lundley Meadow and spilled onto roads and hillsides and climbed trees and sat picnic-style on the damp grass.

Soap bubbles, balloons and marijuana smoke floated above a sea of bobbing heads, and Frisbees sailed through the fogwet air.

"If every day were like this, we wouldn't have anything to worry about," said Steve Severdia, 26, of nearby San Anselmo.

"Look at everyone here — it's really mellow," he said.

A young woman, a smiling sun painted in orange on her forehead, heard him, turned and smiled.

Behind the stage a pregnant woman was going into labor.

"If there's a doctor in the house, would he please come backstage?" someone announced from the stage. "There's a woman having a baby back there."

The crowd cheered.

The woman in labor was taken to a hospital.

Clothing ranged from jeans to black evening dresses and highheeled shoes. Babies dozed or watched wide-eyed.

A woman wandered through the crowd, wearing a headpiece of yellow and white aluminum foil and green cellophane.

The Jefferson Starship played first. And while the stage was prepared for the Grateful Dead, a speaker espoused the value of meditation. Then another said that the "Unity Fair" was in honor of the San Quentin Six, on trial for murder.

Decorations and medals honor persons who have performed deeds of bravery or distinguished service.

In the United States the highest military award for valor is the Medal of Honor. This decoration of great honor is awarded to any member of the Armed Forces who distinguishes himself by gallantry and courage "above and beyond the call of duty."

The award is presented by the President in the name of Congress.

The first medals of honor were awarded in 1863. Since that time, more than 3,000 medals have been awarded.

The nation's highest civilian award is the Presidential Medal of Freedom. It honors those "who contribute significantly to the quality of American life."

Almost every nation awards decorations for exceptional feats by its citizens.

The Victoria Cross is Britain's highest military award. The highest honor a Canadian can win is the Canada Medal.

A pocket radio, camera, World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

Woman of Month feted by YWCA

Carmen Lozano has been named Woman of the Month for September by the YWCA of Greater Pomona Valley for her work as chairman of the Boletin del Progreso Advisory Committee.

The Spanish language page appears every Sunday in the Progress Bulletin.

"She worked to provide mass media communication with the Mexican-American sector of the community through inclusion of a page written in Spanish," the citation said, "thus providing home town news to Spanish-speaking people and making them feel a part of the community."

Under her direction, recognition of other citizens of the valley for outstanding service to their communities has been given at two annual Boletin del Progreso banquets.

Mrs. Lozano is the mother of five children, three living at the Lozano home in Pomona and the other two married. Her husband, Raymond, is disabled.

Hazard

Even a playful nip from a pet dog or cat may transmit a microscopic organism which can cause a nasty infection. A 10-year study at the Oregon State Public Health Laboratories showed the offending organism lives in the mouths of up to half of all healthy dogs and nearly three in four cats. Although the infection responds well to antibiotics, it is so common that often it is not diagnosed promptly, the study found.

Family Circus

"Don't we have any RED apples? These are still yellow."

Face up

Pretty make-up loses its appeal if you wreck the effect by grimaces and other facial tics. You'll look prettier if you remember to relax facial muscles and smile or keep a pleasant expression. This also cuts down on future wrinkles.

Law school graduates act out cases in legal clinic

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The jury is made up of citizens, and recent law school graduates act as prosecution and defense attorneys.

The courtroom—with cases argued, won and lost—looks like the real thing but is only a clinic devised to help students make the transition to working professionals in the law.

Their performance is watched intently by veteran trial attorneys in both civil and criminal fields.

The Inn of the Court, which begins its second year Wednesday with 108 recent graduate lawyers participating, is a novel training project for which 120 other San Diegans have volunteered to be jurors.

In its inaugural session last year 200 new attorneys took part. Jurors judged them, as did the observers.

The founder, Superior Court Judge Louis M. Welsh, believes the detailed, courtroom-like procedure has proved valuable because law schools "only teach the law." Their students then must make it work, he noted in an interview.

Attorneys are unlike teachers "who have qualified in a particular field such as Egyptology," Welch said. "If a teacher has qualified for a doctorate in a particular field, he can function."

After each case is argued, the attorneys' performance is judged by the jury and the observers. Welsh has received letters from throughout the United States from judges and attorneys showing interest in the program.

There were 205 applications from new lawyers this year of whom slightly more than half were selected to participate in the program. It is considered important to hold the number down.

"We can't let the Inn get too big," Welsh said.

Man, 108, credits healthy parents

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Joseph Hepworth, who just turneed 108, says he credits his long life to "being born with healthy parents."

A group of high school students serenaded Hepworth at a birthday party Sunday at a convalescent hospital where he lives. He told them of his birth three miles from Leeds, England, in Yorkshire.

As one of eight children, he worked in his fathr's clothdyeing plant before coming to the United States and settling in Boston at the age of 18. He moved to San Diego at 48 and became a naturalized U.S. citizen at 80, working as "a jack of all trades."

At first, though, Hepworth was reluctant to talk.

"I won't answer any questions," he said, "unless I get a liverwurst sandwich on brown bread."

New arms limit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said Friday he plans to sound out Western European leaders on the possibility of reaching an agreement to limit the sale of arms to Persian Gulf nations.

Kissinger said he would bring up "the general proposition" of such an arms agreement in talks with European leaders, adding that there already have been "very general discussionss" on the subject.

The question of a moratorium on arms sales was raised by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., as Kissinger testified on foreign energy policy before Kennedy's economic subcommittee.

Kennedy said Saudi Arabia, Iran and other Persian Gulf countries purchased $4.4 billion in arms from American manufacturers last year and $4.3 billion already this year.

Leaper finds death on his second jump

CORONADO (AP) — Police say Thomas L. Larson dived off the 250-foot high San Diego-Coronado Bay Bridge and lived.

He climbed out of the water dripping wet and a few minutes later, he went over again, falling to his death Saturday night on rocks girding the landfall of the bridge.

A coroner's investigation was ordered into the death of Larson, 20, who lived in a San Diego apartment. His parents live in Remer, Minn.

An SLA inventory on weapons and targets

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — While the remnants of the Symbionese Liberation Army enlarged their arsenal and gathered the makings of a bomb factory, they collected thick files of information on business and government activities and notes on corporate officials.

Weapons, explosives and cryptically labeled file folders were listed in a 128-page inventory of items discovered at two apartments — one that had been occupied by Patricia Hearst and Wendy Yoshimura and the other by SLA members William and Emily Harris.

The FBI, which catalogued the items but declined to elaborate on many of them, made the inventory public Monday.

Miss Hearst, the Harrises and Miss Yoshimura were arrested on Sept. 18. Miss Yoshimura charged with a bombing and the other three accused of a variety of charges including bank robbery and kidnaping.

The two apartments yielded 17 guns ranging from .38-caliber revolvers to sawed-off shotguns and thousands of rounds of ammunition. In the Harris apartment, agents found several pipe bombs and materials for making more explosives.

In a file folder marked "Money," agents found a one-page diagram that apparently showed the interior of a bank teller's window, with the notations "window," and "till, coins, cash drawer."

Separate pages mentioned "Wells Fargo La Sierra," and "B of A Marysville."

There is a Wells Fargo branch office on La Sierra Drive in Sacramento. A spokesman for the Bank of America said the Marysville branch has not been robbed in the past 18 months.

Miss Hearst is charged with participating in the April 15, 1975, robbery of a Hibernia Bank branch in San Francisco.

In Sacramento on Monday, Chief Deputy Dist. Atty. Geoffrey Burroughs said authorities there are investigating robberies at the Crocker Bank in suburban Carmichael on April 21, 1975, and the Guild Savings and Loan Co.'s Sacramento office on Feb. 25, 1975, for possible SLA connections.

The four robbers who shot and killed a woman patron during the Carmichael robbery wore ski masks.

The FBI inventory of the Harris apartment included a navy blue ski mask.

In both the Hearst and Harris apartments, agents found more than a dozen wigs, large quantities of makeup and cosmetics and a wide variety of sunglasses and clothing.

Phony identification documents, including college student ID cards and California drivers' licenses in the names of deceased persons, were also found in both apartments, along with more than 100 books ranging from Marx and Lenin to Herbert Marcuse and Chairman Mao.

Hundreds of clippings from the New York Times, Wall Street Journal, San Francisco Examiner, San Francisco Chronicle, Oakland Tribune and other publications were also found in the Harris apartment.

$25,000 offer to kill Ford

1 million jobless in despair

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than one million Americans have given up all hope of finding jobs and have dropped out of the labor market in despair, yet they aren't being counted in the government's unemployment figures, a private study says.

The study, prepared by former Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz and former Labor Department statistician Harold Goldstein, says the government's unemployment figures are accurate as far as they go.

But the study, released Monday, says no effort is made to count the estimated 1.2 million Americans who have lost hope and left the labor force, persons who hold part-time jobs but want full-time work or those whose income falls below the poverty level.

The report was prepared for the National Manpower Institute, a private organization.

In other economic developments Monday:

—Treasury Secretary William E. Simon told Congress that President Ford may decide this week whether to recommend reductions in individual income taxes next year. Simon said the President will meet later this week with his economic advisers to decide if the 1975 tax reductions should be extended through 1976.

—The Treasury Department told the House Ways and Means Committee that it cannot yet predict future government spending trends and is unable to decide on a new national debt ceiling.

—A survey for the Super Market Institute, a trade association, said consumers have eased off on their budget-cutting techniques and that more Americans are blaming high prices on grocers.

The survey said in November 1974 a total of 8 per cent of those surveyed blamed grocers for high prices. As of July 1975, that figure had grown to 11 per cent.

But the No. 1 villain in the high-price survey was the government, with 42 per cent blaming Uncle Sam. Seventeen per cent blamed wholesalers, 11 per cent blamed the public and 10 per cent blamed unions. A total of 35 per cent said "no one" is to blame.

RESCUE ATTEMPT

Ex-felon held; link to militant group

WASHINGTON (AP) — An undercover agent of the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms was offered $25,000 within the past month to kill President Ford, the director of the bureau said today.

Rex D. Davis, in a statement prepared for a Senate subcommittee investigating the Secret Service, said the individual who approached the agent was arrested the day following the offer, after sufficient evidence was gathered.

Secret Service sources said the incident occurred during Ford's visit to St. Louis, Mo., earlier this month.

It was during that visit that a man with a .45-caliber pistol was spotted by a policeman on a catwalk in Kiel Auditorium an hour before the President was to speak there.

The man escaped despite an extensive police search, and the President delivered his speech on time and without harm.

It was not immediately clear whether that incident and the offer of money for Ford's death were related. The White House and the Secret Service would not comment.

In his statement, Davis also said his agents acquired information during the past month from an informer "relating to the informer's contact with a member of a militant organization.

"The subject was a twice-convicted felon armed with three highpowered rifles and a possible automatic weapon," Davis said. "The felon indicated he was en route to a city where a meeting with a militant organization was to take place to discuss the President's scheduled visit to that city."

In his prepared statement, Davis made no other mention of the $25,000 offer to kill Ford, except to say it occurred in a Midwestern city during September.

Davis made the disclosures while detailing examples of cooperation between his bureau and the Secret Service.

Treasury Secretary William E. Simon, whose department is responsible for the Secret Service, defended the agents as "highly competent, well-trained individuals and, as they have shown time and time again, they are also wholly dedicated to their mission."

The investigation by the Senate subcommittee on Treasury, Postal Service and general government appropriations, follows two assassination attempts on President Ford within 17 days.

Subcommittee Chairman Joseph M. Montoya, D-NM., said the hearings were being held "to examine our options and look for solutions" to the problems confronting the agency whose best known job is the protection of the President.

"We must make sure that adequate resources — money and manpower — have been made available to the Secret Service," Montoya said.

Secret Service Director H. Stuart Knight asked the panel for a supplemental appropriation, saying it was needed "to handle the increased demand upon the Secret Service."

Patty taken from jail cell for tests

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Patricia Hearst was taken by federal marshals from her Redwood City jail cell today and driven to an undisclosed location for psychiatric testing, the U.S. marshal's office said.

The marshal's office said that on Monday, Miss Hearst was taken to Stanford University Medical Center, less than 10 miles south of the jail, where she was examined by Dr. Donald Lunde.

Lunde is one of four specialists appointed by U.S. District Judge Oliver J. Carter to determine whether Miss Hearst is mentally competent to be cross-examined.

A hearing on the psychiatrists' findings that was scheduled for today was postponed when Miss Hearst's attorneys reported the tests had not been completed.

Carter said the prosecution would seek to cross-examine Miss Hearst on an affidavit in which she swore she was tortured and brainwashed by her Symbionese Liberation Army captors.

Miss Hearst's lawyers, claiming a "marked deterioration in her mental state" since the tests began, have asked a federal judge to order the newspaper heiress moved to a hospital from the San Mateo County Jail.

Lawyer Terence Hallinan said "a really heavy afternoon" of testing during the weekend "took a terrible toll on her."

He said the doctors have expressed some concern that she might attempt suicide.

Dr. Michael Coburn, a clinical instructor in psychiatry at the University of Southern California, said Monday that Miss Hearst is probably undergoing standard "projective" tests.

"They're tests designed to uncover underlying conflicts, to get beneath the conscious levels," said Coburn, who specializes in legal psychiatry.

Doctors to provide own insurance

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Doctors in North Carolina agreed today to form their own mutual insurance company after St. Paul Fire and Marine Insurance Co. announced it would no longer provide medical malpractice coverage in the state.

Dr. James E. Davis, president of the North Carolina Medical Society, said the company would go into operation as soon as $1 million is raised and legal technicalities are overcome.

Davis said the arrangements would take about two weeks to complete. In the meantime, he said, physicians will have to decide whether to risk lawsuits by seeing patients.

St. Paul's decision to end coverage in North Carolina came six days after state Insurance Commissioner John Ingram refused to implement a number of policy changes requested by St. Paul.

Refugees—with Ford OK—to be sent home

WASHINGTON (AP) — With President Ford's approval, 1,541 Vietnamese refugees now on Guam will be sent home aboard a Vietnamese ship to an uncertain fate.

U.S. officials said the refugees, who have appealed persistently for repatriation, turned down advice that they wait until it was clear they would be accepted by the Communist regime in Saigon.

Several had threatened immolation if they were not put aboard the Vietnamese ship now docked in Apra Harbor.

The U.N. high commissioner for refugees, Prince Saoruddin Agha Khan, and his special assistant, Zia Rizvi, have just completed a mission to Hanoi. They reportedly advised State Department officials to try to delay the return of the refugees until acceptance was certain.

Because of adamant refugee leadership, a decision was made to send the refugees home, hoping they would be taken in as were two other shiploads from other countries.

Some 130,000 Vietnamese and Cambodian refugees were evacuated by U.S. forces last spring as the Communists took control of Saigon and Phnom Penh.

Although tens of thousands have resettled in the United States, many others have had severe difficulty adjusting. In California, for instance, 9,000, or more than half of the 17,000 in that state, are on welfare.

Several hundred Vietnamese in this country also will be repatriated if the shipload from Guam is accepted in Saigon, U.S. officials indicated.

In Agana, Guam, Acting Gov. Rudy Sablan announced to a cheering crowd of refugees that President Ford has approved a plan to send them back home.

However, Sablan said it would be about three weeks before the 2,500-passenger Thong Tin can receive the necessary repairs to make it seaworthy.

No change in economic index

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government index designed to anticipate future economic trends gave an inconclusive signal today, showing no change during August.

The Commerce Department reported its composite index of a dozen key economic indicators was unchanged after five consecutive months of increases.

60 feared dead in air crash

Sharks tear at bodies

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A Hungarian jetliner with 60 persons reported aboard crashed into a shark-infested area of the Mediterranean off the Lebanese coast early today, and rescue workers said there appeared to be no survivors.

"The sea is full of sharks," said a boat owner who visited the crash site. "They're tearing into the bodies, making recovery work very difficult."

Airport officials said the passenger list carried the names of 35 Arabs and 15 foreigners, at least one of them thought to be an American. There were 10 Hungarian crew members.

Port authorities said Lebanese navy boats had recovered 29 bodies by midmorning.

The Soviet-built TU154 of Hungary's Maalev airline was on a flight from Budapest to Beirut. A government statement said it crashed into the sea six miles northwest of Beirut at 2:32 a.m. as it was making its approach to land.

A source at the airport control tower said the pilot made routine radio contact nine minutes before his landing time, gave his position and said he was coming in. There was no indication that anything was wrong.

He was supposed to check in again with the control tower one minute before putting down. When he didn't, the tower tried to contact him but got no answer.

The British Royal Air Force in Cyprus said the control tower notified it immediately that it had lost contact with the plane. A RAF C130 Hercules was in the area and sighted the wreckage. The Hercules circled the crash site until it was joined by Lebanese air force jets nd helicopters which guided the Lebanese navy boats.

Yachtsmen from the St. Georges Yacht Club who went to the site said they could see no sign of life among the wreckage. They said bodies and pieces of the plane were scattered over a wide area.

The Hungarian government sent a team of investigators from Budapest to try to determine the cause of the crash.

Effective tomorrow, Oct. 1, the home delivery price of the Progress Bulletin will be increased from $3.25 to $3.60 per month.

The increase of 35 cents has been brought about by the constant rising cost of production. The Progress Bulletin continues to be among the lowest priced California newspapers published seven days a week.

The increase represents only slightly more than a penny a day for one of the few products still delivered to the home.

A portion of the increase will go to the carrier who delivers your Progress Bulletin five afternoons a week and Saturday and Sunday mornings.

Drunk drivers can keep license if they join alcoholism program

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California will try to curb drunken drivers by letting them keep their driver's licenses on condition they steer into one-year alcoholism programs.

Under legislation which became law Monday, the drivers would have to pay for the treatment, and they wouldn't get out of any jail or fine penalties.

The author, Sen. Arlen Gregorio, D-San Mateo, said the law which suspends the licenses of second-offense drunk drivers does nothing to treat their drinking problems. Besides, most of them continue driving anyway — without insurance — because it's the only way they can get to work, he said.

It's up to the judge to decide which drivers are "fit subjects."

The treatment programs may be private or public, but all must win approval of the state Office of Alcohol Program Management. Among requirements are a face-to-face interview every other week and various drying-out services.

The program is to be started next year in up to four "demonstration counties," yet unnamed, and extend statewide in 1978.

The law won't apply to felony drunk driving.

Democratic Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. permitted the bill to become law without his signature.

The bill was one of five in Gregorio's anti-alcoholism package. Brown vetoed two others, including one to finance research and treatment with a tax increase on alcoholic beverages. He signed two others into law.

One signature reported Monday was on a Gregorio bill to set up independent administration, regulation and funding of state-supported alcoholism programs. They are now administered by the mental health system.

The bill would replace the Office of Alcohol Program Management with the Office of Alcoholism, and make minor changes in the ways counties set up priorities for state-funded alcoholism programs already established.

The counties now pay 10 per cent of the costs, with the state paying 90 per cent, with property tax revenue. One of the bills Brown vetoed would have replaced the countys' share — from $6 million to $8 million — with the increased tax on alcohol.

In a statement, Gregorio repeated his intention of seeking an override of Brown's veto.

He also said, "Much of my time and effort in the next few years will be devoted to legislative oversight of the Office of Alcoholism. They have the authority now to bring leadership to the field. I will hold them to exercising it diligently and responsibly."

The drunk driving bill is SB 330.

The Office of Alcoholism bill is SB 744.

The vetoed tax bill was SB 204.

MOOSE ON THE LOOSE

A wild moose sent a dog into a swift retreat in Burlington, Vt., Sunday. But the moose was brought down with a tranquilizer gun before it caused any harm. The moose had wandered into gardens and a park without doing any damage. It was released in a rural area.

State imposes controls on surface mines

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. has signed a bill that backers say could prevent any new open pit mining in Death Valley.

The measure, which moved through the California Legislature virtually unnoticed, requires permits and reclamation plans for new strip mining or open pit mining.

Signed Monday, it goes into effect Jan. 1.

Tenneco Mining last June filed 47 claims on 940 acres of federal land in Gower Gulch, which attracts 500,000 visitors annually as a major attraction of Death Valley National Monument.

Death Valley contains about the only borate deposits in the United States.

When the bill was introduced by Sen. John Nejedly, R-Walnut Creek, it was intended only to regulate gravel pit mining.

But Charles Warren, chairman of the Assembly Committee on Resources, Land Use and Energy, said the bill requires miners in Death Valley to get permits from Inyo County planners.

An aide to Nejedly, John Testa, said, "Whether or not the bill has any effect on Tenneco remains to be seen because it is not clear if the state has the authority to regulate activities of this sort on federal lands."

Testa said the matter will probably be fought out in the courts.

Boron compounds are used in antiseptics, insulation, insecticides, paint, preservatives, fire extinguishers, and in ceramic and metalurgical operations.

Death Valley is under National Park Service management, but mining is not prohibited by federal law.

The bill would also:

—Prohibit surface mining unless a permit is obtained from the county or city agency involved.

—Require cities and counties to adopt ordinances to establish review and approval procedures.

—Specify that no firm is required to obtain a permit if it has spent a substantial amount of money and has made a significant start in surface mining operations at a location before Jan. 1, 1976.

It is SB 756.

Patty tricked by parents into signing affidavit—Emily Harris

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Symbionese Liberation Army member Emily Harris says Patricia Hearst was tricked by her parents and attorneys into signing an affidavit in which she said she was brainwashed and tortured by the SLA.

"Who is brainwashing whom?" Mrs. Harris said Monday in a statement taped from her jail cell in Los Angeles.

She described Miss Hearst as a "truly beautiful woman who is being manipulated by her parents" into abandoning her SLA comrades, Mrs. Harris and her SLA soldier-husband William.

"Since our capture, the Hearst empire has put into motion all the power and influence that blood money can buy. The two of us are the sacrifices this time," Mrs. Harris said.

"The Hearst family and the entire ruling class of this country have attempted to brainwash the world into accepting poverty, racism, sexism and other forms of oppressions," said Mrs. Harris, adding that her husband, William, also being held here, concurs in her message.

"Where brainwashing hasn't worked these same interests have engineered wars, military coups, political assassinations, puppet governments and fascist regimes," she added.

Mrs. Harris branded as "a lie" the affidavit in which Patty says she was brainwashed by the SLA.

"These lawyers are attempting to destroy her strong sense of her own self-determination," Mrs. Harris said.

Meanwhile, one of Miss Hearst's attorneys said at a San Francisco news conference Monday that psychiatrists had expressed concern that she might try to commit suicide if she is forced to remain in her San Mateo County jail cell.

Attorney Terence Hallinan said Miss Hearst's mental health is rapidly deteriorating in the jail.

"She's been spaced out. It's harder to get her to talk. She becomes overwhelmed by tears much faster. She cannot even begin to get into these areas that her mind has closed on."

Hallinan said Miss Hearst should be transferred immediately from the jail to a hospital for psychiatric treatment.

In other developments in the Hearst case:

—U.S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter postponed for one week a hearing scheduled today on Miss Hearst's mental competence to be cross-examined. The judge was told that pychiatrists' tests on the heiress were not ready.

—Steven Soliah, a 27-year-old housepainter, pleaded innocent Monday to charges of harboring Miss Hearst and being an accessory after the fact in a bank robbery. Soliah, who was arrested with Miss Hearst and Wendy Yoshimura, another fugitive, is being held on $75,000 bail.

—A list of items taken from the hideouts used by Miss Hearst and the Harrises showed they had amassed quantities of weapons, disguises and false identification. The Harris apartment also contained materials used to make bombs, including pipes, clocks and about five pounds of gunpowder.

—The Harrises appeared in a Los Angeles court and were refused permission to participate in a secret grand jury hearing probing the SLA.

Jury deliberates rape-victim case

NORWALK (AP) — Jurors in the Deborah Kantaeng murder trial have begun weighing the fate of the 20-year-old woman accused of slaying the man she says raped her.

Superior Court Judge Beach Vasey gave the nine-man, three-woman jury their final instructions Monday and told them they could reach any of five possible verdicts in the case.

Miss Kantaeng could be found not guilty of the charge she murdered Danny C. Allen, 21, of Santa Ana on Oct. 3, 1974. She also could be found guilty of first or second degree murder or of voluntary or involuntary manslaughter, the judge said.

100 in family learn of rare gene disease

OAKLAND (AP) — The descendants of Antone Joseph, a Portugese immigrant whose genes carried a crippling and fatal disease, say they are relieved to know more about the mysterious family illness that has killed 48 of them.

More than 100 family members gathered for tests and counseling at Oakland Children's Hospital last weekend, and some of them learned for the first time that they have the illness.

Doctors named the incurable neurological disorder, which occurs only in family members, "Joseph's Disease."

"Early on, people notice that they start getting wobbly and staggering and their speech becomes slurred," explained Dr. William Nyhan, professor of pediatrics at the University of California at San Diego. "As time goes on they become increasingly spastic...usually it's at least 10 years from the onset of the illness to the time of the patient's death."

Nyhan and Dr. Robert Rosenburg, a neurological expert from the University of Texas at Dallas, conducted the clinic, which was sponsored by the National Genetic Foundation of New York City.

"A single gene carries it," Nyhan said. "And females are equally good at transmitting it. Every time you have a child, there's a 50-50 chance of transmitting it and that, in genetic terms, is a huge risk, the biggest risk we deal in."

Nyhan counseled parents who face the possibility of passing the disorder on to their offspring.

"We had two brothers and one said, 'With this information, I'm simply not going to have any children.' The other said, 'I'm not going to limit my life in any way. I'm going to live my life regardless of this.'"

"It was an emotional experience," said family member Rosemary Silva of nearby Livermore, who traced the descendants and organized the clinic with the aid of the NGF. "For years we didn't know what kind of disease we had."

The incorrect belief that the disorder was linked to venereal disease had made many family members reluctant to discuss the illness, said Mrs. Silva, who is not affected.

L.A. moves to outlaw cheap guns

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The City Council has voted to endorse proposals to outlaw the manufacture and transportation of cheap, low-caliber handguns known as "Saturday Night Specials."

The measure, passed 8-5 Monday, favored making existing "Saturday Night Specials" contraband subject to confiscation.

Councilman Zev Yaroslavsky, who introduced the proposal, said, "This is a positive, healthy step toward a saner community."

After the vote, Yaroslavsky said the action was "a definite step in the eventual direction of a total handgun ban."

But Councilman Donald D. Lorenzen disagreed.

"The first step the Communists take is to disarm the citizens," Lorenzen said. "The Communist Party has said it won't have to attack the United States. It will go after us from within."

Councilman Dave Cunningham, however, said his vote for handgun controls had nothing to do with the communists.

"With our missiles and $100 billion military budget, I'm not so worried about the communists," Cunningham said. "What I am worried about is guns and crime."

And for another view, there was Councilman Gilbert W. Lindsay, who said, "I'm thinking about getting myself a sure enough gun to protect myself in this crazy society. The crooks out there have guns. And not an important person in history has been killed with the kind of gun you are talking about."

Law opens local govt. appointments to public

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Local governments will have to open up their meetings when appointments are considered under a state law that takes effect Jan. 1. If they don't, they could be ordered to pay court costs and legal fees if they are challenged in court and lose.

Despite objections from the League of California Cities and the County Supervisors Association, Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. last week signed the measure by Sen. George Moscone, D-San Francisco.

Bill Keiser, a spokesman for the League of California Cities, said his group urged Brown to veto the measure for two reasons:

—"Our basic feeling was it was an example of the legislature applying a standard of open government that they didn't apply to themselves."

—And a judge can award legal fees to a person who goes to court when he is denied access to public meetings or records.

Proponents of the measure said that awarding of legal fees was long overdue, and a similar law for state appointments was unnecessary because of the Senate confirmation process.

The measure, supported by the California Newspaper Publishers Association, still allows government agencies to meet in private when considering such matters as firing of an employe on the basis of performance.

"If it's a good idea for local governments, it should be good for the state," Keiser said, adding that he doesn't believe Moscone's Senate confirmation argument is a "good analogy."

He said the bill has a double standard for awarding attorney fees, allowing awards for successful plaintiffs yet making defendants pay the fees if the plaintiff loses unless the judge determines the suit was "frivolous."

George Cook, a lobbyist for the County Supervisors Association, said, "Probably we are not going to see a large number of people stepping forward to serve on those panels because of the scrutiny they will have to go under."

But proponents said that legal fees stopped many persons from challenging governments in court when these agencies allegedly chose to ignore open government laws or interpreted them in their favor.

It is SB 1.

Brown signs law to lower drug costs

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A bill aimed at saving Californians up to $40 million a year in prescription drug costs is now law.

The bill by Assemblyman Barry Keene, D-Eureka, was one of 48 bills signed Monday by Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.

Brown also let one bill become law without his signature, and vetoed 13 others.

The prescription drug bill, vehemently opposed by major drug manufacturers, permits pharmacists to sell chemically equivalent drugs in place of more expensive brand names. To take effect Jan. 1, it codifies a practice approved by the state Consumer Affairs Department earlier this year.

But doctors can still forbid substitution of a particular prescription.

Sen. Anthony Beilenson, D-Los Angeles, said in floor debate that many doctors and hospitals have used to so-called "generic substitution" for years.

"None of this is very new," he said. "Millions of prescription are written generically every year. We don't know of one death that has resulted from substitution."

Among other bills, Brown signed one requiring each grocery item in a supermarket to be marked with its price, even though the market uses a computerized check-out system.

Also signed were a bill adding a student to the board of trustees of the California State University and Colleges, and another creating an office of state public defender.

Brown vetoed a bill that would have required parole dates to be set within a specified time for each person convicted of a crime other than first-degree murder.

He also vetoed one to create separate statistics on the San Fernando Valley, and another setting up a state Department of Tourism and Motion Picture Development.

The one he allowed to become law without his signature permits persons convicted twice or more of drunk driving to keep their licenses if they enroll in supervised alcoholism programs.

Brown's action reduced the number of bills still on his desk to 181. The deadline for action on bills passed at the last session of the legislature is midnight Wednesday.

The bill to require separate statistics on the San Fernando Valley was by Sen. Alan Robbins, D-Van Nuys, who is reportedly interested in running for mayor of Los Angeles.

Brown said in his veto message it would create "an administrative burden of significant proportions" for Los Angeles, and such decisions should be made locally.

Of the Department of Tourism bill by Sen. George Moscone, D-San Francisco, Brown said he vetoed it because there is "no credible evidence that a special state bureaucracy in California can promote tourism more effectively than the chamber of commerce and local business."

The vetoed bill to require the Adult Authority to designate parole dates within a set time after a prisoner is first committed was introduced by Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Los Angeles.

Brown said the Adult Authority is already doing much of what the Sieroty bill required, and he said it would be premature to set the bill's provisions into law.

But a Sieroty aide, Gary Garfinkle, said that the Adult Authority is not quickly giving parole dates to about 10 per cent of the state's inmate population. He said the AA also does not have to state its reasons for individual parole dates, a process included in the Sieroty bill.

Congress is to blame for oil increase—Ford

WASHINGTON (AP) — Price controls on domestic oil are officially in effect again, but President Ford says fuel costs will increase anyway and that only Congress is to blame.

Ford signed a compromise bill Monday, extending price controls on most domestic oil until Nov. 15. But he warned that the extension would not affect the newly increased prices of imported oil produced by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC).

"When the price of gasoline goes up at the service station, I want the American people to know exactly where the blame lies," Ford said. "Until Congress acts, there is nothing this country can do about arbitrary OPEC price hikes — and there may be still another fuel price increase next June."

The President accepted the price-control extension bill as a temporary compromise with Congress, but he said the measure "does nothing to reverse our growing oil dependence" on OPEC countries.

He said Congress must use the time of the extension to pass some sort of national energy measure agreeable to the White House.

OPEC countries, meeting in Vienna, agreed Saturday to hike oil prices by 10 per cent. Ford said the increase "provides beyond any further argument the urgent need for the United States to reduce its growing dependence on imported fuel at prices arbitrarily set by others."

Ford has proposed speedy removal of price controls on domestic oil to push prices up, forcing Americans to adopt conservation methods while supplying oil companies with revenue to seek new energy sources.

Congress has sought a longer period for phasing out controls, along with legislated stabilization or rollbacks of prices.

The bill signed Monday requires that some 60 per cent of domestic oil have a maximum price of $5.25 per barrel, compared with world market prices of about $12.

Ford signed the bill in the Oval Office without the usual gathering of congressmen generally present for such ceremonies. He said Congress had failed to take one step to increase domestic oil output or to lessen dependence on imported oil, which now costs the United States more than $25 billion per year. If that money could be spent at home it could provide jobs for a million Americans, he said.

That brought a quick reply from Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., who has led opposition to Ford's energy proposals. He said Ford could cut two cents from fuel costs by freezing prices of "new" domestic oil and by removing a $2 per barrel tarrif imposed earlier this year.

"All it takes is two things," Jackson said. "His signature on a piece of paper and some backbone. He put in the tax to raise prices and to discourage the use of oil. The OPEC cartel is doing that for him."

But the White House argued that if Congress had approved decontrol of domestic oil prices OPEC would have seen U.S. determination to solve its energy problems and the price hikes would have been discouraged.

OPPOSITION TO HIS VISIT

While Japanese Emperor Hirohito and Empress Nagako wave to crowd from a plane ramp (right) shortly before their departure this morning, leftist students struggle with riot police in Tokyo Monday night in protest to the emperor's visit to the United States. It is the first official visit to the U.S. by a Japanese monarch. Two hours before the departure, police shut off highways half a mile from the airport entrance in the Tokyo suburbs, while a carefully selected crowd of 2,000 gave the royal couple an airport send-off.

Post office customers can now complain

WASHINGTON (AP) — Did that package marked "fragile" arrive in your mailbox in a battered condition? Did this month's girlie magazine arrive dog-eared with the centerfold torn out?

Now you can tell it to the post office.

Beginning Wednesday, the Postal Service is launching a program that will invite disgruntled postal patrons to air their complaints.

Unhappy customers will be able to obtain a "consumer service card" from post offices and from letter carriers. The complaints written on the card will get quick attention, the Postal Service says.

The new system will "let us know, in a quick and simple way, about service problems," Postmaster General Benjamin F. Bailar said in announcing the program.

Bailar's announcement came before the House voted Monday to revoke the Postal Service's financial independence as a result of dissatisfaction with the way the service operates.

The campaign "reflects our feeling that the idea of good service must mean more than the speed of delivery. It involves responsiveness and understanding, too," Bailar said.

The Postal Service decided on the national program after trying out the consumer service card this summer in Arizona, Illinois, Rhode Island and Massachusetts.

The number of complaints over the six-week test period in the four states was 9,890. In the same period last year there were 7,473 complaints taken to postal officials by residents of those states.

The consumer service card is a two-piece card, two postal cards with carbon paper between them. After filling out the top copy, the two cards can be separated.

One of the prepaid postal cards goes to the local postmaster. The other goes to the Postal Service's Office of Consumer Affairs in Washington.

After acting on the complaint, the local postmaster is to explain on the reverse side of his copy of the card how the problem was handled. Then, he is to mail his copy of the card to Washington.

Meanwhile, in Washington, the information from the other card is used to create an index of consumer satisfaction. The card allows not only for complaints, but also for information requests, suggestions and other comments.

"I believe that once the new program is firmly established, it will demonstrate both our willingness to solve people's problems and the over-all high quality of our service," Bailar said.

Hirohito's visit now underway

WILLIAMSBURG, VA. (AP) — Japan's Emperor Hirohito, who has known the United States both as a bitter wartime enemy and now as a close Pacific ally, arrived here today on a history-making, two-week state visit.

On an overcast day and with strict security precautions, the emperor, accompanied by his wife, Empress Nagako, arrived at nearby Patrick Henry International Airport for a two-day rest stop at this historic city. His itinerary includes six major U.S. cities and several smaller ones.

The imperial couple's plane, carrying an entourage of 38, touched down at 10:34 a.m.

Aside from a brief 1971 visit the emperor made to Alaska while en route to Europe, none of the 124 Japanese emperors in an imperial line dating back almost 14 centuries has ever come to the United States.

The emperor and his party spent an hour and 11 minutes at Alaska's Anchorage International Airport late Monday while their plane was refueled.

The Japanese ambassador to the United States, Takeshi Yasukawa, boarded the plane in Anchorage to accompany the emperor on his tour.

Security at the airport was extremely tight, with shotgun-carrying guards surrounding the plane, a specially refurbished DC8 JAL craft. More guards were on the roof of the airport.

The emperor travels to Washington Thursday to meet with President Ford. The White House meetings will be strictly non-political, in keeping with the exclusively ceremonial nature of the emperor's reign. He will also visit New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Honolulu.

Security precautions will be extraordinarily tight throughout the tour. As the emperor left Japan, some 4,000 persons protested the visit to the United States.

Japanese leftists have protested that the visit has political overtones. About 2,500 demonstrators protested in the streets of Tokyo on Monday, but there were no reports of major clashes with riot police. Agents at U.S. ports reportedly have been closely checking incoming Japanese.

Hirohito's arrival here is being telecast live to Japan. More than 350 Japanese newsmen will be traveling with Hirohito, but they won't have much to do in Williamsburg. The Imperial household doctor has called for complete rest for the 74-year-old monarch during his stay here.

It is possible the imperial couple will take a horse-drawn carriage ride Wednesday morning to the building which served as a colonial capitol during Williamsburg's heyday two centuries ago.

Beyond that, the emperor and empress are expected to spend their time here confined to the Queen's Suite at the Williamsburg Inn, a whitewashed brick structure decorated in the English Regency style.

Because of the need for rest, the emperor reportedly has declined an invitation to visit the grave of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, located about 25 miles from here in Norfolk.

It was Emperor Hirohito who appeared before MacArthur at the end of World War II to take personal reponsibility for Japan's war policies. Subsequently, MacArthur presided over the American occupation of Japan.

Ford's compromise on secrets rejected

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House intelligence committee is taking its fight with the Ford administration over Central Intelligence Agency secrets to the full House.

Rejecting a compromise offered by President Ford, the committee voted 10 to 3 Monday to ask the House to back its demands for the data.

With that confrontation brewing for House action possibly next week, the committee returned to its hearings on the quality of U.S. intelligence. Today it was studying intelligence estimates made before Turkey's 1974 invasion of Cyprus.

Inviting a confrontation with Ford over Congress' right to secret information, the committee voted Monday to ask House approval of a resolution saying defiance of the committee's subpoenas is a "grave matter requiring appropriate enforcement."

Chairman Otis G. Pike, D-N.Y., has said "appropriate enforcement" includes contempt citations against such officials as CIA Director William E. Colby and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and even a court test of Congress' rights to information.

The resolution also would direct Colby to turn over documents on the 1968 Vietnamese Tet offensive.

Colby issued a statement saying the matter is grave indeed because "it goes to the heart of whether the United States can conduct intelligence operations."

Colby said he could not turn the subpoenaed Tet documents over to the committee until some agreement is reached as to the documents' possible disclosure, adding he was still hopeful an agreement could be worked out.

But the committee rejected a White House compromise that would give the panel access to secret information except for "identifies of secret agents" and diplomatic exchanges that would be embarrassing to foreign governments and thus damaging to U.S. foreign relations.

"If we go to the House and demand that names of agents be disclosed, we're going to be in difficulty," said the committee's senior Republican, Rep. Robert McClory of Illinois.

An SLA inventory

In a file folder marked "Oil — PG&E — etc." was a clipping of a picture of Charles De Brettville, Bank of California board chairman and a member of the boards of directors of Pacific, Gas & Electric Co. and Safeway.

Literature of the New World Liberation Front (NWLF), a radical group closely associated with the SLA, was also found. Police have described the NWLF as a small terrorist organization. The carport of De Brettville's home was firebombed on Aug. 4, 1975, and the NWLF issued a communique claiming responsibility for the act.

Law enforcement sources say Harris was deeply involved in the NWLF, which has claimed responsibility for more than 22 bombings in the past two years, many against PG&E.

Other newspaper clippings found in the apartment concerned World Airways, the Oakland-based charter airline that played a large role in the South Vietnamese babylift, and its president, Edward Daly. One item was described as a two-page list of individuals with the heading World Airways.

Other companies on which clippings had been collected included Safeway, International Telephone & Telegraph, 3M, Gulf, Mobil, Texaco and Standard Oil of Indiana.

California Atty. Gen. Evelle Younger and Alameda County Dist. Atty. Lowell Jensen were among government officials about whom clippings had been gathered.

Ford on road

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford flies to the Midwest late today on an overnight trip tailored to limit his exposure to the general public and ease the job of protecting him.

Ford's journey to Chicago and Omaha will be his first outside Washington since Sept. 22 when a woman in San Francisco fired a shot in his direction, the second apparent assassination attempt in 17 days.

P.O. subsidy cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House, voting to revoke the financial independence of the U.S. Postal Service, is sending a message to the service about the "Pony Express" quality of mail delivery.

The House voted 267 to 123 Monday to cut a proposed extra subsidy of $1.7-billion for the Postal Service and to require the service to come to Congress annually for funding and to put its revenues in the general treasury.

Hostages still held

LONDON (AP) — A woman member of the Black Liberation Front told three gunmen besieged in the basement of a restaurant today that they had been disowned by the immigrant organization and should free their six Italian hostages and give themselves up.

The woman, reportedly a friend of the gunmen known as Sister Yemmi, said they had no chance of escaping the police net around the downtown restaurant or of being flown out of Britain.

"You are on your own. Give yourselves up," she said.

Demands met?

PARIS (AP) — France is delivering military supplies to rebels in Chad but is "worried" that it has had no word when they will release Francoise Claustre, a French archeologist they have been holding for 17 months, a presidential spokesman said today.

Xavier Beauchamps told newsmen that Hissen Habre, leader of the antigovernment rebel group in the central African country, had not committed himself to a release date during negotiations with a French emissary last week.

However, a French newspaper reported that Habre told its special correspondent that Mrs. Claustre, 38, might be freed in three weeks.

TVN folds

NEW YORK (AP) — TVN Inc., which has called itself an independent television news network, says it will all but shut down Oct. 31 because of the high cost of producing and distributing the news.

The Adolph Coors Co. of Golden, Colo., brewers of Coors beer, is the major stockholder in TVN Inc. The brewery's politically conservative president, Joseph Coors, had viewed TVN as an alternate source of television news to what he considered liberal-oriented news departments of the three major networks.

Police on strike

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — About 300 of the Kansas City Police Department's 323 officers have walked off their jobs in a wage dispute. Sheriff's officers, highway patrolmen and Kansas Bureau of Investigation agents have been sent into this city of 170,000 to provide police protection during the strike.

Wyandotte County District Court Judge Cordell Meeks issued a temporary restraining order against the strike Monday, but there was no indication that members of the Fraternal Order of Police planned to return to work.

A TVN spokesman said Monday the directors decided to end the 2½-year-old news operation after the Coors brewery withdrew its financial support.

The announcement of the impending shutdown in New York, Washington, Chicago and Los Angeles was made Monday over a regular afternoon feed to the network's more than 80 subscribing stations in the United States and Canada, the spokesman said.

Singer stricken on stage

CHERRY HILL, N.J. (AP) — Singer Jackie Wilson was in critical condition today after suffering a heart attack on stage.

Wilson, 42, was stricken Monday night at the Latin Casino, where he was appearing with other pop singers in Dick Clark's "Good Ol' Rock 'n' Roll" show. He had just finished his final number, "Lonely Teardrops," when he collapsed on stage.

Clark rushed to his side and called for the curtain. Moments later, Clark emerged from behind the curtain and asked the audience to pray for Wilson.

The singer was taken to the coronary care unit at the Cherry Hill Medical Center. A native of Detroit, he lives in Atlanta.

Gladys heading for coast

MIAMI (AP) — A revived hurricane Gladys, with winds of 110 miles an hour and expected to strengthen, plowed through the Atlantic today on a course which could take it to the U.S. mainland, forecasters said.

"This could become a major storm," Gil Clark, a forecaster at the National Hurricane Center in Miami, said late Monday. "Satellite pictures show a very well-defined eye."

For days, Gladys hovered just above the 74 m.p.h. wind speed that classifies a storm as a hurricane. It rapidly picked up strength Monday and forecasters said the storm should strengthen.

At 6 a.m. EDT, Gladys was about 850 miles east and slightly south of Miami at latitude 25.1 north and longitude 67.4 west. It was moving westnorthwest at 15 m.p.h. It was expected to keep that course for the next 24 hours, slowing to 10 to 15 m.p.h.

If steering currents do not turn it further to the east, it could make landfall somewhere on the Eastern Seaboard within the next three days, the center said.

But Clark said it is too early to predict where, if anywhere, Gladys might touch land.

Gales were extending out as far as 150 miles from the center, but no land area was immediately threatened, forecasters said.

A cold front that was expected to weaken Gladys moved out of the storm's path near the Bahamas, and a high pressure system left behind as sister hurricane Faye moved into colder North Atlantic waters helped boost Gladys late Monday.

Faye, which brushed past Bermuda last Friday, was downgraded to a low pressure system as it moved further into the North Atlantic on Monday.

30 killed in train collision

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — A commuter train crashed into the rear of stopped passenger train Monday night 30 miles north of Buenos Aires, killing at least 30 persons and injuring about 100, police reported.

Some of the injured were in critical condition.

El Rosarino, which travels the 170 miles between Buenos Aires and Rosario daily, was waiting for a signal when the commuter train smashed into it.

The last car of the Rosario train was demolished and the two in front of it were heavily damaged, officials said.

The commuter train's diesel locomotive was wrecked but did not explode. The engineer and his assistant were badly injured, but no passengers aboard the commuter train were reported hurt.

At least 50 passengers were aboard the last car of El Rosarino.

"People were screaming, jumping out of windows and running off into the countryside," one witness said.

The wreck occurred in a sparsely populated area where the track curves sharply down a hill. It is near the site of the worst railroad accident in Argentine history, in which 236 people were killed and 400 were injured on Feb. 1, 1970.

Policemen, firemen and ambulances were hampered by darkness until a local fire department provided portable lights.

Firemen and police cut their way into the wrecked cars with blowtorches all night in search of victims. The injured were taken to hospitals in nearby towns or in Buenos Aires.

The cause of the accident and the reason both trains were on the same track was not immediately determined.

The Grand Rapids hydroelectric project began producing power for Manitoba, Canada, in 1964.

Checkmate: Boris marries

MOSCOW (AP) — Former world chess champion Boris Spassky married his French fiancee today after months of difficulties with Soviet and French authorities.

"I hope this marriage will give me an extra queen in my chess competition," said the 38-year-old Spassky, who lost the world championship to Bobby Fischer in 1972.

He was married in a five-minute civil ceremony to Marina Stcherbatcheff, 30, a secretary in the commercial section of the French Embassy.

A few friends attended the ceremony in the Wedding Palace on Griboyedova street, but they were outnumbered by foreign journalists.

In contrast to the long white dresses and veils worn by many Soviet brides, Miss Stcherbatcheff wore white slacks and a white sweater with a string of blue beads. Spassky wore a brown sport coat and russet slacks.

"We plan to live in Moscow, and I plan to play chess," said the bridegroom.

"I am very happy," said the bride, who will probably have to give up her job with the Embassy.

Despite pleas from photographers, Spassky declined to kiss the bride.

Spassky and Miss Stcherbatcheff met last fall, a few months after he parted from his Russian wife, and he moved in with her in January. When they made their intention to marry known, the Soviet government tried to block the marriage and the French Embassy tried to discourage it.

Spassky said he was denied permission to travel abroad and his apartment was robbed. The Soviets revived a year-old traffic charge against Miss Stcherbatcheff, and she was told she would have to leave the Soviet Union by today. Spassky and Miss Stcherbatcheff were told they could not get on the marriage schedule until Nov. 11.

Spassky and his fiancee decided to fight and told Western newsmen of their plight. The case was seen abroad as a test of the Helsinki declarations, especially the pledge to facilitate international marriages. After the publicity abroad, the way was suddenly cleared for them to marry, and the wedding date was moved up.

The new Mrs. Spassky said she didn't know how long her job would last, but when she lost it, she might do translation work.

"I think everything will be okay. I am an optimist," said Spassky as he drank a glass of champagne with his new wife.

He said they planned no honeymoon because he is preparing for a chess tournament next month in Moscow. After the tournament, he would like to travel to France to meet her parents, who are Russian emigres, he said.

Spassky was asked if his bride plays chess.

"Fortunately not," he replied. "I don't think that is necessary."

Forum will explore future of Village

Claremont residents and businessmen will have the opportunity to express their views on proposed changes in The Village business district when the Chamber of Commerce holds a public forum Wednesday at 7:45 a.m. at The Imperial Savings and Loan Association building.

Consultants Owen Menard and Associates of Claremont will present the Phase II Report, "Claremont Village Directions for the Future," having to do with the redevelopment of The Village, an area between Indian Hill Boulevard and Harvard Avenue, and First Street to Harrison Avenue.

Phase I was Menard's report on parking recommendations for The Village.

City Manager Norman King said that any parking code changes will require a rezoning of the entire village area so that a separate district can be established.

Last Tuesday, the City Council sitting as the Redevelopment Agency approved the hiring of a parking enforcement officer to encourage greater use of private parking areas and reduced all-day use of public stalls, both curb and lot.

Phase II outlines a range of possible directions for the agency to take as far as public improvements, land use and design and development code changes are concerned in the village.

According to King, "grand schemes are not appropriate, but narrow-mindedness at this juncture is not wise."

King said he thinks nothing much will happen unless those persons interested in The Village "aggressively and with concensus express their desires" about what they would like to see the Redevelopment Agency do.

King hopes that key decisions can be made by December.

"The question is not whether the agency should have a specific plan, should change the building code, or contract for market analysis, but rather to determine what projects and directions are desired now," King commented.

King stressed that the agency has a unique opportunity to look beyond just planting a few street trees or buying some well-designed street furniture, and should explore seriously how the agency can assist in making the village area even more attractive to private investment and business activity that will reinforce and enhance what is already in the village.

King noted that the agency already has committed funds for certain cosmetic-type improvements including planter areas on Yale Avenue, curb ramps at many intersections in the village, street trees and sidewalk repairs.

Copies of the Menard report are available at the library, chamber of commerce or city hall.

Americans were complaining about mail delivery two centries ago when colonists grumbled that letters crossing the Atlantic took two weeks longer westbound than eastbound. Benjamin Franklin, Deputy Postmaster of the Colonies, blamed the Gulf Stream. In 1769, he advised captains of British mail packets sailing west to the New World not to fight the current and drew a chart of it to guide them on the sea, The World Almanac notes.

Horse shows resuming

The Kellogg Arabian horse shows will begin their 50th season Sunday at 2 p.m. on the Cal Poly Pomona campus.

The opening show will have some of the most popular features of past seasons, including the "granddaddy" of the show, Tezadi, 17-year-old Arabian, who will walk on a four-inch bannister, push a baby buggy and put a 50-cent piece in a cash register.

The mare and foal act this Sunday will feature a nine-day-old foal, one of the youngest to ever appear in any Kellogg show.

Other events are the Arabian costume, the cattle event, English and western pleasure riding demonstration, jumping and novelty class.

Admission is $1.25 for adults and 25 cents for children. Special group and organization rates are available by calling 598-4153.

Wax show trip slated

The San Dimas Recreation Department will conduct an excursion for adults only on Oct. 8 to Movieland Wax Museum and Knott's Berry Farm.

The bus will leave San Dimas City Hall at 9 a.m. and return at 6 p.m. A fee of $9.50 will include transportation, admission to both parks and an 11-ride ticket book.

Registrations must be made in advance and will be accepted at City Hall.

Those wishing additional information may call 599-6713 Ext. 40.

Efforts underway to reopen La Escuelita

Efforts to revive La Escuelita (the little school) at 833 W. Monterey Ave., Pomona, are being made by the Cherrieville Council, a group of volunteers dedicated to improving their own community.

The building housing La Escuelita needs repairing. To raise funds for that purpose, young people of Cherrieville will hold a car wash and a cake sale Saturday, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The car wash will be held at Carl's Service Station at the southeast corner of Holt Avenue and Hamilton Boulevard. The bake sale will be held at La Escuelita.

With Lupita Espinoza, 23, as director, La Escuelita has helped children 3 to 5 prepare for the experience of entering public schools.

In the past the school has been funded through the City of Pomona with general revenue sharing money. Those funds are no longer available but the project is receiving Comprehensive Training Employment Act funds. County funds also are being sought to continue operation of La Escuelita.

Donations toward the work also are being sought. Checks made out to Cherrieville Council may be sent to the school address. Prospective contributors who want to know more about La Escuelita may call Miss Espinoza at 629-4938 or leave a message at 593-4533 or call Rudy Gutierrez, Cherrieville Council leader, at 623-6131.

L.V. College plans a day to brief veterans

An open house is scheduled by La Verne College for veterans who are interested in going to college.

Members of the college staff will be on hand to advise veterans from 3 to 6:30 p.m. Thursday at the offices of the new veteran's affairs program, director Frank Vidaure says.

According to Vidaure, services have been expanded to include not only those veterans on campus, but all veterans in the community and those at the La Verne College residence centers on military bases. "Members of the staff are available throughout the week to assist with academic counseling, job placement, tutorial needs, admission and financial aid information, housing and recreation," he explained.

To aid the veteran and his family further, Vidaure described a program of human assistance services, which offers information regarding welfare, food stamps, consumer rights, drug abuse, emergency food and clothing and legal assistance.

4-H signups in La Verne

The La Verne 4-H club will hold a membership signup Oct. 14 at 7:30 p.m. in the La Verne Community Building.

All persons interested in joining the club are urged to attend. Those who want more information may call Mr. or Mrs. Gene Bauer at 599-5287.

Ayala mulls work camp for young parolees . . . 2 McVittie bills pass

STATE SEN. RUBEN AYALA, D-32nd Dist., said he is exploring the possibility of establishing a volunteer camp program for unemployed youth with emphasis given to a program for parolees.

Crime is a big problem in the nation and one way to help solve the problem is to give young people something interesting and practical to do, he added.

"This project would not only be helping young people but also help our state accomplish work which is currently being neglected."

Ayala and C. A. Turhune, deputy director of the California Youth Authority, have discussed using abandoned military, federal or state camps as a halfway point in the rehabilitation of wards released on parole from youth authority institutions.

The program could be expanded for all youthful offenders, expecially first offenders, with their consent and motivation for rehabilitation, Ayala said.

The youths could work with the Forestry Service and park departments on such projects as anti-pollution of streams, lakes, anti-erosion, forestry, fire prevention and fire fighting, road and bridge building and road maintenance, he said.

ASSEMBLYMAN BILL McVITTIE, D-65th Dist., has seen two measures he introduced in the State Assembly signed into law by Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.

One measure will enable cities to respond quicker to municipal emergencies by raising the limit from $3,500 to $5,000 on public works projects needing to go through lengthy formal bidding procedures.

"Many cities have been forced to waste valuable time and efforts collecting bids for small projects which need immediate action," he explained. McVittie reported the $3,500 bidding figure was set in 1969 before inflation caused prices to skyrocket. The $5,000 is a more realistic limit in today's economy.

The second measure was designed to give greater protection to depositors in savings and loan associations by prohibiting these financial institutions from making loans to officers, directors, major stockholders and employes of their holding companies.

"An obvious conflict of interest appears when directors who control a savings and loan association may borrow from its depositors' funds," he declared. "A healthy savings and loan industry is a vital part of the California economy. The good will and confidence of investors are essential for continued growth and prosperity of the industry."

REP. DEL CLAWSON, R-33rd Dist., said public interest in the nation's Bicentennial celebration is creating a new national shortage in flags.

He urged persons wanting American flags flown over the nation's capitol to place their orders as soon as possible at his office in Whittier at 13601 E. Whittier Blvd., suite 401. The telephone number is (213) 945-1404.

Clawson said "Bicentennial," "Bennington" and "Betsy Ross" flags are in even more uncertain supply, with waiting periods ranging from weeks to months.

REP. MORRIS K. UDALL, D-Ariz., a Democratic presidential candidate, has charged that President Ford's new energy proposal ignores the consumer, conservation methods and the impact on the environment.

In a recent speech to members of the California Bar Association in Los Angeles, he said Ford was guaranteeing high unemployment in future years by devoting so much money to this capital intensive sector of the economy.

Declaring the nation has reached the end of an era of cheap energy, Udall stressed the need for conservation methods and expanding new sources of energy.

"Expensive energy systems, such as the one proposed by Ford, will be unnecessary if the country will make a serious commitment to energy conservation.

"By working to cut energy waste and investing in technology to improve energy efficiency and discover alternative sources of energy, we can produce new jobs and new consumer products."

REP. JOHN ROUSSELOT, R-26th Dist., has urged the issuance of a national medal to commemorate the flight of Brig. Gen. Charles E. Yeager, who became the first man to break the sound barrier on Oct. 14, 1947.

He made the flight in an experimental XS-1 at Muroc Air Force Base. The plane had no escape mechanism if the flight failed.

Rousselot has sponsored a bill that calls for a silver medal to be presented to Yeager and that bronze duplicates be sold by the Treasury Department at a price sufficient to recover the cost.

Buffalo chips turned into 'gold'

AVALON (AP) — Where the buffalo roam on Santa Catalina Island, artist Roger "Bud" Upton follows, picking up raw material that he eventually turns into gold.

For 15 years, the 75-year-old artist has been producing gilded buffalo chip plaques.

"It started as a gag. Now, I can't keep up with the orders," said Upton, a lifelong resident of the island, 26 miles off the Los Angeles area coastline.

Some 400 buffalo roam the island's mountains and valleys, descendants of animals taken there by a movie company in 1923 for a stampede scene in the silent film, "Covered Wagon."

Upton's customers include most of the 2,000-odd, permanent residents of the island, hordes of tourists and actor John Wayne, who delights in giving appropriately inscribed plaques to his friends.

Each plaque is inscribed at the bottom with "Genuine Catalina Island Buffalo Chip." Upton also personalizes the plaque with sayings like "All That Glitters Is Not Gold" or with some special message the customer wants.

Making the buffalo chip plaques is a lengthy process, Upton explained, beginning with the task of finding the right kind of buffalo chip.

"Not any old chip will do," he said. "The chip must have character. It can't be too new or too old.

"I sand the bottom, sterilize the chip, bake it. Then I dunk it in two coats of resin and paint it with six coats of gold enamel. After that I make the plaque."

Upton emphasized that chipmaking is an avocation. He makes his living from painting scenes of the picturesque village of Avalon.

"It's a hobby. It certainly isn't a business," he says. "I figure with all the time and work involved, I'm making about 10 cents an hour on each plaque."

He said he used to charge $10 a plaque, but had to raise the price to $28.

Upton said buffalo chips have a special niche in American history.

"Pioneers coming across the plains used thousands of buffalo chips to build fires to keep warm and for heat to cook," he said.

Legal needs of poor unmet

LOS ANGELES (AP)— Less than 15 per cent of the legal needs of poor people in America are being met and nearly half the poor live in areas not even served by legal service offices, says Roger C. Cramton, dean of Cornell Law School.

Cramton, board chairman of National Legal Services Corp., a federal legal services agency set up last year, estimated present legal services can handle only about one million of the seven million legal problems arising each year involving the poor.

"Less than 2,200 lawyers —only about one-half of 1 per cent of the American Bar—are working full time to meet the legal needs of about one-sixth of the population," Cramton said.

"The most generous estimates indicate that less than 15 per cent of the legal needs of the poor are being met today," he added.

Cramton urged the Bar to defend legal service attorneys who are subjected to political criticism or public attack when they fulfill their responsibilities in handling controversial legal issues involving poor people.

He said his agency "intends to provide the leadership necessary to insure that the poor receive the same quality and range of service that is provided to the rich."

"The poor," added Cramton, "are entitled to no more and no less. If full and zealous representation means suing City Hall, or attacking a federal or state administration regulation, that is what the poor client should get."

Breaking the ties which bind

The San Antonio League's football campaign swings into action Friday, with another exciting race to the SAL title expected by all.

However, one thing will be different in the SAL this fall. In the event of a tie for first or second place, the team picked to represent the league in the CIF 3-A playoffs is not going to be decided by a mad scramble of league administrators.

Instead of the heretofore helter-skelter methods of determining CIF-bound squads from the San Antonio loop, the league has wisely decided upon a formula designed to break up logjams in the standings.

Under the new ruling, a point total will be determined for each of the teams tied in the standings. Eight points will be awarded for a victory over the league champion in that particular season, seven for a win over a second place team, six for a triumph over a third place finisher, and so on down to one point for a win over a last place squad.

These points will be totaled up and the team with the most points will be selected for playoff competition.

If, after all the points are tallied, a tie still exists, the winner of the game between the two schools will be selected. If the two teams tied in their matchup, and are tied in the point totals, the team with the longest period of time since a playoff appearance would be selected.

Then, and only then, if a tie still exists between schools the selection will be resolved by a blind draw.

If all this seems like an extraordinarily complex system of breaking up deadlocks, remember that developments of late in the SAL grid races have in and of themselves been extraordinary. Last fall no less than four squads wound up tied for second in the football standings, with the net result being chaos as far as the league's selection of teams to go to the CIF playoffs was concerned.

This tie-breaker method will prevail in all SAL sports this year, and in fact was put into effect by the league last spring.

One other development of late could also help clarify the playoff picks for the SAL and other prep loops.

No more tie games?

The Southern Section CIF office has ruled that each league within its jurisdiction can use a special tie-breaker system to resolve games ending in a draw.

Under this plan, a game tied at the end of regulation time will continue into a special overtime period. In this extra period a coin flip would decide which team gets the ball first.

From that point the squad winning the coin toss would put the ball in play from the opponent's 10-yard line. They would get four downs to go the 10 yards for a touchdown, or can boot a field goal if they so elect.

Following that series, the other team would get the pigskin, again at the 10, to attempt a score. The first team to outscore the other in these goal-to-go situations is the winner of the game.

As mentioned, the above plan has met with CIF approval. Now the CIF is leaving it up to the individual leagues to decide whether they wish to use it or not.

SAL pondering rule

The Hacienda League has already voted this tie-breaker proposal down, according to Jim Graham, Athletic Director at Gladstone High and the league's secretary.

However, according to league president Dean Smothers of Montclair High, the decision is still up in the air on the tie-breaker in the SAL.

"It looks like it will be defeated, but the league administrators decided to poll the varsity football coaches first before making a final determination," commented Smothers. "I expect to know definitely one way or the other whether the system will be used by Wednesday or Thursday at the latest.

"Obviously, with league play starting Friday we have to know for sure one way or the other by then. It's not the sort of thing that league officials or coaches will decide from game to game. Once we say yes or no to the proposed tie-breaker idea that will be the way the league goes all season."

The proposal is a rather radical one, by football standards, and as Smothers pointed out does not look like something you will see in effect in SAL games this fall. However, it and the league's new plan for deciding deadlocks in the SAL standings are signs that the chaos which happened to the San Antonio League football scene last fall won't happen again. On that point, everyone connected with the league should be pleased.

Ali, Joe get in final shots

MANILA (AP) — Muhammad Ali fired off his final taunts and Joe Frazier let the smoke burn inside himself Monday in the smoldering hours before their 15-round rubber battle for the heavyweight boxing championship of the world.

"The showdown has come," bellowed an emotionally charged Ali, the self-proclaimed instrument of Allah, turning the occasion into a burlesque road show. "Come early. Joe Frazier may sit down before you do.

"This fight will be the complete annihilation of Joe Frazier. It may end before the first round."

Frazier only gritted his teeth and punched the bag a little harder. From the ring, where he held his final workout, he told some 5,000 Filipinos:

"On Wednesday, you will have a new champion."

The defending champion, Ali, was in full voice and high spirits while the one-time titleholder and challenger, Frazier, maintained a tremendous calm and refused any brash predictions of an early knockout.

"The fight will go one to 15 rounds," he said hoarsely. "I will be there. I ain't going nowhere."

The bout is scheduled Wednesday at 10:45 a.m., local time (tonight 7:45 p.m., PDT, in the United States) in the 25,567-seat indoor coliseum. If every seat is taken as promoters predict, ranging from $330 for ringside to $4 in the gallery, the gate would be more than $1.8 million, an indoor record.

Additionally, closed circuit TV is being beamed to 68 countries, including the Soviet Union, and with 380 locations in the United States alone, poses potential revenues of $22 million to $30 million.

"Seven hundred million people may watch this fight," said Don King, the flamboyant, imaginative one-time Ohio numbers king and former convict who has emerged as boxing's modern P.T. Barnum.

"No fight in the past has been witnessed by so many people paying such a price."

Ali is guaranteed $4.5 million against 43 per cent of the gross, Frazier $2 million against 22 per cent. If the extravaganza meets King's expectations, Ali can take home as much as $9 million and Frazier $5 million.

Ali, is the 2-1 favorite based on his eighth-round knockout of big George Foreman to regain the title in Zaire last Oct. 30 and subsequent victories in the past year over Chuck Wepner, Ron Lyle and Joe Bugner.

Frazier, the Philadelphia slaughterhouse butcher who won the title in 1970 and lost it in Kingston, Jamaica, Jan. 22, 1972, when Foreman crushed him in two rounds, has had only two fights since losing a 12-round non-title decision to Ali Jan 28, 1974. He stopped Jerry Quarry in five and Jimmy Ellis in nine.

One of the mysteries of the fight is how much speed and power the challenger has lost since his two bruising battles with Ali, the first won in a 15-round decision, the second lost in 12.

"I have been pointing for this fight for eight months," Frazier said. "I have sacrificed and worked to get at this man again. I have it all together. I don't think I have ever been better."

Frazier weighed in at 214½ and Ali at 224½, both heavier than anticipated. Ali, supremely confident, boxed only one day during the past week, saying, "Why should I box? I know where Frazier will be. His head always will be in front of my fist."

Informed of the champion's comment, Frazier responded: "I know where he is going to be, too. I got the best handlers in the world."

Ali, at 33 two years older than his opponent and a superb 6-foot-3 athlete with dancing feet and quick hands, has indicated he will come out fighting instead of back-pedaling, with the intention of scoring an early knockout.

A comparatively short man— 5-feet-11½—with stubby legs and huge thighs, Frazier does not depend heavily on boxing skills. He is a bore-in fighter, a buzz-saw who will take five shots to land one. His left hook is the most devastating weapon in a limited arsenal which has brought him a 32-2 record with 27 knockouts.

Fox shows fight

Tickets for tonight's championship fight are still available at the Fox Theater in downtown Pomona.

Reserved seats are $15. Doors to the theater open at 6 p.m. with the Muhammad Ali-Joe Frazier fight beginning at 7:30.

Stags have new offense

By BILL LANGLEY
PB Sports Editor

John Zinda is a busy man these days at Claremont-Mudd.

Besides all of the normal problems of a football coach, Zinda is installing a new offense for the Stags.

"It's a variation of the Wishbone with the same principles," Zinda said in trying to explain it at Monday's weekly football luncheon at The Castaway Restaurant. "We will still run out of the I formation."

Charlie Schuhmann, the former Bonita High star who is familiar with the Wishbone during his playing career at UCLA, was valuable in helping Zinda.

"Chris Parkson, a coach on my staff, used to coach Schuhmann at Bonita and thought he would be a great help to us," Zinda explained. "So we called Schuhmann and he did a fine job telling us about what makes the Wishbone tick. Schuhmann is on the coaching staff at Crespi High this season. I think he will make a fine coach."

While Zinda is excited about the offense, he realizes the defense was the main reason why the Stags won their opener, 7-3, at St. Mary's last week.

"Our defense played a perfect game," Zinda says, "and it has to carry us for a few weeks until we learn the offense. We have a long way to go yet."

Why did Zinda switch offenses?

"Our players are too small," he answered. "We couldn't block our opponents using the power offense I have used in previous years."

Making the switch has been on Zinda's mind.

"I feel like a brand new coach," he laughed.

The Stags totaled only 160 offensive yards at St. Mary's with sophomore tailback Jimmy Reed accounting for 106 of them on 10 carries.

For his efforts, Reed was selected the College Player of Week by the coaches and writers. Freshman tight end Mike Toomay of Chaffey College earned the JC honor.

Foothill Beverage Company of Pomona sponsors the college awards.

Toomay, a freshman from Claremont High, caught five passes for 48 yards in Chaffey's narrow 19-17 loss to Imperial Valley.

Quoting the coaches:

MAL EATON, MSAC: "We play at Harbor Saturday night. Harbor met Orange Coast last week in a game people predicted would be a battle of bowl contenders. Orange Coast won, 43-6, which indicates the type of powerhouse it must be. Harbor runs the ball well. This is our final non-conference game. I still think we have the potential of being one of the best MSAC teams. We will be settling on our starting teams this week and concentrate on our intensity. We need a win real bad to pull our football team together."

ROLAND ORTMAYER, La Verne: "We went to San Diego for an evening of fun but the University of San Diego was meaner than a snake. We didn't play up to our capabilities. We usually managed to do something wrong. We lost 192 yards on penalties trying to get even. This week, we host USIU. I've heard a lot about how USIU has been losing men but they have enough quality people. We've been lucky through the years against USIU and I would rather be lucky than good."

NO PLACE TO GO

Denver running back Jon Keyworth (32) finds no place to go as Packers Willie Buchanon and Jim Carter (50) meet him head on. Denver won the game, however, 23-13.

Bronco defense shines

DENVER (AP) — The heralded duel between Green Bay quarterback John Hadl and Denver's Charlie Johnson never came off, nor did the running battle between John Brockington and Otis Armstrong.

Both John and Armstrong were sidelined early in Monday night's National Football League game, leaving it up to reserve quarterback Steve Ramsey and an alert Denver defense to star in the Broncos' 23-13 victory.

Ramsey, thrust into action late in the second quarter after Johnson suffered a split nail on the index finger of his throwing hand, passed 10 yards to Jack Dolbin for a touchdown and guided the Broncos into position for the clinching score. Jim Turner's third field goal of the game.

The TD pass was made possible by linebacker Jim O'Malley's interception near midfield and return to the Packer 12-yard line.

After Hadl passed the Packers to within 16-13 late in the game, middle linebacker Randy Gradishar came up with another defensive gem, picking off a Hadl pass and running 44 yards for a score with 40 seconds remaining.

It was Hadl who almost single-handedly made a game of it in the late stages. His aerial wizardry helped atone for a meager Packer ground game that accounted for just 71 yards in the face of a surprisingly sound Denver defense.

"Hadl was just superb," said Denver Coach John Ralston, whose team boosted its record to 2-0 with the triumph. "He did a masterful job. He picked us to pieces in the second half."

Although he finished with 23 completions in 36 attempts for 273 yards, Hadl had to endure a frustrating first half in which he was sacked four times for losses of 31 yards. On numerous other occasions he was forced into hurried throws by an onrushing Denver front four.

But his protection toughened in the second half and Hadl began hitting wide receiver Ken Payne with regularity. Payne caught four passes for 39 yards on the Packers' first scoring drive. Rookie running back Will Harrell caught the four-yard TD toss on the second play of the final period.

Satisfied with the combination, Hadl and Payne hooked up three more times for 45 yards on Green Bay's next TD march. Green Bay reached the Denver two, but it took Brockington four cracks to reach the end zone, consuming precious minutes.

Still, the two interceptions proved to be Hadl's undoing.

Casey hangs 'em up for good

GLENDALE, Calif. (AP) — The "Old Perfesser" is dead.

Casey Stengel, one of baseball's most colorful and adored figures, succumbed to cancer Monday night at the age of 85— leaving a golden legacy for fans of all ages.

"It's just impossible to sum up what he's been to baseball," said a close friend, California Angel General Manager Harry Dalton, after learning of Stengel's death at Glendale Memorial Hospital.

"He popularized our game with so many people."

Stengel died at 10:58 p.m., PDT— only a few hours after a close friend had disclosed that the onetime manager had a rapidly spreading malignancy in the lymph glands. Stengel had been admitted to the hospital on Sept. 14 for tests.

The funeral arrangements are incomplete. He is survived by his widow, Edna, whom he married in 1924. They had no children.

'CASEY'

Stengel was a breathing legend. Perhaps more than any other figure in the history of the game, he earned the title of baseball's goodwill ambassador.

Casey raced into the Hall of Fame with his baseball exploits but it was only a small part of his exquisite contribution to the game he loved.

There are more diamond-like Stengel stories around than you can shake a bat at and countless witticisms from the language of "Stengelese" which he created with his gloriously fertile imagination.

Stengel never would say in a few words what he could say in a couple of hundred and anytime the grand old man of baseball held court, he always had his audience spellbound— and usually mystified— by his fractured syntax.

Stengel was always great in the clutch, Hall of Fame pitcher Warren Spahn once remembered.

"There's no doubt in my mind who is the most amazin' Met of them all," said the great pitcher when he played for Stengel on the old, uproarious New York Mets. "I can understand how he's become an image. Why he's so beloved. Why he's the greatest ambassador the game has ever known.

"That man is a marvel. He's unbelievable. I don't care how old he is. He's got all those young fellows beat by a mile. I've never seen a more understanding person. Or a more dedicated baseball man. Sure, he's a comedian. Sure he double talks. But he's plenty deep. And nobody knows more about this game. If you listen to him carefully and concentrate on what he's telling you, you can learn plenty. A fellow can get an education just being around him."

The sometimes-clownish Stengel leaped across baseball history, spanning the ancient and modern ages with equal ease. And throughout the colorful career that covered 56 years, the hawk-nosed figure produced an abundance of rich stories.

Once when he was managing Brooklyn he took off his hat on the field—and a swallow flew out of his hair.

Another time, at Boston, when his Braves, for a change, were ahead, it began to rain. Casey pointed toward the darkening sky and demanded the game be called. He was ignored until he pulled a flashlight from a pocket and began signalling his bullpen with it. He was ejected.

Sometimes, to demonstrate his shock at an umpire's decision, Stengel would keel over in a mock faint. Once when he used this ploy, umpire Beans Reardon did the same thing. "When I peeked outta one eye and saw Reardon lying on the ground, too, I knew I was licked," said Casey. "So I got up and walked away."

In 1947 Stengel, then 57, was steered to the subject of umpires in an interview. Soon Casey was pounding his desk and shouting. "Those umpires! They take years off a guy's life, believe me. I don't know what keeps me going, honest I don't. They'll be the death of me yet."

In tribute to his 56 years in baseball, Stengel won a niche with the game's other immortals in the Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, N.Y.

He managed the New York Yankees to stunning triumphs and piloted the expansion Mets in the most poignant part of their young history.

Stengel, enshrined in the Hall of Fame when he was 76, managed 37 years, including 25 in the major leagues.

Prior to his years of glory with the Yankees, Stengel had managed the old Brooklyn Dodgers and the old Boston Braves.

Charles Dillon Stengel resigned as the Mets' field boss in 1965 after breaking his hip in a fall. His career managerial mark showed 1,926 victories and 1,867 defeats for a winning percentage of .508. He produced 10 American League pennant-winners and seven World Series titles with the Yankees. He won as many as 103 games one season, 1954, but ironically his team finished second when the Cleveland Indians won more games.

Pros are shortchanged by time

WASHINGTON (AP) — Professional athletes are shortchanged by the traditional channels of collective bargaining because their careers are so short, according to the head of the National Football League Players Association.

The chairman of the House labor-management subcommittee said legislation to expedite cases brought by athletes before the National Labor Relations Board might be in order because of the current NFL labor controversy.

Rep. Frank Thompson Jr., D.-N.J., the panel chairman, said the subcommittee would hear Thursday's testimony by representatives of the NFL Management Council before making recommendations.

Ed Garvey, executive director of the NFL Players Association, told the subcommittee Monday an increasing number of players believe collective bargaining does not work "because of the enormous power of the league owners as opposed to players whose careers span but 4½ years and who have no protection if they are discriminated against because of their union activities.

"Four and a half years is the average, and while we know that there are many exceptions to that rule, we must look at the bulk of the membership to determine whether or not the economic weapons of a union can be used in the context of professional sports," he continued.

"An additional problem is that once a player has missed a year, it is extremely difficult for him to return to the sport. He loses his timing, other players come in to take his place, and the coaches do not want to take a chance.

"Thus, to suggest to a professional football player that the owners will cancel the season if there is a strike really is a threat to cancel his entire career as a professional athlete," he said.

Garvey said the union filed charges against the owners with the NLRB as a result of the 42-day strike in 1974 which came after negotiations over a new contract broke down.

"It took almost a year from the date of filing the charges until complaints were issued," he said. "By the time charges were issued, the union may well have gone under since the owners refused to check off dues, continued to undermine the leadership and continued in their refusal to bargain.

"We currently are in hearings in New York but it will be at least two more years before the cases are resolved because the owners are going to appeal any decision to the circuit court," he said.

The union got a sympathetic reception from some House members.

Rep. John B. Buchanan Jr., R-Ala., a member of the House Education and Labor Committee, said that "some legislative remedy may be necessary" to resolve the players' plight.

"I agree," said Thompson. "We believe the decision-making process (of the National Labor Relations Board) can be expedited."

Testifying with Garvey were union president Kermit Alexander, who was cut by the Philadelphia Eagles last year after 11 years in the league, and Washington Redskins' Roy Jefferson and Jerry Smith.

Wilt tries to clear slate

LOS ANGELES (AP) — When 7-foot-1 Wilt Chamberlain shows up for his promised practice with the Los Angeles Lakers everyone will know he's there.

Some will wonder why. Others might wish he weren't.

Chamberlain, 30, out of National Basketball Association competition for two years, moved back into the spotlight when the New York Knickerbockers asked permission to talk to him.

The Los Angeles Lakers said he had a year of playing time remaining which was alloted to them.

"I'll report to the Los Angeles practice," said Wilt. "I'll see what they want to do with me."

He spoke through his attorney, Sy Goldberg, and the obvious inference could be, "Why hassle me when you've got Kareem Abdul-Jabbar?"

Goldberg said, "Wilt is going to report to the Lakers. He'll go to their camp today or Wednesday. Apparently the Lakers think that Wilt owes the Lakers a year's worth of playing time. Wilt doesn't want to owe anybody anything."

Jack Kent Cooke, owner of the Lakers and other major sports enterprises, admitted he had talked with Goldberg and said, "Wilt Chamberlain owes the Lakers one year of playing services by way of the NBA option clause. The Lakers expect him to fulfill the terms of that option clause."

Chamberlain expects to be paid $450,000 for the option year and Jabbar was signed as center for the Lakers at $500,000 per annum. The Chamberlain salary would appear to be too much for a backup center.

Still Wilt says that, of this moment, he's not interested in playing for the Knickerbockers. But he wants to be in the position of talking contract to anybody as a free man.

"I talked to Mr. Cooke and told him Wilt is ready to report for practice and his intentions are strictly to play for the Lakers," Goldberg said. "Mr. Cooke informed me that he is close to a deal with the Knicks and I told him that at this time Wilt has no intention of going with the Knicks."

Chamberlain, only NBA player ever to score 100 points in a game, joined Los Angeles for the 1968-69 season in a trade with Philadelphia.

He played five season for the Lakers including the 1971-72 title campaign. Two years ago he left to join the San Diego Conquistadors of the rival American Basketball Association as player-coach. He coached but the Lakers won a court suit against his playing — claiming he owed them the playing time. Then Chamberlain announced his retirement.

"We think he paid his debt to the NBA by not playing for the Q's that year," Goldberg said. "So what are the Lakers going to do?

"Wilt wants to be absolutely free at sometime in his life. He wishes to clear his obligations to the Lakers if any exist."

NFL execs meet

CHICAGO (AP) — The Executive Committee of the National Football League's Management Council held a four-hour meeting Monday.

The group will appear Thursday before the House Labor-Management Relations subcommittee in Washington, but a spokesman said Monday's meeting was not called because of that appearance, although he conceded the "matter was kicked around."

"Our basic interest is to play football games, and the meeting was more for conversation rather than making decision."

Last Tuesday, negotiations between the Management Council and the NFL Players Association broke off with the union taking the owners' latest contract offer to the rank and file for a vote without recommendation.

Of the 25 teams to vote on the contract, 22 voted against it, many unanimously.

"In the aftermath of what happened last week," the spokesman said, "the prospect emerged of playing another season without a contract."

The players went on strike during the 1974 exhibition season and when they were unable to agree on a new contract, they played the regular season without one. They are still playing without a contract.

WALT AMBORD, Pomona-Pitzer: "USIU is a real fine football team. The people they have are football players. You can tell by their muscles. I thought our pass secondary did a fairly good job. We're about two or three games away yet. We anticipate another tough game against Azusa Pacific. We have everything going against us. We hope to make it respectable and make it a good game."

ANDY VINCI, Cal Poly: "We're obviously pleased with our 3-0 record. We played a great game on defense in blanking Northern Arizona. We were well-disciplined, having only one penalty all night. This was the first time one of my teams didn't score a touchdown in a game. But if you can say that and still win, you're all right. Our weakness in the game was our passing and we're working on that. Sacramento State will be another tough test for us this week. Sacramento enjoyed a big upset win over Nevada-Reno."

ZINDA: "We visit Cal Lutheran this week and look at this game like a Mt. Everest. We'll take the challenge and give it a try. Cal Lutheran will give our offense a great test. Our players are working together this year which is a welcome relief."

JERRY SCONCE, Azusa Pacific: "We started out with a lot of fun in our Occidental game but one official didn't show up. I never want to play with three officials again. Our defense did an awesome job and our offensive line really did a job. Don't let Walt (Ambord) lull you. Pomona has one of his finest football teams in my four years at Azusa Pacific. Our main concern is having enough people to play a good game. We're physically injured in key spots."

WILLIE RICHARDSON, Chaffey: "Losing a game the way we did after time ran out was a sorrowful loss for us. We lost it because of a pass interference penalty. If we had let the guy catch the ball, we would have won. It was a real hard loss to swallow but it should bring the team together. Imperial Valley was a good, balanced team. We'll approach Barstow this week the same way. We know Barstow has some explosive individuals."

Vermeil isn't awed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Dick Vermeil is only a second year head coach at UCLA while Woody Hayes has become a legend in 24 seasons at Ohio State.

But Vermeil says he'll feel no awe when he and the Bruins face Hayes and Ohio State at the Coliseum Saturday night in a nationally televised game.

"I've been on the same field as Lombardi and Landry Ewbank and Shula. I worked with George Allen and Chuck Knox. These guys are all great," Vermeil said.

"He's great," Vermeil said of Hayes.

"I'm excited to be coaching against him, but neither Woody nor I will play a down. I'm very pleased I'll have the opportunity to coach against him, that's nice to have.

"But I'm not the least bit awed by it."

The 38-year-old Vermeil is 24 years younger than Hayes' who is in his 30th season as a head coach.

Vermeil took over at UCLA in 1974 leaving the Los Angeles Rams of the National Football League where he was an assistant to Knox.

He earlier served at Stanford with John Ralston, now head coach of the Denver Broncos, was an assistant to Allen with the Rams and worked with Tommy Prothro at UCLA.

Vermeil spoke of Hayes' tradition as a disciplinarian Monday, calling it a mark of an Ohio State team.

"Hayes has built a great foundation of discipline. His players on a bad day will play well because of that discipline established over a period of years," Vermeil said.

"I think maybe his players are scared to death to make a mistake."

The Bruins are ranked 13th in The Associated Press Poll. Both Vermeil and Hayes feel Ohio State should be No. 1 instead of its No. 2 rating.

"I vote the Buckeyes No. 1," said Vermeil.

"When you're the best team in the country, you're great, that's all."

Vermeil said the polls and national television will add incentive to Ohio State while the Buckeyes will give his Bruins a different type of incentive.

"We'll have to play perfect football to win," said Vermeil.

"When you play the best it better bring out the best in you."

The Bruin coach said there was another point of the intersectional meeting — a sort of faceoff between 1974 Heisman Trophy winner Archie Griffin of Ohio State and John Sciarra, the quarterback the Bruins are promoting for the award this year.

"If John had a great game against Ohio State that would help since one of his leading opponents is on the field against him," Vermeil said.

Then Vermeil said something he's said before. "Sciarra, I think, is the best college football player in the country."

So are three other managers

Weaver is rehired

By Associated Press

Earl Weaver, Red Schoendienst and John McNamara are all going back to hear the cheers next year. Danny Ozark is going back, too, but may hear some jeers.

Weaver, Schoendienst and McNamara are among the latest baseball managers to sign for the 1976 season. Ozark has been brought back to fulfill the end of his two-year contract despite voices of anger in Philadelphia.

Weaver, one of the most successful managers in baseball, not unexpectedly signed for another season with the Baltimore Orioles for a healthy contract estimated at $85,000.

"There are other managerial jobs opening up," said Baltimore General Manager Frank Cashen, pointing to weekend firings in Minnesota and Milwaukee. "If Earl really wanted to hold out, maybe he could have done better elsewhere."

But Weaver did not want to go elsewhere, as he pointed out after signing for his ninth season with the Orioles.

"Cashen knows that I'd rather stay in with Baltimore than go any other place," Weaver said.

Since replacing Hank Bauer as Baltimore manager in July, 1968, Weaver has guided the Orioles to a 724-477 record for a won-lost percentage of .60283. That beats out Cincinnati's Sparky Anderson (.60269) for second place behind Joe McCarthy for managers with five or more years' experience since 1900. Among his accomplishments, Weaver boasts a World Series triumph.

The St. Louis Cardinals brought Schoendienst back for his 12th year. Under the unflappable redhead, the Cardinals have won 938 games and lost 835 for a percentage of .529. The Cardinals won two National League pennants and captured a World Series under the former Cardinal star.

"The 1975 season was the most disappointing I've had since I took over in 1965," said Schoendienst, whose Cardinals finished tied for third in the National League East. "Injuries were a part of the problems we had, but that's not an excuse. Our pitching staff is young and maybe we expected too much from them too soon."

McNamara pulled the San Diego Padres out of the cellar for the first time in the expansion club's history. The Padres finished with a 71-91 record for fourth place in the National League West.

Like Weaver and Schoendienst, McNamara signed a one-year contract.

Ozark will return to the Philadelphia Phillies for the second year of his contract, but it might not be a happy association if the boo-birds come out again in Veterans Stadium. They booed Ozark unmercifully most of last season, despite the fact that he had the Phillies in contention for the National League East. They finally finished second to the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Along with the Bronx Cheers from the fans, one Philadelphia columnist started an active campaign to have Ozark fired.

Sports briefs

MESA, Ariz. (AP) — Los Angeles Dodger pitcher Tommy John, trying to come back from a severe elbow injury last year, made his second successful pitching appearance Monday in the Arizona Instructional League.

John, who hurled three hitless innings in his first full speed try last week pitched four innings allowing no runs and no hits.

He walked two and struck out two against a team from the San Diego Padres.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Al Burleson of Washington and Danny Reece of Southern California, who made big plays to help their teams win Saturday, share the Pacific-8 Defensive Player of the Week award.

Burleson's contributions in a 14-13 victory over Navy included a 41-yard interception return for a touchdown and the deflection of an attempted two-point conversion pass. Reece took the national major college football lead in punt returning with 150 yards on four opportunities in the Trojans' 19-6 victory over Purdue.

California's Chuck Muncie won the week's offensive honors, totaling 203 yards rushing and receiving in a 33-21 victory over Washington State.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Herb Lusk who scored four touchdowns for Long Beach State and quarterback Roger Profitt who passed for two scores and ran for a third for San Jose State against Stanford were named offensive players of the week Monday by the Pacific Coast Athletic Association.

Lusk also ran for 209 yards in the 49ers' 28-12 victory over Pacific. Profitt threw for 258 yards leading San Jose to its 36-34 upset of the Cardinals.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Former Penn State quarterback Tom Shuman signed Monday with the Philadelphia Bell of the World Football League.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The National League's 1975 total attendance was 377,821 below last season's, although seven of the 12 clubs showed increases and two teams set all-time records.

The Atlanta Braves' gate showing, 534,675 paid admissions compared to 981,085 in 1974, was the major reason for the falloff. But the Braves drew more fans than the financially troubled San Francisco Giants, whose 522,919 total was a slight increase over last year.

Total league attendance, according to figures released Monday, was 16,600,493 led by the Los Angeles Dodgers' 2,539,349 and the Cincinnati Reds' 2,315,603. The Dodgers drew slightly less than last season, but the Reds' total was a club record.

The San Diego Padres' 1,281,747 also was a club record. The Chicago Cubs, New York Mets, Philadelphia Phillies and Pittsburgh Pirates joined the Reds, Giants and Padres in showing increases over last season.

GETTING IT TOGETHER — Guillermo Vilas of Argentina takes a minute to gather himself together before Arthur Ashe decisioned him 6-0, 7-6 in Fireman's Fund International tournament.

Ashe changes game to win 9th tourney

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Arthur Ashe hit the ball hard all week then turned to an assortment of chops, slices, and lobs to win the big one over Guillermo Vilas of Argentina.

Ashe's 6-0, 7-6 victory Monday night at the Cow Palace for the $16,000 first prize was the second in a row for the Wimbledon champion who won the Pacific Southwest at Los Angeles a week ago. He has won nine of 23 1975 tennis tournaments with earnings of $256,850.

"It looks like slop, but it's not slop," Ashe told newsmen who asked about his heavy reliance of soft shots. "What difference does it make how you play — you play whatever way you can to win."

He said his strategy was geared to his left-handed opponent's topspin shots and because he wanted the Argentinian to come up from the back court. "Guillermo likes to slide into the ball, and he can't do it on this (artificial) surface," Ashe said.

One power tool in the varied arsenal of Ashe, the big serve, was not changed and proved a major factor. He scored 15 points on serves Vilas was unable to return. Nine came on aces, with two aces and a near-ace in the 7-4 tiebreaker.

Vilas, at 23 nine years younger than Ashe, said he "didn't play tactically right." He said he was "hitting the ball too hard and trying to play too much near the line" in the early going. He lost the first eight games.

He admitted Ashe's slices bothered him and noted, "Ashe was hitting a lot of lines."

Vilas' runner-up finish in the Fireman's Fund International here increased his leading Grand Prix point total to 700. Ashe moved up to third with 475, passing Bjorn Borg of Sweden and second to Manuel Orantes of Spain who has 589. Vilas' $8,000 prize here boosted his 1975 earnings to $109,525.

The crowd of 9,176 was stunned when Ashe swept through the first five games, losing only one point on his two services and breaking Vilas' service in deuce games. In the last game of the set Vilas surprised by taking the first three points with Ashe serving, but Ashe then served consecutive aces and ran off three more points for the love set.

Vilas started the second set with a double-fault and served two more double-faults as Ashe broke him in a deuced game. The third game also went to deuce and Vilas had two more double-faults, but pulled it out for his first game of the match.

The Argentinan had only two aces in the match and only five other serves Ashe didn't get back. He had missed on his first service 35 times to Ashe's 13 when they reached the tiebreaker.

Vilas said he wasn't too disturbed by his serving because "I don't depend on that. You can't concentrate so much on your serve."

Upsets pro

MISSION VIEJO, Calif. (AP) — Lea Antonoplis, a 16-year-old Glendora, Calif. High School star, upset veteran touring pro Wendy Paisch of Australia in the Women's Pro Tennis Classic first round.

Playing as an amateur, Miss Antonoplis took a 4-6, 6-0, 6-2 victory.

She is scheduled to face topseeded Chris Evert in Wednesday's round at the Marguerita Recreation Center.

Playoff teams well matched

NEW YORK (AP) — You couldn't find more evenly matched teams than those in the baseball playoffs which start Saturday.

The Cincinnati Reds and Pittsburgh Pirates, contenders for the National League pennant, split a 12-game series during the 1975 season.

The West-winning Reds and East champion Pirates were so closely matched during the season, in fact, that they scored the same amount of runs—55.

The Oakland A's, champions in the West, and the East-winning Boston Red Sox similarly each won six games of their 12-game American League series. But the A's showed more explosive bat power, outscoring the Red Sox 67-50 during the season.

The home field advantage was significant in each case— with each of the teams holding a 4-2 edge at home. This could come into play next week since the defending World Champion A's will play three of the fivegame set in Oakland and the Pirates also will have that extra game at home.

The playoffs open with two-game sets over the weekend in Boston and Cincinnati.

Jerry Reuss, who won three of four games from the Reds during the season, and Jim Rooker, who started and lost a game to Cincinnati, will pitch the first two games—but not necessarily in that order.

Gary Nolan, the only Cincinnati pitcher to beat Pittsburgh twice this year, ironically probably won't start any of the first two games. Sparky Anderson has said he'll probably open with two left-handers against the East champions—Don Gullett and Fred Norman.

In the American League series, Boston Manager Darrell Johnson has named Luis Tiant as his opening day pitcher. He beat the A's twice without a loss this season. Either Rick Wise (1-1 against Oakland) or Reggie Cleveland (also 1-1 with the A's) will pitch the second game.

The A's are going with Ken Holtzman on Saturday and probably Vida Blue on Sunday. Holtzman won two of three decisions from Boston this season and Blue was 1-1.

Morgan wants award

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Morgan, the Cincinnati Reds' peppery second baseman, says he would be happy to accept the National League's Most Valuable Player award, even though some of his black colleagues have indicated other blacks might turn it down.

"I will gladly accept the National League's MVP Award if I win it," Morgan said Monday, "because I feel I will have deserved it."

Recently, Bobby Bonds of the American League's New York Yankees and Willie Stargell of the NL Pittsburgh Pirates, both blacks, hinted that if a black player was named the NL's MVP, that player might turn it down.

"If Joe Morgan wins the MVP Award in the National League this year, he will be one of the few black ballplayers to accept it," Bonds, a former National Leaguer playing his first season in the AL, was quoted as saying.

"I will not accept the award," said Stargell, who twice—in 1971 and 1973—was considered a strong candidate for the MVP but finished second, behind Joe Torre of St. Louis and Pete Rose of Cincinnati, both white.

In fact, white players have won the last five NL MVP Awards and blacks have finished second. In addition to Torre and Rose, the winners were Johnny Bench of Cincinnati in 1970 and 1972 and Steve Garvey of Los Angeles in 1974. The runners-up, besides Stargell, were Billy Williams of Chicago in 1970 and 1972 and Lou Brock of St. Louis last year.

"I'm aware of the black versus white situation over the last few years," said Morgan, who has impressive credentials for this year's MVP Award. "It's a funny situation, a complicated issue.

"I don't think anyone has done more to help his team win than I have," he added.

This probably was Morgan's best year in his 13 seasons in the major leagues. He batted a career high of .327, fourth best in the National League; drove in a career high 94 runs; scored 107, also fourth best in the NL; stole 68 bases, another career best and second highest in the league, and rapped 27 doubles, six triples and 17 home runs.

"I feel an MVP should be a player on a team that wins," said Morgan. No team in the majors won more games this season than the Reds. They won the NL West title with a 108-54 record, the third highest victory total in league history.

Morgan's stiffest competition for the MVP is expected to come from three of his teammates—Rose, Bench and Tony Perez—plus Philadelphia's Greg Luzinski, and pitchers Tom Seaver of the New York Mets and Randy Jones of the San Diego Padres.

"I know Joe Morgan," said Williams. "He has a lot of pride and I think he would accept the award. But don't be surprised if the award goes to Bench or Luzinski. If by some chance Joe wins it, fine. But if he doesn't, then he'll know what the rest of us went through and how we feel."

The last black to win the NL's MVP was Willie McCovey of San Francisco in 1969. There have been several other black winners since Jackie Robinson broke the color line in 1947.

Morgan was in New York to receive the Seven Crowns of Sports Award as the best baseball player for 1975. His selection was based on impartial and objective statistical

'HERstory in HIStory'

Sweet Adelines do annual show

By JOSEPH H. FIRMAN

The annual show of the Pomona Valley chapter of the Sweet Adelines, staged Saturday night at Ontario High School, was a wild, wacky musical revue replete, as all good barber shop shows are, with fine singing, sentiment and corny humor. ("Let's go down to the rock pile, honey, I'm a little bolder there.")

The comedy, entitled "HERstory in HIStory," was the Sweet Adelines' Bicentennial salute to the place of women in American history. (Mrs. Franklin: "Come in out of that thunderstorm, Benjamin, you're making a spectacle of yourself!") By one of those convolutions that only happen in barber shop shows, the "fem-cee" was an English lass, Joan Taylor. ("The discovery of America was an accident — but not a serious one.")

The Sweet Adelines, directed with vigor and sensitivity by the irrepressible Lois Whitney, offered fine balance, sharp attack and release and rich blending. They belted an opening "I Am!" with robust power, and sang a moody, caressing "The Song Is Ended."

The Sounds of Harmony, made up of Doreen Keepers, Charlotte Nelson, Dee DeFrank and Joanne McGrath, entertained with skillful renditions of "Goody-Goodbye," "Color Him Gone," "Blue Skies" and others. The hilarious Norse Winds were at their comic and musical best with "Nobody Does It Like Me," "A Pretty Girl" and "The Donkey Serenade." The members are Lois Whitney, Ruth Emily, Chris Peurifoy and Mrs. Taylor.

A welcome interlude was offered by the Occidentals, Far Western District champions of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America. A polished and amiable quartet, Russ Walker, Nick Papageorge, Peter Beers and Kevin Smith gave smooth interpretations of "Zippy-de-do-da," "She Didn't Say No," "It's the Girl" and the bathetic "Mother Dear."

Mary O'Neil read John Mitchum's poem, "Why I Love Her" to the accompaniment of a rather frenetic slide show of colored views of America.

The Sweet Adelines chorus wound up the evening with a fusilade of stirring patriotic tunes — "God Bless America," "This Is My Country" and "Battle Hymn of the Republic."

The show was a lot of fun.

MERRY MINSTREL — Comedian Groucho Marx, "a national monument to irreverence," will be 80 on Thursday. Still going fairly strong, he will be honored at a star-studded luncheon to be given by the Friends of the USC Library at USC on Oct. 12.

Groucho Marx

Amazed to be 80

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Did you know that I'll be 80 years old on Oct. 2? Isn't that amazing?"

Of course, Groucho. And it's cause for celebration that Groucho Marx is alive and fairly well and living in accustomed luxury in Trousdale Estates.

The birthday will be observed Oct. 12 with a star-filled luncheon in his honor by the Friends of the Library at the University of Southern California.

"I've written six books, and I never finished public school," he comments wonderingly. Curiously, his immense contributions to American humor have never been rewarded with an honorary degree from any university. Bob Hope has 31.

A visit to Groucho is always a delight, and he was in good form at a prebirthday lunch at his home.

In some ways he exhibits his ample years. No more the loping walk. His steps are deliberate, his frame stooped. The words don't come with the same rattling speed — nor as scathingly.

But he is still Groucho, a national monument to irreverence.

"I no longer smoke, drink nor make love," he remarked (expletive deleted). "I gave up cigars five years ago, figuring that I was too old to smoke.

"Not drinking hasn't bothered me; I was only a one-drink man, anyway. As far as making love, age took care of that."

He sat down to a hearty lunch accompanied by apple cider ("I read in the New York Times that it was good for old people"). As he sliced the chicken breast he mused, "My mother was a lousy cook. My father was a great cook. But he was a lousy tailor."

Groucho had a coughing spell, and the ever-present Erin Fleming asked if he had taken his cough medicine. Twice, he replied.

Miss Fleming, an attractive brunette with a sharp mind, has been guardian of the Marx legend for several years. She watches his health, makes deals for books, merchandize licensing, TV reruns, etc., collecting a 15 per cent fee as manager.

Her only complaint is that she would like to get married, and Groucho keeps scaring off her potential suitors.

"My quiz show went on Channel 5 here as a 13-week experiment, and now it's the most popular program on an independent station," Groucho remarked proudly. Indeed, rerelease of the 1951-1961 "You Bet Your Life" series has caused a new wave of Grouchomania.

Even though the films are in black-and-white, the Marxian dialogue retains its color, and "You Bet Your Life" is now appearing on 44 channels, including the top 18 markets.

Groucho himself has been watching the reruns every night and the afternoon showings as well. He claims to remember each of the shows, and he comments on how he could have improved his performance.

Nowadays he rarely joins the fabled comedians' roundtable at Hillcrest Country Club, the ranks of comedians having grown thinner. He lunches at home at 1 p.m. sharp, watches reruns of his show and Jack Benny's ("A fine man, and a great comedian").

After a late-day rest, Groucho dines with friends or goes to a movie. He enjoys the films of Mel Brooks and Woody Allen, both of whom he considers "brilliant."

Refusing to live in the past, Groucho spends time with such admirerers as Bill Cobsy, Marvin Hamlisch, Jack Nicholson and Bud Cort ("Harold and Maude"), the latter a current houseguest. But there is no mistaking Grouch's sense of loss as he walks down a hallway-gallery and points to photos of Al Jolson, Jack Benny, Edward G. Robinson, Harry Ruby, and especially his late brother Harpo, "a wonderful man."

Groucho talked of meeting another old friend, Charlie Chaplin, when Chaplin was here for his honorary Oscar last year. "You know the advice he gave me? He said, 'Keep cool.'" said Groucho.

"No, he said, 'Keep warm.'" Erin corrected.

"So what's the difference?"

VCT slates auditions

Valley Community Theater will hold open tryouts for "The House of Blue Leaves" at the theater, 132 E. Third St., Pomona, from 1 to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

John Guare's satiric comedy has roles for five men and six women. George Mirales will direct.

"House" will open Nov. 6 and play Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays through Dec. 6 except for Thanksgiving Day.

Currently playing at VCT is "Gypsy," the story of stripper Gypsy Rose Lee.

The musical, starring Martha Fuller, Andy Case, Lori Blackwell and Donna McCormick, goes at 8:30 Friday and Saturday nights. Reservations can be made at 622-6954.

BELEN, N.M. (AP) — Anthony Pope, a Belen High School student, recently wrote the U.S. Army about what courses he should pursue to prepare himself for a military career.

Col. E.B. Convington III, U.S. Army Recruiting Command, Ft. Sheridan, Ill., replied:

"Unfortunately, United States Army regulations prohibit the sending of recruitment information into a foreign country to other than American diplomatic officials without the consent of the foreign nation involved."

The Army officer's letter was addressed to Pope at 903 Chavez, Belen, N.M., 87002.

Belen is about 35 miles south of Albuerque.

Almanac

By The Associated Press

Today is Tuesday, Sept. 30, the 273rd day of 1975. There are 92 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1954, the first atomic-powered vessel, the submarine, "Nautilus," was commissioned by the U-S Navy.

On this date:

In 1787, the sailing ship, "Columbia," left Boston on the first voyage round the world by an American ship.

In 1846, ether was used for the first time as an anesthetic by a Boston dentist, Dr. William Morton.

In 1882, the first hydroelectric power station in the United States was opened at Appleton, Wisconsin.

In 1938, at a meeting in Munich, Germany, British and French leaders agreed to Nazi Germany's annexation of Czechoslovakia's Sudetenland.

In 1946, an international military tribunal in Nuernberg, Germany, found 22 top German Nazi leaders guilty of war crimes, and eleven were sentenced to death.

In 1971, the United States and the Soviet Union signed pacts designed to avoid accidental nuclear war.

Ten years ago: The Soviet Union came out strongly on the side of India in that country's dispute with Pakistan over Kashmir.

Five years ago: President Richard M. Nixon became the first American President to visit Communist Yugoslavia.

Thousands at S.F. rock festival

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — They came to Golden Gate Park by the tens of thousands, decked out in everything from swaddling clothes to aluminum foil.

It was a musical reincarnation of the flower-children spirit of the 1960s.

It was fun in the fog on a Sunday afternoon — and a counterpoint to a week full of news of Patty Hearst and the attempt on President Ford's life.

The Grateful Dead and Jefferson Starship filled the park with rock music, together in a free Golden Gate Park concert for the first time since the late 1960s.

Organizers of the concert, a coalition of religious, political and community groups staging a "Unity Fair," estimated the crowd at 40,000 to 50,000 persons.

They squeezed into Lundley Meadow and spilled onto roads and hillsides and climbed trees and sat picnic-style on the damp grass.

Soap bubbles, balloons and marijuana smoke floated above a sea of bobbing heads, and Frisbees sailed through the fogwet air.

"If every day were like this, we wouldn't have anything to worry about," said Steve Severdia, 26, of nearby San Anselmo.

"Look at everyone here — it's really mellow," he said.

A young woman, a smiling sun painted in orange on her forehead, heard him, turned and smiled.

Behind the stage a pregnant woman was going into labor.

"If there's a doctor in the house, would he please come backstage?" someone announced from the stage. "There's a woman having a baby back there."

The crowd cheered.

The woman in labor was taken to a hospital.

Clothing ranged from jeans to black evening dresses and highheeled shoes. Babies dozed or watched wide-eyed.

A woman wandered through the crowd, wearing a headpiece of yellow and white aluminum foil and green cellophane.

The Jefferson Starship played first. And while the stage was prepared for the Grateful Dead, a speaker espoused the value of meditation. Then another said that the "Unity Fair" was in honor of the San Quentin Six, on trial for murder.

An important part of the popularity of aluminum in and around the house is that it is by nature a low maintenance material. But aluminum products do become dirty and require occasional cleaning.

Because harsh abrasives do more harm than good, the rule of thumb about cleaning aluminum is to use the least strong cleaner that will still do the job. The No. 1 choice, therefore, is water and, for that, water and mild soap.

Aluminum siding can be effectively cleaned with a long-handled brush, pail and hollow-handled garden hose used for washing. Experts make a practice

Decorations and medals honor persons who have performed deeds of bravery or distinguished service.

In the United States the highest military award for valor is the Medal of Honor. This decoration of great honor is awarded to any member of the Armed Forces who distinguishes himself by gallantry and courage "above and beyond the call of duty."

The award is presented by the President in the name of Congress.

The first medals of honor were awarded in 1863. Since that time, more than 3,000 medals have been awarded.

The nation's highest civilian award is the Presidential Medal of Freedom. It honors those "who contribute significantly to the quality of American life."

Almost every nation awards decorations for exceptional feats by its citizens.

The Victoria Cross is Britain's highest military award. The highest honor a Canadian can win is the Canada Medal.

A pocket radio, camera, World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

Under her direction, recognition of other citizens of the valley for outstanding service to their communities has been given at two annual Boletin del Progreso banquets.

Hazard

Even a playful nip from a pet dog or cat may transmit a microscopic organism which can cause a nasty infection. A 10-year study at the Oregon State Public Health Laboratories showed the offending organism lives in the mouths of up to half of all healthy dogs and nearly three in four cats. Although the infection responds well to antibiotics, it is so common that often it is not diagnosed promptly, the study found.

Law school graduates act out cases in legal clinic

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The jury is made up of citizens, and recent law school graduates act as prosecution and defense attorneys.

The courtroom—with cases argued, won and lost—looks like the real thing but is only a clinic devised to help students make the transition to working professionals in the law.

Their performance is watched intently by veteran trial attorneys in both civil and criminal fields.

The Inn of the Court, which begins its second year Wednesday with 108 recent graduate lawyers participating, is a novel training project for which 120 other San Diegans have volunteered to be jurors.

In its inaugural session last year 200 new attorneys took part. Jurors judged them, as did the observers.

The founder, Superior Court Judge Louis M. Welsh, believes the detailed, courtroom-like procedure has proved valuable because law schools "only teach the law." Their students then must make it work, he noted in an interview.

Attorneys are unlike teachers "who have qualified in a particular field such as Egyptology," Welch said. "If a teacher has qualified for a doctorate in a particular field, he can function."

After each case is argued, the attorneys' performance is judged by the jury and the observers. Welsh has received letters from throughout the United States from judges and attorneys showing interest in the program.

There were 205 applications from new lawyers this year of whom slightly more than half were selected to participate in the program. It is considered important to hold the number down.

"We can't let the Inn get too big," Welsh said.

Man, 108, credits healthy parents

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Joseph Hepworth, who just turneed 108, says he credits his long life to "being born with healthy parents."

A group of high school students serenaded Hepworth at a birthday party Sunday at a convalescent hospital where he lives. He told them of his birth three miles from Leeds, England, in Yorkshire.

As one of eight children, he worked in his fathr's clothdyeing plant before coming to the United States and settling in Boston at the age of 18. He moved to San Diego at 48 and became a naturalized U.S. citizen at 80, working as "a jack of all trades."

At first, though, Hepworth was reluctant to talk.

"I won't answer any questions," he said, "unless I get a liverwurst sandwich on brown bread."

New arms limit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said Friday he plans to sound out Western European leaders on the possibility of reaching an agreement to limit the sale of arms to Persian Gulf nations.

Kissinger said he would bring up "the general proposition" of such an arms agreement in talks with European leaders, adding that there already have been "very general discussionss" on the subject.

The question of a moratorium on arms sales was raised by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., as Kissinger testified on foreign energy policy before Kennedy's economic subcommittee.

Kennedy said Saudi Arabia, Iran and other Persian Gulf countries purchased $4.4 billion in arms from American manufacturers last year and $4.3 billion already this year.

Leaper finds death on his second jump

CORONADO (AP) — Police say Thomas L. Larson dived off the 250-foot high San Diego-Coronado Bay Bridge and lived.

He climbed out of the water dripping wet and a few minutes later, he went over again, falling to his death Saturday night on rocks girding the landfall of the bridge.

A coroner's investigation was ordered into the death of Larson, 20, who lived in a San Diego apartment. His parents live in Remer, Minn.
